COMMUNITY FUND IS STILL $212,000 BELOW GOAL FIXED

Total Pledges Reported Last Night by the Various Teams of Solicitors Amount to $1,987,746.

FINAL MEETING SET FOR TOMORROW

Sidney Maestre, Chairman, Says "Avalanche of Subscriptions" Is Needed to Put Campaign Over.

With the Community Fund lacking $212,254 of its $2,200,000 goal and the campaign scheduled to end tomorrow night, volunteer workers are continuing to solicit subscriptions today and campaign headquarters at Hotel Statler are remaining open to receive money and pledges. A total of $1,987,476 was reported subscribed up to 9 o'clock last night.

Campaign Chairman Sidney Maestre stated that the fund will still be about $150,000 short of its goal tomorrow night even if expected subscriptions of between $50,000 and $75,000 are received from persons whose cards are still in the hands of solicitors.

"The only possible way in which that threatened shortage may be overcome," he said, "is through an avalanche of subscriptions from those who have never given before and additional pledges from those who have already given. We have weighed every factor carefully before making this statement. The situation is now before the public. No more can be said."

Phone and Mail Pledges.

Pointing out that it is impossible to solicit everyone personally, leaders of the campaign requested prospective donors to telephone CEntral 6900 for a solicitor or to mail subscriptions to Community Fund Headquarters, Hotel Statler.

A special appeal has been sent to about 20,000 persons who gave between $10 tnd $50 last year asking them to make additional emergency pledges to be considered apart from regular gifts.

Persons who have not been visited by solicitors may make donations through any bank tomorrow. All depositories in the city and country have been asked to receive Community Fund gifts and in many banks special tellers will be designated for this purpose.

The needs of those depending on the Community Fund and emergency measures being taken in an endeavor to insure the campaign's success will be described in radio addresses by Chairman Maestre and President Ethan A. H. Shepley at 4 p. m. today over Station KMOX.

6 PERSONS KILLED IN A WINDSTORM NEAR LOS ANGELES

Many Injured by Falling Trees and Debris and Three Are Reported Missing in Boat Off Coast.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 22.—Six persons were killed, many were injured, brush and forest fires broke out in several sections and heavy property damage was caused today by a terrific wind storm that swept Southern California. The wind reached a velocity of 85 miles an hour.

In Los Angeles, the fire department answered 80 alarms between 8 a. m. and 3 p. m. At a late hour a threatening fire started on the slopes of Mount Wilson and fire fighters were drafted from Sierra Madre and Alta Dena.

The dead:

Mrs. Lewis L. Dewey, 70 years old, Pasadena, blown against a brick wall.

Charles Davis, San Bernardino, County Forest Service dispatch rider, killed on his way to a brush fire in Waterman Canyon when his motorcycle collided with an automobile in a dust storm.

Howard Collins, 11, Bakersfield, almost decapitated by flying sheet iron.

Richard W. Lyons, 30, Huntington Park, and Mrs. Polly Morrison, 56, killed in an automobile crash in Riverside county in dust storm.

Luis Merenda, 13, Colton, electrocuted when wind blew down a 60,000 volt wire.

Many others were injured by falling trees and flying debris.

Just at dusk the wind completely demolished the old Mack Sennett motion picture studio, one of the first in Los Angeles.

Small boats moored off nearby beaches and at Catalina Island were endangered and a Coast Guard cutter was sent to search for three men reported missing in a small boat off Reondo Beach.

At Los Angeles harbor 5000 Naval and merchant sailors were marooned ashore, unable to rach their ships in the outer harbor. At Cabrillo Beach, near the harbor, several small power boats and yawls were swept ashore or against the breakwater.

In many instances automobiles were literally blown from the highways.

Several brush fires were raging at various points, one a very serious blaze in Waterman Canyon.

Wind damage at Pasadena and Altadena was estimated by police and fire officials at $250,000.

Mother Jones Suffers Relapse.

MAYOR FAVORS CLEARING PLAZA SITES AT ONCE

Has Obtained Legal Opinions on Subject Apparently Favorable — Work to Cost $40,000.

COMPTROLLER NOLTE OPPOSED PROPOSAL

Wanted Buildings to Remain on Memorial Land Until City Was Ready to Erect New Structures.

Following much recent discussion of the supposed desirability of clearing the sites of Aloe Plaza, opposite Union Station, and Memorial Plaza, in the City Hall district, although the city has no money with which to improve them, Mayor Miller yesterday let it be known that he would have the buildings removed forthwith if the action proved to be legally possible for him.

The Mayor said he was not ready to disclose what opinion he had received from the Law Department but it was learned that it stated that the city might proceed with the razing of buildings on property to which it now holds deeds, including all but three lots. This procedure may be authorized by the Board of Public Service and it appears probable that the Mayor will instruct this body, composed of five of his appointees, to clear the sites with the exception of the three pieces of property which have not been deeded to the city.

Title Within Few Weeks.

By proceeding with work only on property to which the city holds a deed, any possibility of a reversion to former owners is precluded should the property ever be put to other use. However, it is expected that title to all of both sites will be obtained within the next few weeks.

One city official said that he favored razing only vacant buildings, not disturbing those now occupied and providing revenue to the city. He suggested that this probably would be the decision of the Board of Public Service as far as immediate action is concerned.

A resolution calling for removal of the structures is pending in the Board of Aldermen. There has been much talk recently of the advisability of doing this work in order to relieve unemployment, but officials do not think more than 100 or 200 men would be needed for it, for a comparatively short period. The discussion has become one, partly of desire on the part of the public to see something physically tangible done towards establishing the two plazas, for sites of which bonds were voted in 1923.

Until yesterday, Mayor Miller had insisted, in conversations with reporters, that he had no intention of doing anything about the plazas at this time. It had been taken for granted at City Hall that Comptrolled Nolte had charge of real estate belonging to the city, and Nolte has opposed clearing Memorial Plaza, the larger of the two, because of a comparatively small net income from rents the city was receiving on old buildings and the absence of a fund to improve the place.

"It Wasn't Due to Threats."

About five or six days ago, the Mayor said yesterday, he requested opinions from the City Law Department as to what city official had authority to wreck the buildings and whether there were any legal obstacles in the way of razing those on the 85 per cent of the ground in Memorial Plaza and the whole Aloe Plaza, except two lots, which the city has acquired already by direct purchase. Asked why he had changed his attitude on the plaza question at this time, Mayor Miller said: "It wasn't due to threats," He would not say what it was due to but threatened that the buildings would not come down if pressure on him was continued.

Miller does not know how much it would cost to wreck the numerous structures, many of which are old and dingy, and he remarked, "I have nothing to do with the money for that," indicating that it would be for the Comptroller to provide the cash. The Mayor's office thinks it would cost $40,000 or more for the work and the removal contractor would take the desirable salvage, too. It was pointed out at City Hall that the salvage market is poor, precluding the likelihood that anyone would remove the building without any added cash charge, as had been done sometimes in the past.

Lieut. C. P. Talbot Tells of Thrilling Experience Over Wasatch Mountains.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 22.—A story of a thrilling fight with fog over the Wasatch Mountains, with a tailspin from a height of 14,000 feet out of which he righted his plane near the ground, was related today by Lieut. Clarence P. Talbot, commander of the 329th Observation Squadron, stationed here.

Flying to Salt Lake City from Denver Talbot became lost in a heavy fog and climbed to a 14,000 foot elevation to get over Mount Timpanogos, one of the highest peaks in the range.

"When I neared the Timpanogos the plane went into a spin," he said. "I made an attempt to jump, but the centrifugal force of the spinning plane glued me in the seat so I couldn't move. After dropping about 10,000 feet the fog thinned and I saw the side of Mount Timpanogos flashing past.

"I thought it was the last and tugged at the controls and by luck straightened out the ship when it was almost to the ground." When Lieut. Talbot reached the airport here he found he had only three gallons of gasoline in his tank.

HARVARD-YALE FOOTBALL BROADCAST STUMPS LONDON

English Listeners Fail to Understand Technical Description of Big Game.

By the Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 22.—A torrent of words describing the Yale-Harvard football game came tumbling over the Atlantic tonight from New Haven, but not in a fashion likely to add to Britain's expert knowledge of the American college game.

Local American fans had the big thrill of hearing the Yale Bowl go wild when Harvard scored her second touchdown and ran the score to 13-0. But to the English listeners the technical description was like so much Sanskrit. If the great English-speaking nations are to share each others' football culture, probably the only solution will be to have an Englishman resident in America to describe the games in terms of Rugby. Only the third quarter and part of the fourth came verbally to London, but the Eli men were ready to pay losses on what they heard.

SIX-HOUR DAY INDORSED BY RAIL UNION DELEGATES

Plan to Relieve Unemployment to Be Submitted to Brotherhoods at General Conference.

PROLONGED FIGHT FOR IDEA FORESEEN

Cleveland Meeting Dec. 4 Called to Work Out Details—26-Day Month Alternate Proposal.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Representatives of five major railway brotherhoods agreed today, after nearly two weeks of conference, to support a proposal for a six-hour day as a means of relieving unemployment in the ranks of rail workers.

From statements earlier in the conference here, it was understood that the wage scale now in force for an 8-hour day would be continued under the proposal for the six-hour day.

A. F. Whitney, president of the brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, made the announcement on behalf of his colleagues. At the same time, a formal statement was issued, presaging a general conference of interests involved, to discuss the shortened day and other proposed emergency measures.

A meeting is to be held at Cleveland Dec. 4 to work out plans for the conference. A long contest before definite decision on the proposed change in working hours can be made, was anticipated by the brotherhood executives. They adjourned after announcing their action.

The formal announcement said: "Representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, Conductors, Order of Railway Enginemen and Switchmen's Union of North America, who have been in session here to consider the unemployment situation, shorter work day and other subjects affecting railroad transportation, adjourned today after appointing a sub-committee of each organization with the chief executives to arrange a general conference of interests involved for the purpose of discussing, and, if possible, agreeing, upon measures of relief for the employes and upon a comprehensive program looking to the protection of the railroad industry as a whole.

"The chief executives have been authorized to take immediate steps to arrange for the proposed conference, and will meet at Cleveland on Dec. 4, for this purpose."

Seven men from each brotherhood were named to make up the sub-committee. The Cleveland meeting, it was indicated, would attempt to dispose of a proposal for a proposed 26-day month, which had been suggested as an alternative. The seven brotherhoods claim a membership of 350,000 out of 1,500,000 in the 21 unions numbering railwaymen.

After the Cleveland conference, Whitney said, proposals for a changed working-day would be submitted to railway executives. If these executives refused to act, the matter would go to the Federal mediation board. If no action came from that body, the president would be called upon to appoint an emergency arbitration board. Lacking a decision there, Congress would be called in.

These steps would be taken in accordance with the revised railway laws.

CAPITAL'S NEGRO POPULATION GROWS FASTER THAN WHITE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Women continue to outnumber men in the nation's capital, and the Negro population has been growing faster than the white.

Race, color and sex statistics of the 1930 census announced today by the Census Bureau for the District of Columbia, showed 1000 women here to every 909 men, as compared with 848 men to every 1000 women in 1920.

Negroes show a 20.1 per cent increase, compared with an 8.3 per cent increase in the number of whites. There now are 132,068 Negroes as compared with 109,966 10 years ago. They comprise 27.1 per cent of the total population, as compared with 25.1 per cent 10 years ago. The white population numbers 353,914, an increase of 27.054 in the 10 years as compared with a 22.102 increase in the number of Negroes. Ten years ago Washington had the third largest Negro population of any city in the country.

Museum's Fifth Reynolds Painting

$100,000 Reynolds Portrait Given to City Art Museum

Painting, Donated by James F. Ballard, Retired Capitalist, Is of Robert Drummond, Archbishop of York.

The gift to the City Art Museum of an important portrait by Sir Joshua Reynolds, the most prominent figure in the English school of painting, was announced yesterday by the Board of Control. Estimates of the value of the work range as high as $100,000.

The donor was James F. Ballard, retired capitalist, who gave his $250,000 collection of 70 Oriental rugs to the Art Museum last year. Eight years ago he gave a $440,000 rug collection to the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

The portrait, acquired by Ballard many years ago, is that of the Honorable and Most Reverend Robert Drummond, D. D., Archbishop of York and Chancellor of the Order of the Garter. It is regarded as an unusually fine and decorative example of the work of Reynolds and is catalogued on page 237 of Sir Walter Armstrong's work on Reynolds.

Three-Quarter Length.

It was in 1764 that the Archbiship sat in Reynolds' famed studio at 47 Leicester Square London, opened four years eariler. The painting is 50 by 40 inches, showing him at three-quarter length, dressed in the blue velvet robe of the Chancellor of the Order of the Garter and the white silk gown of the Archbishop. Additional color is added by the gold-decorated purse of the Lord High Almoner, held in the left hand, a twisted cord of gold and blue, a gold chain suspending a red cross and the gold garter buckle with its lettering, "Honi soit qui mal y pense," the motto of the Order of the Garter, "Evil to him who thinks evil."

The portrait hangs in gallery 16 and is the fifth Reynolds on display at the Art Museum. Two others, of John Julius Angerstein and Admiral Samuel Barrington, were purchased in 1922. Portraits of Sir James Esdaile and Mrs. Charles Ogilvie, the property of Washington University, have been lent to the museum.

The painter, born in 1723, was a pupil of Thomas Hudson but he was influenced greatly by his visit to Italy in 1749, where he spent three years in study of Titian, Veronese and other Italian masters. When George III organized the the Royal Academy in 1768, Reynolds became its president, and he was knighted a year later. He died in 1792 and was buried in St. Paul's.

Bit of Rare Carpet.

The gift of the portrait was accompanied by a fragment of a rare Ispahan carpet, measuring 44 by 59 inches and dating, probably, from the sixteenth century. Although much worn, it retains its color and design characterizing early Persian rugs and it is regarded as a valuable addition to a study collection.

Other gifts announced include an early American hooked rug, presented by Horace M. Swope, and a Royal Crown Derby cup and saucer and two Sevres cups and saucers, one of which bears the monogram of Louis Philippe, given by Mrs. George O. Carpenter.

WOMAN AND BROTHER KILL HER HUSBAND FOR INSURANCE

Philadelphia Pair Admit Murder Plot to Get $2000 on Solicitor's Life.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22. — Mrs. Clarence Grace Prophet and her brother, Harold Williams, police announced tonight, confessed having killed William F. Prophet, the woman's husband, to obtain $2000 life insurance, taken out several months ago.

Prophet, 49 years old, an advertising solicitor, was shot to death in the bedroom of his home, early today. In notifying police of her husband's death, Mrs. Prophet declared he had been attacked by a man, apparently a robber, who escaped.

According to police, Mrs. Prophet, 33, and Williams said they had planned the killing two weeks ago. Williams, the police said, was to receive $500 of the insurance money. He visited the Prophet home last night and left, they said, after obtaining a key.

Reconstructing the shooting, police said Williams entered the house about 4 o'clock this morning, went to the room where Prophet slept, struck him on the jaw and then shot him as he grappled with his assailant. After the shooting, police said, Williams left the house.

Her physician said she was suffering from laryngitis and conjunctivitis and would not permit her to go through with the matinee and evening performances. William Frank, manager of the company, said that as soon as Miss Barrymore sufficiently recovered, she would go to New York, where the play is to open next week.

MURDER OF TWO GUNMEN IN AUTO LAID TO REPRISALS

Lester Barth and Dewey Goebel Known to Have Been Suspected by Former Cuckoo Pals of Part in Illinois Killings.

TRAPPED BY FIVE MACHINE GUNNERS

Thought to Have Been Waiting for $1000 "Pay-off" When Men in Another Car Fired Hundreds of Shots at Them.

The criminal careers of Lester Barth and Dewey Goebel, notorious gunmen, extortionists and inseparable pals, came to a sudden end yesterday in a storm of machine gun fire.

Trapped at Columbia and Macklind avenues at 10:25 a. m. they were relentlessly pursued for two blocks, kept in the merciless fire of three machine gunners until their automobile, with a dying man at the wheel and another beside him, finally jumped a curb and came to a stop in front of 2225 Macklind avenue.

From underworld sources the police learned that Barth and Goebel had an appointment to meet a Sicilian bootlegger yesterday on "The Hill," not far from the scene of the attack. The bootlegger was said to have agreed to pay them $1000 demanded by them, but the presumption was that he had summoned a squad of machine gunners to pay off the extortionists instead of paying them in the money they had demanded.

Whether or not they were on their way to the appointment when they were shot has not been determined. A few minutes before, however, they had purchased a quantity of groceries at a store nearby, as was their daily custom, and possibly they were on their way to Barth's home at 2165 Sulphur avenue, eight blocks from the scene, when they were attacked.

In volume of fire, the attack on the gangsters probably has not been equaled in St. Louis gang history. Hundreds of shots were fired, and after the murderers had driven away, children scurried into the streets to pick up the shells ejected by the machine guns.

Unable to Escape Attack.

Unarmed and with their only hope of safety in flight, Barth and Goebel were taken so completely by surprise that their automobile never attained a brisk speed in their effort to get away from the machine gunners.

The dying men were taken from the car after the assassins had driven away. Fourteen bullets had torn through the body of the machine, and others had smashed out the rear window. Machine-gun slugs had ripped through two boxes of groceries in the car, scattering coffee, salt and sugar about. There were three bullet holes in a derby and one in a soft hat found in the machine.

Benedict Gramann, a builder, of 4729 Gravois avenue, who was an eyewitness to the shooting, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the machine gunners caught up with Goebel and Barth as the pair drove leisurely westward in Columbia avenue.

"At the time I was driving west in Columbia avenue," Gramann said. "Near Macklind avenue I heard the crackling of machine gun fire very close at hand. I looked around and saw it was coming from a machine almost alongside of me.

"I slowed up. A Ford coupe with two men in it passed me. It was going only about 20 miles an hour. Almost beside it and only slightly behind it was a Hudson sedan.

Three Fire Machine Guns.

"From the windows on the right side three men were firing machine guns into the Ford. The noise was terrific. With its two passengers bending down to get out of the way, the Ford turned north in Macklind avenue.

"The Hudson turned with it and the firing went on. I could see no danger of being hit since the firing was all ahead of me, so I followed, trying to get a look at the Hudson's license plate. It was dirty and I was unable to see it clearly.

"The firing was continuous along Macklind avenue for a block and

Dr. F. G. Kelly at Childhood Conference Denies Young Are Being Allowed to Run Wild.

HARMONY PREVAILS AS SESSIONS END

Miss Grace Abbott Sponsors Resolution Pledging All to Work Harder for Program.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—With a pledge of continued support to President Hoover, the White House conference on child health and protection closed today.

The 3000 delegates left Washington with the understanding their work was to go on, their differences be left for further study of a continuation committee. The conference unanimously advocated state meetings at the call of Governors to apply the findings to local conditions.

A statement of services every boy and girl should receive for health and protection constituted the general contribution of the conference. Its definition of minimum protection included district, county, or community organizations to co-ordinate State-wide programs.

This code was rounded out by four recommended programs presented by chairmen of the sections which have functioned during the last year to round up the facts about medical service, public health service, education and training and special care of the handicapped.

Dr. Hugh S. Cumming and Miss Grace Abbott, the personalities about whom an administrative clash centered in group meetings, themselves made the moves which ended the conference in a flourish of good feeling.

All to Work Harder.

Dr. Cumming suggested that the recommendation to transfer the maternity, infancy and child health functions of the Children's Bureau to the Public Health Service be referred to the Continuation Committee, and that the dissenting opinion of Miss Abbott be included in the final publication of the conference.

Miss Abbott brought the entire conference to its feet with a closing pledge to President Hoover that "from this day forward we will all work harder and more enthusiastically for child health and protection."

Earlier Dr. F. J. Kelly of the University of Chicago had voiced the conclusions of the experts on education and training. Conference studies, he said, did not show youth running wild and agencies for education and training ineffectual. Rather, church and school were adapting themselves to a changing age.

But he urged that parents study the scientific material on child training available to them.

Urges Sex Education.

"With our devotion to mother love, we tend to think of the home as not susceptible to scientific inquiry," he said.

He advocated sex education and training for parenthood in the schools and asked for more kindergartens and nursery schools.

Committees concerned with the handicapped joined in recommending a National Council and an advisory council for handicapped children in each state. The report of C. C. Carstens, chairman of that section, further recommended "some suitable Federal agency" as a clearing house of information. It added "one of the major possibilities" of the conference would be achieved if a committee dealing with the handicapped be sponsored under the Department of Labor.

Dr. Cumming, chairman of the public health section, recommended continuance and increase of Federal aid to develop competent health organizations in rural communities.

The medical group of which Dr. Samuel McC. Hammill was chairman, made a strong plea for a concerted effort to cut down the maternal mortality rate by better application of existing scientific knowledge.

19 Rights of Childhood.

The 19 rights of American childhood expressed in the report of the White House conference to aid the young today follows:

Every prospective mother should have suitable information, medical supervision during the prenatal period, competent care at confinement. Every mother should have post-natal medical supervision for herself and child.

Every child should receive periodical health examinations before and during the school period, including adolescene by the family physician, or the school or other public physician and such examination by specialists and such hospital care as its special needs may require.

Every child should have regular dental examination and care.

Every child should have instruction in the schools in health and in safety, from accidents, and every teacher should be trained in health programs.

Every child should be protected from communicable diseases to which he might be exposed at home, in school or at play, and protected from impure milk and food.

Every child should have proper sleeping rooms, diet, hours of sleep and play, and parents should receive expert information as to the needs of children of various ages as to these questions.

Every child should attend a school which has proper seating, lighting, ventilation and sanitation. For younger children, kindergartens and nursery schools should be provided to supplement home care.

The school should be so organized as to discover and develop the special abilities of each child, and should assist in vocational guidance, for children, like men, succeed by the use of their strongest qualities and special interests.

Every child should have some form of religious, moral and character training.

Right to Place to Play.

Every child has a right to a place to play with adequate facilities therefor.

With the expanding domain of the community's responsibilities for children there should be proper provision for and supervision of recreation and entertainment.

Every child should be protected against labor that stunts growth, either physical or mental, that limits education, that deprives children of the right of comradeship of joy and play.

Every child who is blind, deaf, crippled or otherwise physically handicapped should be given expert study and corrective treatment where there is the possibility of relief and appropriate development or training. Children with subnormal or abnormal mental conditions should receive adequate study, protection, training and care.

Support of Orphans.

Every waif and orphan in need must be supported.

Every child is entitled to the feeling that he has a home. The extension of the services in the community should supplement and not supplant parents.

Children who habitually fail to meet normal standards of human behavior should be provided special care under the guidance of the school, the community health or welfare center or other agency for continued supervision or, if necessary, control.

Where the child does not have these services, due to inadequate income of the family, then such services must be provided to him by the community.

The rural child should have as satisfactory schooling, health protection and welfare facilities as the city child.

Statewide Program.

In order that these minimum protections of the health and welfare of children may be everywhere available, there should be a district, county or community organization for health education and welfare with full-time officials co-ordinating with a Statewide program which will be responsive to a nationwide service of general information, statistics and scientific research. This should include:

Trained full-time public health officials with public health nurses, sanitary inspection and laboratory workers.

Available hospital beds.

Full-time public welfare services for the relief and aid of children in special need from poverty or misfortune, for the protection of children from abuse, neglect, exploitation or moral hazard.

The development of voluntary organization of children for purposes of instruction, health and recreation through private effort and benefaction. When possible, existing agencies should be co-ordinated.

behind, in the nature of unsightly debris, and there would be cellars to fill and sidewalks to repair. Asked where the city might find money to improve the plazas, Miller said: "We'll have to think about that after the buildings are down." In the past, officials have declared a bond issue would be necessary for this purpose.

Terminal's Offer.

The Terminal Railroad has offered to make temporary improvements of Aloe Plaza. Comptroller Nolte is willing to permit this after the last two lots there, which are occupied by stores under leases, can be obtained. The Mayor said he had not been informed of the Terminal's proposal but would be glad to consider what was offered.

Comptroller Nolte had said recently that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment had concluded, not to clear Memorial Plaza now. Miller declared yesterday that this was not a "decision" but a "discussion." The Mayor, Comptroller and President of the Board of Aldermen comprise the Board of Estimate. The net income from temporary rental of buildings on the plaza is worth having, the Mayor said, but this was a problem for the Comptroller.

City officials are frankly puzzled as to which would be better—to leave ugly and dilapidated buildings on the plazas, or to clear the areas and leave bare, unimproved lots. They have debated whether clearing, however, would not help convince the public, now wary of all improvement expenditures, of the need for a bond issue. They have speculated also on the political effect of whatever decision is made.

Mayor Miller said he was anxious to have everything provided for by the 1923 bond issue built, including the Municipal Auditorium, which it has always been supposed would be erected on a portion of the Memorial Plaza site. However, he disclosed, there are two questions about use of this location for the auditorium—whether the city is justified in putting it on ground obtained for a plaza, and whether, if the auditorium does go on this site, benefit assessments can be made against surrounding property in connection with the plaza condemnation.

May Be Court Question.

Several years ago the City Counselor held that the auditorium could properly go on the plaza site, but Miller pointed out that the courts might have to pass on this. While the Supreme Court of Missouri has held that the auditorium was a proper subject of municipal construction, there is a question whether its nature would justify the assessment of benefits, Miller explained. If the benefits are not collected there will not be enough left over from the Memorial Plaza bond item to build the contemplated war memorial building on the plaza. On the other hand, if the auditorium has to go on some other site, there would not be enough in the $5,000,000 auditorium bond item to pay for the land and a structure considered adequate. In fact, some time ago the Mayor called attention to the architects' estimate that $7,000,000 was needed for an adequate building.

The Mayor's attitude indicated that he was anxious now to clear the two plazas, but he declined to go into details before making public the opinions from the Law Department.

SOVIET SHAKEUP TO SAVE 5-YEAR INDUSTRIAL PLAN

Stalin's Party Proposes to Strengthen Finances of Government for Completion of Program.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 22.—While other European capitals heard reports and denials of serious unrest in Russia, political observers in this seat of the Soviet Government today regarded recent changes and transfers in Government posts as evidence that the Communist party, headed by Josef Stalin, intends to strengthen its finances all along the line to complete the five-year plan for the industrialization of Russia.

The Central Committee, realizing that the reconstruction plan could be retarded or blocked by even the slightest opposition, some time ago started a move to eliminate both the "right" and "left" blocs in the party and to install in the most important posts only men known to be of unswerving loyalty to party policies.

Some former members of the "left" opposition, headed by the exiled Leon Trotzsky, joined with the "rights" against the party program, but so far Stalin and his "center" bloc have been victorious.

Most of the dissidents, under strong pressure, appeared before the last All-Union Party Congress, confessed their political sins and either received absolution or were ousted.

Only Bukharin, who did not believe in the plan for intensive industrialization, hung back. There were reports that he would be expelled from the party and shorn of his few remaining jobs, but recently he, too, admitted his error, and promised to throw his complete support to the party program.

The Central Committee appeared to be satisfied with his statement and it is now expected that Bukharin, who is known as one of the most intelligent men in the Soviet Union, may have some of his power restored.

One of the most important demotions was that of Sergei Sirtsov, who was removed as Premier of the Russian Socialist Federated Soviet Republic on charges that he was an unrepentant member of the "Left" bloc. He was succeeded by Daniel Sulimov.

These were by no means the only heads to fall under the ax. Liminadze, an important member of the Georgian Communist party, was ousted together with Shatskin and Stem, somewhat lesser lights but still important figures.

The former Premier, Rykov, who was one of the "right leaders" and who now is on "vacation" has repented, but it is thought that he may have a hard time holding on this job.

It may be that the pruning process is not yet over, but it is generally thought that all the principal leaders now are united in support of the program by which Stalin hopes to make Soviet Russia one of the world's greatest industrial nations.

Meanwhile, Government officials have characterized as "utterly ridiculous" reports abroad of serious internal troubles in Russia.

They denied categorically reports that communication between Moscow and Berlin had been cut off, and they scouted several reports that Stalin had been assassinated.

Not only had there been no attempt on Stalin's life, they said, but there have been no mutinies, outbreaks or uprisings, and the principal trouble confronting the Government now is finding enough able-bodied workers to complete the big industrial project under way throughout the Soviet Union.

The Government today established two independent commissariats in place of the existing organization which previously handled both domestic and foreign trade.

BRISK DEBATE OVER FULL PUBLICITY ON WAR PREPARATION

U. S. Backs and Japan and France Oppose Proposal Which Is Referred to Subcommittee.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Nov. 22.—The preparatory Disarmament Commission of the League of Nations today referred to a subcommittee a Dutch proposal which would guarantee publicity for war preparations and materials.

This measure, directed against secret preparations for war, was brought to a vote after considerable debate.

Hugh S. Gibson, the American delegate, supported it, saying full exchange of information regarding war materials was necessary to the success of any disarmament treaty.

The Japanese representative, Sato, condemned the proposal, saying his country would regard it as betraying secrets essential to national security. Rene Massigli of France also opposed it.

The argument finally centered about the interpretation of article 8 of the League of Nations covenant, those in favor of the motion asserting that such an exchange of military information was required under that article.

Massigli declared that the discussion of a covenant article was not appropriate in the presence of representatives from the United States, Turkey and Russia, who are not members of the League and by general consent the question was referred to a subcommittee on which will be delegates from the United States and other great Powers, in addition to Belgium, Spain, Norway, Holland and Jugo Slavia.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR FULTON IRON WORKS IN COUNTY

R. F. Ralph Chosen on Petition of Ex-Judge Wurdeman's Wife After Another Suit Is Withdrawn.

State Senator Richard F. Ralph of St. Louis County was appointed temporary receiver for the Fulton Iron Works Co., capitalized at $3,000,000, by Circuit Judge Mulloy at Clayton yesterday on the petition of Mrs. Lena A. Wurdeman, wife of former Circuit Judge G. A. Wurdeman, a small stockholder.

The action was unexpected, because a similar petition was dismissed earlier in the day by Circuit Judge Lashly, when complaints of mismanagement and preferential payment of creditors were withdrawn. Mrs. Wurdeman's petition, filed by her husband's law firm, Wurdeman, Stevens & Hoester, was received by Judge Mulloy in the afternoon, after the usual Saturday closing hour of court.

Judge Mulloy issued an order to show cause against officials of the company, returnable next Saturday. Ralph's bond was fixed at $50,000, and his law partner, John Haley, was appointed counsel for the temporary receiver.

The suit is identical with that dismissed by Judge Lashly with the exception of the change in the name of the petitioner. Mrs. Wurdeman states that she is the holder of 30 shares of stock. The allegations, as in the first suit, are that the company has been mismanaged and is being operated by a committee acting for preferred creditors.

The defendants named in addition to the company are: E. W. Kopke, president; G. J. Kienzle, secretary; H. J. Steinbreder, a principal stockholder, and 10 associates said to comprise the creditors' committee directing the company's affairs.

Before dismissing the first suit, Judge Lashly said he would appoint a receiver only if "the strongest showing is made that such a step is warranted."

The petitioners in the first suit were J. H. Bedser of 7563 Buckingham drive, holder of 50 shares of stock, and the Swartwout Co. of Cleveland, O., a creditor holding a claim for $1450. The Swartwout Co. withdrew as a plaintiff on Friday, and Bedser dismissed his complaint yesterday. Dismissal of the suit followed a conference of attorneys at which R. W. Chubb, counsel for officers of the company, said the company could adjust its affairs to the satisfaction of all concerned within 60 days, if legal action were withheld.

A statement issued for the company lists assets of $3,060,183 and debts, exclusive of contingent liabilities, of $836,061. The contingent liabilities, made up of accounts and notes receivable and used as collateral, are placed at $1,371,000. Continued depression in the sugar refining business, the chief market for the machinery manufactured by the Fulton Co., is given as the reason for the large amount of contingent liabilities. The allegations of the petitioners were vigorously denied by officers of the company, who said they had the full co-operation of general creditors.

The Fulton Iron Works Co. has been in business 78 years. Its plant and offices are at 1259 Delaware avenue, St. Louis County, and its products are heavy machinery, particularly that for cane sugar mills.

M'GAULEY MURDER JURY DISAGREES; 7 TO 5 AGAINST HIM

Prisoner, Accused of Killing Overland Bank Cashier in Holdup, Is Apparently Unperturbed.

With the failure of a second effort to obtain a death sentence for the murder of Toddie V. Phelps, cashier of the Overland State Bank, in a holdup Jan. 18, 1929, St. Louis County authorities will decide shortly whether to try James McGauley again or send him back to Michigan where he was serving a life term for robbery when brought here on the murder charge.

McGauley, whose trial ended yesterday with the discharge of a deadlocked jury which stood 7 to 5 for conviction, will remain in the St. Louis city jail until the decision is made.

A year ago, Sylvester Baldwin, gangster and resort proprietor, was tried for the same crime, a mistrial resulting because a juror talked with a witness out of court. Witnesses and prosecutors decided that McGauley, not Baldwin, was the robber who shot Cashier Phelps in the back, and Baldwin was freed.

To Discuss Retrial.

Jacob M. Lashly, retained as special prosecutor after McGauley was charged with the crime, said last night he would confer with Prosecuting Attorney Castlen, who represented the State in both trials, to decide the State's next step.

Brought from Michigan on extradition proceedings in August, McGauley remained in jail here until last Monday, when he was taken to Clayton for trial. Preliminaries, testimony and argument consumed five days and the case went to the jury at 4 p. m. Friday. The jurors had spent about 10 hours in actual deliberation at 2 p. m. yesterday, when Circuit Judge Brackman summoned them to court and learned from the foreman that they had decided they could not agree.

A member of the jury told a Post-Dispatch reporter they had taken so many ballots he had lost count of the number. All ballots showed a majority for conviction, with the vote ranging from 9 to 3 to the final 7 to 5. The jurors never reached the point of discussing whether life imprisonment or death by hanging would be the proper punishment for the crime charged.

Suspicious of Fingerprint.

Jurors would not discuss their reaction to the testimony of witnesses who admitted they had previously testified against Baldwin, and of Lawrence G. Ahrens, who implicated himself and named McGauley as the slayer. Some of the jurors, it was said, contended that the fingerprint testimony against McGauley was "framed."

The State's case, in substance, consisted of the testimony of three identifying witnesses — George Hoech, bank bookkeeper, Mrs. Agnes Wilkinson, a maid at the bank, and Ahrens, the acknowledged accomplice who has pleaded guilty of robbery—and the testimony of fingerprint experts who said a print of the middle finger of McGauley's right hand was found on an empty whisky bottle in the robbers' abandoned car. In argument, Lashly reviewed McGauley's record of numerous arrests and two Workhouse terms for burglary and larceny, asserting that McGauley was a man of "thoroughly antisocial nature."

Summary of Defense.

Paul A. Richards, for the defense, brought out that Hoech was previously as positive in his identification of Baldwin; that Mrs. Wilkinson was in "an excited and hysterical condition" while the robbery was in progress; that Ahrens' description of the crime conflicted in various details with the testimony of other State's witnesses. McGauley's alibi that he was living in poverty on a rented farm near St. James, Mo., during the winter of 1928-1929, and counsel's assertion that 'fingerprints of Jim McGauley, bootlegger, might be found on a hundred bottles," rounded out the defense.

McGauley, 31 years old, appeared in court neatly dressed and well-groomed, chewing gum constantly with eyes fixed on whatever person happened to be speaking. He received the mistrial announcement with apparent indifference and when asked what he thought of it, countered with: "What do you think of it?" City detectives permitted him to speak to his wife, who had attended all the sessions, then took him to jail.

Ahrens and William O'Hara, who admitted that he provided the automobile used in the Overland robbery, are held in Clayton jail under indictments charging them, like McGauley, with murder and robbery. Ahrens has pleaded guilty but has not been sentenced.

Closing of the Doniphan bank was the second in Doniphan in two days and leaves the town without a depository. The Ripley County Bank of Doniphan was closed yesterday, following a run. Officers of the Doniphan State Bank reported the closing was temporary, because of uneasiness of depositors.

The Doniphan bank had deposits of $316,407, loans of $215,455 and total resources of $361,711, according to its last financial report to the Finance Department. It has a capital of $30,000 and surplus and undivided profits of $6687. H. E. Thaxton is president and J. M. Wright, cashier.

The Pike County Bank had deposits of $183,481, loans of $129,164 and total resources of $220,361 on its last report to the department. It has a capital of $25,000 and surplus of $10,000. S. N. Gillum is president and S. M. Williams, cashier.

The banks closing today were the Bank of Black Mountain at Black Mountain, the Polk County Bank and Trust Co. of Columbus and the Bank of Murphy at Murphy.

The total deposits in the three were approximately $250,000.

Other financial institutions here which weathered the first unrest of depositors after the Central Bank and Trust Co. closed reported increased deposits today.

M'GAULEY MURDER JURY DISAGREES; 7 TO 5 AGAINST HIM

With the failure of a second effort to obtain a death sentence for the murder of Toddie V. Phelps, cashier of the Overland State Bank, in a holdup Jan. 18, 1929, St. Louis County authorities will decide shortly whether to try James McGauley again or send him back to Michigan where he was serving a life term for robbery when brought here on the murder charge.

McGauley, whose trial ended yesterday with the discharge of a deadlocked jury which stood 7 to 5 for conviction, will remain in the St. Louis city jail until the decision is made.

A year ago, Sylvester Baldwin, gangster and resort proprietor, was tried for the same crime, a mistrial resulting because a juror talked with a witness out of court. Witnesses and prosecutors decided that McGauley, not Baldwin, was the robber who shot Cashier Phelps in the back, and Baldwin was freed.

To Discuss Retrial.

Jacob M. Lashly, retained as special prosecutor after McGauley was charged with the crime, said last night he would confer with Prosecuting Attorney Castlen, who represented the State in both trials, to decide the State's next step.

Brought from Michigan on extradition proceedings in August, McGauley remained in jail here until last Monday, when he was taken to Clayton for trial. Preliminaries, testimony and argument consumed five days and the case went to the jury at 4 p. m. Friday. The jurors had spent about 10 hours in actual deliberation at 2 p. m. yesterday, when Circuit Judge Brackman summoned them to court and learned from the foreman that they had decided they could not agree.

A member of the jury told a Post-Dispatch reporter they had taken so many ballots he had lost count of the number. All ballots showed a majority for conviction, with the vote ranging from 9 to 3 to the final 7 to 5. The jurors never reached the point of discussing whether life imprisonment or death by hanging would be the proper punishment for the crime charged.

Suspicious of Fingerprint.

Jurors would not discuss their reaction to the testimony of witnesses who admitted they had previously testified against Baldwin, and of Lawrence G. Ahrens, who implicated himself and named McGauley as the slayer. Some of the jurors, it was said, contended that the fingerprint testimony against McGauley was "framed."

The State's case, in substance, consisted of the testimony of three identifying witnesses — George Hoech, bank bookkeeper, Mrs. Agnes Wilkinson, a maid at the bank, and Ahrens, the acknowledged accomplice who has pleaded guilty of robbery—and the testimony of fingerprint experts who said a print of the middle finger of McGauley's right hand was found on an empty whisky bottle in the robbers' abandoned car. In argument, Lashly reviewed McGauley's record of numerous arrests and two Workhouse terms for burglary and larceny, asserting that McGauley was a man of "thoroughly antisocial nature."

Summary of Defense.

Paul A. Richards, for the defense, brought out that Hoech was previously as positive in his identification of Baldwin; that Mrs. Wilkinson was in "an excited and hysterical condition" while the robbery was in progress; that Ahrens' description of the crime conflicted in various details with the testimony of other State's witnesses. McGauley's alibi that he was living in poverty on a rented farm near St. James, Mo., during the winter of 1928-1929, and counsel's assertion that "fingerprints of Jim McGauley, bootlegger, might be found on a hundred bottles," rounded out the defense.

McGauley, 31 years old, appeared in court neatly dressed and well-groomed, chewing gum constantly with eyes fixed on whatever person happened to be speaking. He received the mistrial announcement with apparent indifference and when asked what he thought of it, countered with: "What do you think of it?" City detectives permitted him to speak to his wife, who had attended all the sessions, then took him to jail.

Ahrens and William O'Hara, who admitted that he provided the automobile used in the Overland robbery, are held in Clayton jail under indictments charging them, like McGauley, with murder and robbery. Ahrens has pleaded guilty but has not been sentenced. The foreman of the McGauley jury was Herman S. Zielinski, a machinist of 7339 Wise avenue, Richmond Heights. Other members were:

William H. Collins, a carpenter, 240 Madison avenue, Rock Hill; Leon Laraine, a carpenter, New Hall's Ferry road, Black Jack; Phillip Wagner, a foreman, 20 Blakemore place, Kinloch; James Meyer, farmer, Patterson road, Florissant; Charles F. Jones, a business man, 690 West Lockwood avenue, South Webster; Fred A. Weibe, wholesale electrical dealer, 7835 Greensfelder road, University City; Walter Dieckhaus, a clerk, 121 Eldridge avenue, Rock Hill; Tandy L. Evans, a shoecutter, Graham road, Florissant; John F. Niemeyer, a carpenter, 398 West street, Riverview Gardens; John K. James Jr., 431 North Van Buren avenue, Kirkwood, and Herbert Restisky, stationary engineer, 7113 South street, Maplewood.

MURDER OF 2 GUNMEN IN AUTO ATTRIBUTED TO GANG REPRISALS

a half north from Columbia. The men in the Ford kept the same speed, never more than 25 miles an hour, and the car wabbled considerably so that I presumed the driver had already been hit.

"It crossed Botanical avenue, first street north of Columbia, and went about half a block further. Suddenly it swerved to the left curb. The Hudson driver slowed up to keep from hitting it. The Ford jumped the curb and came to a stop on the grass between curb and sidewalk. The Hudson continued north, turned east at Elizabeth avenue, the next street, and disappeared from view.

Both Victims Hit in Head.

"I pulled up to the curb and ran over to the Ford. The men in it had fallen forward. Both were shot in the head and bleeding profusely. Some boys who came up helped me to get them out and lay them on the ground.

"Neither of them was armed. I noticed that particularly. After a few moments detectives arrived, a patrol wagon was called and the wounded men were taken to City Hospital."

Barth died in the emergency room a half hour later. City Hospital physicians said he had been shot twice in the back of the head and once in the left shoulder. Goebel died shortly after noon. He had been shot once in the head.

At least half a dozen persons, including several appliance salesmen for the Union Electric Light & Power Co., witnessed the shooting. Gramann said he was certain there were five men in the murderers' automobile, while the others were uncertain whether there were four or five.

A few minutes before the shooting Barth and Goebel had visited the grocery of Mike Oldani at 5224 Columbia avenue, buying more than $12 worth of groceries. Oldani told a Post-Dispatch reporter that they visited the store almost daily at the same time. From the large quantity of provisions purchased the theory has been advanced that they were buying food for a moonshine still crew in the neighborhood.

Weapons in Barth's Home.

After the shooting policemen who searched Barth's home found in a coal bin a submachine gun, two revolvers and a large quantity of ammunition. Barth resided at the Sulphur avenue address with his wife, while Goebel lived with his wife in Florissant. The license of the coupe in which they were killed had been issued to Mrs. Marie Goebel, of Florissant, said by the police to be Goebel's widow.

Barth was 31 years old and a former convict. Goebel was 35. They were regarded by the police as two of the most dangerous and reckless criminals in St. Louis, whose confidence even took them to the point where they disregarded gang affiliations and ran with the "mob" that was enjoying the prosperity of the moment.

Their widespread activities make any one of a half a dozen theories plausible in explaining the motive for assassination. Former comrades of the Cuckoo gang are known to have suspected them of being involved in the machine-gun attack on a Cuckoo distillery near Valmeyer, Ill., Oct. 2, last, and it is possible the murders were in reprisal for that raid.

In the Valmeyer attack Pete McTigue, Cuckoo gang executive, and William E. Boody, a still plumber, were killed, and two Sicilian followers of the gang were wounded. James Darmondy, Cuckoo gangster, escaped unharmed during the attack only to be killed Nov. 4 in a fight with Sheriff Lill of St. Louis County.

Similarly, both men were charged by the underworld with the killing of "Toots" Clark, who was murdered last December while he was trying to place the cleaning and dyeing business under his control. It is a possibility that friends of Clark may have killed them in reprisal.

Extorted Money From Moonshiners.

Again, both men are known to have been engaged in extorting money from still operators and transporters of liquor on a large scale, another reason why a section of the underworld was anxious to see them erased from the scene.

Barth served a penitentiary term of two years, beginning in July, 1924, for robbery. He served 60 days in the Workhouse in 1917 for larceny, a year beginning in 1921 for robbery, and another year beginning in 1927 for larceny.

Goebel had never served a term in jail or the penitentiary.

Both Barth and Goebel were friends of Frank Silsby, former convict, whose statement early this year led to their indictment for complicity in the $10,000 robbery of the Hamilton State Bank in 1926.

Barth was convicted and sentenced to 10 years imprisonment, but when Goebel, on the same evidence, was acquitted, the conviction of Barth was set aside. Both men were implicated by Silsby in the murder of John J. Chamberlin, jewelry salesman, in a holdup in November, 1925, but neither was convicted. Both were indicted and tried several other times on felony charges. Except as before noted they escaped punishment.

5-YEAR-OLD BOY HURT FATALLY BY AUTO

Ralph Schmidt, Mascoutah, Ill., Struck in Crossing Street With Mother.

Ralph Schmidt, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schmidt of Mascoutah, Ill., died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Belleville yesterday of a skull fracture suffered when he was struck by an automobile at Mascoutah Friday night.

The driver of the machine, Herman Gleasing of Okawville, Ill., took the boy to the hospital. The child's mother, with whom he was crossing the street, was uninjured.

Two Injured When Auto Runs Into Truck.

Lee Mintner, 2317 South Tenth street, suffered fractures of the skull, jaw and nose, and Albert Snider, 2813 Eads avenue, suffered a fracture of the left arm when an automobile driven by Snider collided with the rear of a truck at Broadway and Tesson street early yesterday. Elmer Richard of Potosi, Mo., driver of the truck, was arrested on Snider's complaint that the truck had no tail light.

Christopher Egan, a salesman, 5547 Waterman avenue, suffered a broken arm and internal injuries last night when he was hit by an automobile as he was crossing Delmar boulevard at Belt avenue. The car was driven by Mrs. Gussie Alperstein, 541 Westgate avenue. Egan was taken to St. Luke's hospital.

reported yesterday it had exceeded its quota by 5 per cent, with some schools yet to report. Beaumont High School subscribed $910, an increase of 80 per cent over its total last year.

Eighty produce merchants on Commission Row have subscribed 151 per cent of their quota.

Railroad Unit Gain 50 Per Cent.

The railroad unit turned in $64,102, an increase of 50 per cent over last year, and the public utilities unit reported an increase of 57 per cent.

Even if the goal of $2,200,000 is reached, the 51 participating agencies of the Community Fund will not have enough for their full requirements, and anything less than that will mean tragedy for hundreds of persons, E. G. Steger, manager of the Provident Association, declared last night.

Calling attention to the unemployment situation, Steger said that about 67 per cent of the families applying to the association for aid were new applicants, whereas normally the number is about 50 per cent. About four times as many applications as were received a year ago were being received now, he stated.

Banker and Son Convicted.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 22.—F. J. Dorger, former president of the defunct Cosmopolitan Bank and Trust Co., and his son, Clarence Dorger, a former director, were convicted late today of making false entries in the banks books, misapplication of funds and embezzlement. The bank was closed last summer by State banking examiners after a shortage of nearly $600,000 was discovered. Later examiners said discrepancies amounted to nearly $2,000,000.

U. S. ADDS TO DRY FORCE IN CHICAGO TO FIGHT GANGS

10 Additional Agents, With Possibly More Later, to Assist Police in Roundup of Extortionists.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—With renewed aid promised by the Federal Government, the pendulum threatens to swing back against extortionists in Chicago.

The Government has convicted three men of dodging income tax payments and, through two of these, has built the foundation for a case against "Scarface Al" Capone, gang chieftain.

Fresh forces have been thrown into the fight by the Department of Justice and the Prohibition Bureau to strike at the source of gang wealth.

State and local prosecutors, stirred to action since the killing—still unsolved—of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, have succeeded in driving notorious hoodlums to cover.

Hiding Place a Secret.

"Scarface Al" remains at liberty, his hiding place a secret, sought on a warrant for vagrancy, and his affairs under the scrutiny of Internal Revenue investigators who admit Capone is one of their quarries. But his gangsters and his foes are being taken off the streets, one by one, through the united efforts of Government agents, police, State's Attorney and crusading judges.

The Prohibition Bureau at Washington made known today that 10 men had been added to the dry squad in the Chicago district, with more possibly to come. Alexander Jamie, former squad leader, has left the Government employ temporarily to direct detective operations for the Association of Commerce's "Secret Six" committee.

It is this group of business men who have been given credit generally for the strengthened alliance of Government departments recently in the fignt against organized crime in Chicago. Unnamed business leaders are understood to have gone to Washington, possibly direct to the President, and obtained the active aid of the Internal Revenue Bureau, Department of Justice and Prohibition Bureau in purging the city before the 1933 World's Fair.

Brother Faces Prison Term.

Ralph Capone and Jack Guzik, brother and business manager of "Scarface Al," have been convicted and face prison terms for evading Federal taxes on incomes that ran into seven figures. Gene Oliver, County Tax Assessor, was convicted on the same count, his wealth allegedly amassed illicitly. Frank Nitti, Capone syndicate treasurer, is under indictment, and it is through evidence gathered against these lesser Capone henchmen that the Government hopes to send Capone himself to prison.

He himself faces a year-old contempt citation because he went to Florida when he was under a summons to tell a Federal grand jury about corruption and graft here. He volunteered to submit to questioners at the Federal Building and State's Attorney's office last spring, but they were not ready for him.

Federal investigators intimated they are tracing Capone's earnings and when their case is ready they will take it to court, not before.

Einstein Dreads Having Fuss Made Over Him in America

Thinks of Staying Aboard Ship to Avoid It When He Reaches New York—Loaded With Cash Offers for Indorsements.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—What Professor Albert Einstein fears most about his approaching visit to the United States is his arrival in New York, he said in an interview today.

With an expression of pain and bewilderment on his face, he said the dread of having a fuss made over him had cast a shadow over his journey. This was planned as a quiet and private pleasure trip to New York, Cuba and the Panama Canal, followed by a period of concentrated study and an interchange of ideas and information with American scientists at Pasadena, Cal.

"Facing the cameramen and submitting to the cross-fire of the newspaper men's questions are enough of an ordeal, but that will be over in a few minutes," said the father of the relativity theory. "Then the real difficulties will begin. It's the crowds, the invitations, the speeches that I abhor. For that reason I am seriously thinking of remaining aboard the Belgenland until we leave for Cuba."

He said that tens of thousands of dollars had been offered him by American firms dealing in disinfectants, toilet waters, haberdashery, musical instruments, clothing and what not, if he would consent to sign his name to statements that he had used the articles and found them satisfactory.

"Is it not a sad commentary upon the commercialism and, I must add, the corruption of our time that business firms make these offers with no thought of wanting to insult me?" He asked. "It evidently means that this form of corruption—for corruption it is—is widespread."

He cannot understand the interest aroused in the United States by his impending visit. "It is simply terrible," he said. "Mass psychology is a difficult thing to fathom. I fear historians never have taken the factor of mass psychology into account sufficiently in writing history. They look upon events in retrospect with the idea that they can define exactly the causes that led up to this or that outstanding event. In reality, behind these apparent causes there are indefinable factors of mass psychology about which we know little or nothing.

"My own case is, alas, an illustration. Why popular fancy should seize upon me, a scientist dealing in abstract things and happy if left alone, is one of those manifestations of mass psychology that is beyond me. I think it is terrible that this should be so and I suffer more than anybody can imagine."

Prof. Einstein explained that his whole purpose in going to America was scientific.

"Pasadena and Mount Wilson Observatory have the most perfect equipment in the world of the kind I use in my work," he said. "Not that I expect to undertake experiments in California which I could not make here. So far as that goes, I can just as well do my work in my little study in the garret. But I do want to exchange information and compare notes with the American scientists in Pasadena."

GETS 7 MONTHS FOR LETTER DEMANDING MONEY OF DOCTOR

Laborer Pleads Guilty to Extortion Charge; Wife Thinks He Is Insane.

Dona Smith, a laborer of Overland, pleaded guilty yesterday at Clayton to a charge of attempting to extort $30,000 from Dr. S. Elliott Woods of Herculaneum, Mo. He was sentenced to seven months in jail, in addition to the time he has been in jail, since last June, awaiting trial.

Smith, a former patient of Dr. Woods at Herculaneum, demanded the money in a rambling letter to the doctor, and when he appeared to receive the package at an appointed place in the county, was arrested. His wife told authorities she believed his mind was failing.

DRIVER LOSES TRUCK, $5000 IN MERCHANDISE

Sidney Menke Tells of Being Robbed by Five Men; Empty Machine Found.

A truck loaded with $5000 worth of merchandise was seized by five men at the Rock Hill and Litzinger roads, St. Louis County, early yesterday, according to the report of its driver to his employer, Jesse Clay, proprietor of the Sudden Service Hauling Co., 2302 Bremen avenue. The empty truck was found abandoned on Hamilton avenue, a block north of Delmar boulevard.

The driver, Sidney Menke of 2521 Salisbury street, telephoned from Fern Glen, Mo., where he had been taken by three of the robbers, who released him at 4:30 a. m., from their Pontiac coach.

"Menke was on his way to Union, Mo.," Clay said, "with sugar, groceries, clothing and other merchandise for several merchants there. He told me the coach drew up alongside him as he turned into Rock Hill road and several men jumped aboard his truck. One of them blinded him by pulling his cap over his eyes.

"The driver said from their voices they appeared to be Italians. Three of them forced him in the car, he said, while two others stayed with the truck."

CALL FOR NURSE TO FIGHT EPIDEMICS IN THE ARCTIC

Fort Yukon Medical Force Exhausted and Episcopal Mission Board Issues Appeal.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22. — The Mission Board of the Episcopal Church today sent out an appeal to the little island settlement of Fort Yukon, where two epidemics are ravaging a population of 650 prospectors, trappers, traders and Indians, about 50 of them whites.

The strain of overwork, Dr. John W. Wood, of the Missions Board explained, had broken down one nurse. Dr. Grafton Burke of the Fort Yukon Hospital, has contracted septic sore throat and is on the verge of a breakdown. Two nurses there are toiling day and night.

Dr Wood said the need for a nurse was so urgent the journey would have to be made at top speed and the last 250 miles flown by airplane from Fairbanks. The nurse who volunteers, he said, must be about 30 years old and must contract not to marry for three years.

WARRANTS NAME TWO LAWYERS IN BANKRUPT FRAUD

Issuance Bares Indictments in East St. Louis Against James A. Ryan and J. C. Hopewell.

Issuance of fugitive warrants for the arrest of James A. Ryan and Joseph C. Hopewell, law partners in the Arcade Building, disclosed yesterday that the Federal grand jury at East St. Louis had returned an indictment charging them with conspiracy to conceal assets of a bankrupt and subornation of perjury.

The indictment, voted Wednesday, was the result of an investigation of the bankruptcy of John H. Pearson, former merchant of Sullivan, Ill. The jury also indicted Pearson and his wife, Mrs. May V. Pearson, for conspiracy to conceal assets.

Counsel for Ryan and Hopewell told Federal authorities yesterday the two lawyers would appear tomorrow and give bond.

According to Federal investigators, Pearson has said he followed the advice of Ryan and Hopewell in depositing $2100 in his wife's bank account and testifying before Referee in Bankruptcy Grant that the money had been lost in the business.

Because of the circumstances in the case Referee Grant declined to issue the customary final order discharging the bankrupt, and the investigation was begun. Pearson was indicted in September, 1929, for fraud, on the basis of a financial statement said to have been mailed to creditors by him in January, 1928. The statement listed liabilities of $12,774, but the Government alleges they were actually $27,784.

Pearson told invesctigators that when his clothing business decreased in 1928, he held a sale, realizing $800, which he had his wife deposit to her account in the Liberty Central Trust Co., with $1300 borrowed on his life insurance.

He was thrown into involuntary bankruptcy by his creditors on Aug. 1, 1928, three weeks after the sale.

The maximum penalty for conspiracy to conceal assets is five years in prison; for subornation of perjury, five years in prison and a $1000 fine.

Closing Time for Foreign Mail.

A parcel post for Germany and Great Britain and full European mails will close at 9 o'clock tomorrow night at the Main Postoffice, Eighteenth and Walnut streets.

SUIT TO BAR ROAD DAMAGE BY HEAVY TRUCKS PUT OVER

State's Injunction Against Morgan Hauling Co. Continued; Case Up Again Dec. 8.

The suit of the State Highway Commission to enjoin the A. Morgan Hauling & Express Co., 2923 North Broadway, from carrying overloads on its trucks traversing the State highways is pending before Circuit Judge Pearcy. The hearing of the case was begun yesterday and will be taken up again Dec. 8. Meanwhile a temporary restraining order issued at the request of the State remains in effect.

According to the petition, agents of the company have been fined on 16 different occasions in the last two years for violating the law prescribing the maximum weight to be carried on trucks. Overloading of trucks, it is charged, has cracked and broken concrete pavements on various highways in Missouri. No testimony so far has been introduced that such damage was caused by any of the Morgan trucks.

The law limits a gross weight of 600 pounds to the inch, figured by the width of tire on a four-wheel truck. However, counsel for the defense contends that with the larger trucks and floats owned by his client, all having more than two axles, as high as 85,000 pounds can be hauled without violating the law. The extra weight is distributed over the various axles, thereby eliminating the danger of too heavy traction, he says.

GOODYEAR BLIMP VIGILANTE LOST IN FOG CRASHES IN TREE

By the Associated Press.

PIEDMONT, Ala., Nov. 22.—The Goodyear blimp Vigilante became lost in the fog while cruising over this section shortly after noon today and crashed into a tree on top of Oakey Mountain, three miles east of here. The pilot, I. W. Crosier, and the two members of the crew escaped without injury.

Crosier came here to report of the crash to the Goodyear authorities, but said he had instructions not to discuss a mishap until it had been investigated.

1428 SEEK WORK, FEWER THAN 50 JOBS AVAILABLE

Citizens' Unemployment Relief Bureau Calls on Employers to Aid in Placing Men.

The necessity for creating work in St. Louis is shown by the records of the Citizens' Unemployment Relief Bureau, covering four and a half days, with 1428 applications for work received, and fewer than 50 jobs available, and the majority of these only temporary.

With proposed ordinances for the appropriation of $500,000 for unemployment relief pending in the Board of Aldermen, Birch O. Mahaffey, chairman of the Mayor's Committee, and A. W. Jones, in charge of the employment bureau, are not discouraged by the wide disparity between available jobs and eager applicants. They point out, however, that employers must come to their aid with jobs, or applicants will become disheartened, and the purpose of the bureau will be defeated.

The 1428 applicants who visited the employment bureau in the old Southern Hotel, Fourth and Walnut streets, since last Tuesday are a heterogeneous group of workers, covering almost every occupation. The majority of the job seekers are white men with families, who have lived in St. Louis more than five years.

Many Occupations Represented.

Laborers lead the list, and it is in this group that the majority of transients are found. Other occupations well represented among the applicants are carpenters, chauffeurs, cigar makers, machinists, painters, mechanics, industrial foremen and shoe workers.

The applicants range in age from 30 to 50 years. Occasionally an old man takes his place in the line and makes a half-hearted appeal for a job. "I can do anything," is the response of many in answer to the clerk's question concerning qualifications. One old man, who said he had been a pattern maker for an East Side foundry for 26 years, added, "I'm a handy man to have around on any job."

A number of those who have applied are of the type seen sunning themselves on the steps of the old Courthouse. The greater number, however, are respectably dressed, and admit to having "a little money in the bank." They are using their savings sparingly, and are apprehensive of the time when, with funds exhausted, they will be forced to appeal to charity unless they can find a job. Of the first 1000 applicants, 400 have been out of work from two to five months. Several have not worked for a year or more, and one applicant declared he had been hunting work for six years.

Fewer Than 100 Women Apply.

Families of the married job seekers vary from two and three children to nine and 10, and in one instance 11 dependents. Fewer than 100 women appeared at the bureau. The comparatively small number of women applicants is due to their hesitancy about mingling with the large group of men, Jones thinks. A number of the married men left word, however, that their wives are capable of doing general housework, if places can be found for them.

Jones said he was impressed by the surprisingly few requests for emergency relief made by applicants, and also by their reports of credit extended by tradesmen. Those requiring emergency relief are sent to the Amity or Provident Associations. With funds expected from the city, Jones points out that, in an emergency, the old Southern Hotel, with its 420 rooms and spacious lobby, could be readily equipped for housing and feeding homeless persons. The heating plant is being reconditioned.

Seeking Jobs for Applicants.

Mahaffey has conferred with leaders of local industrial and business organizations in an effort to find jobs for groups of employes. J. F. Lucey, Dallas, Tex., regional director of President Hoover's Unemployment Commission, who visited here Friday, suggested that announcements be obtained from employers that no additional workers would be laid off during the winter. One cause of the present absence of buying, Lucey believes, is the fear on the part of many employed persons that they will soon lose their jobs. The moral effect of such an announcement would result in a marked increase in the production of many commodities, Lucey thinks. Lucey indorsed Mahaffey's appeal to employers to hire one additional man as a means of providing work throughout the winter months for a large number.

The employment office is open from 9 to 5 o'clock Monday to Friday, and to 1 p. m. Saturdays. Jones, who is secretary-manager of the St. Louis Tuberculosis Society, is assisted by eight clerks, whose services are donated by charitable organizations.

Engineer to Be Guest.

Leo Kauf, an engineer of London and Vienna, will be the guest of the St. Louis chapter, Associated General Contractors of America, at a luncheon at the Missouri Athletic Association tomorrow noon. Kauf is studying construction methods in the United States.

$8,000,000 OF PUBLIC FUNDS IN CLOSED ASHEVILLE BANKS

All Payments From Treasury Suspended Temporarily and Economy Policy Is Ordered.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 22.—With more than $8,000,000 of public funds tied up through the closing of three banks, the county, faced with greater difficulties, suspended all payments from its treasury until next week, while strictest economy was the word passed down the line to city employes. The county today had in banks open and operating $483,000, while its deposits in three banks which closed were $3,404,203.

In the Central Bank & Trust Co. largest bank in this section, the county had $3,007,000 when it closed Thursday. Thirteen other banks suspended operation following its closing.

In the American National Bank and the Biltmore-Oteen Bank, the county had $263,203 and $134,000, respectively.

Among the problems the county faces is meeting one interest payment of $102,000 Dec. 1 and another of $86,000 on Jan. 1.

Although the city had $4,653,112.42 in the Central Bank & Trust Co., its financial future appeared brighter than that of the county.

"Every dollar that the city had in the Central Bank is secured by collateral," said Mayor Gallatin Roberts.

KILLS WIFE, SELF, FIRES HOME

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Robert T. Shipley, 40 years old, was shot to death by her estranged husband who then took his own life after setting fire to the house. His body was found in a barn.

Mrs. Shipley and her husband had been separated for two months. Today she went to their former farm home at Alpha, about 15 miles south of here, to feed the chickens. Ethel, the 16-year-old daughter of the Shipleys witnessed the shooting and gave the alarm.

Then we asked Warren and Lucienne, her two lovely youngsters pictured above, to try Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil. They took a spoonful . . .
"Gee, it's good," said Warren.

BARTENDERS WITH $500,000 PRIZE HANG UP APRONS

Share Ticket on Glorious Devon, Winner of Dublin Sweepstakes With Ulster Government Clerk.

By the Associated Press.

BELFAST, Nov. 22.—Glorious Devon, 25-to-1 shot, a chestnut filly, showed her heels to the field in the Manchester handicap today and two Belfast bartenders hung up their aprons to become gentlemen of leisure.

They and a clerk in the Ulster Department of Agriculture split $500,000 three ways, for they had drawn the horse in the Dublin Hospital Sweepstakes on the race.

A widow in Worksop, a village on the edge of Sherwood Forest in England, spent the day in a daze, for she had won $200,000 because Nestorian, a 100 to 1 shot, had come in third. Men and women on both sides of the ocean—all holders of Sweepstake tickets—were richer by sums which ran from $2600 to $400,000.

Frank Ward, who has tended bar for years in a May street pub, and John Torney, a friend in the same profession, let Matt Prescott, who works in the office of the Ulster Minister of Agriculture, buy a share in their ticket.

Passed Up Chance for Million.

Then the three, seeing a chance to pick up some sure money, sold a half interest in the total to Ladbroke & Co., a firm of London accountants, for $11,500. If they had held on they would have shared $1,000,000.

As it is, none of them will collect as much as A. P. Dawes of Vancouver, B. C., who held a $400,000 ticket on Coligny II, which finished second, three lengths behind the winner.

There was a lot of buying and selling before the race was run, however, and it was reported Mrs. Selina Thompson, the widow of Worksop, had sold an interest in her ticket. Some of the other big winners also are thought to have shared their prospects for immediate cash.

Americans Among Winners.

Eleven Americans and Canadians also were among the winners. A. B. Harris and John Tanagana of New York held tickets on starters, worth nearly $10,000 each, and the same prize was drawn by U. de Toh of Manila, P. I. Every horse which started paid the same amount to the ticket holder, for only 28 entries ran, and $245,715 was divided among the ticket holders.

Even those whose horses were scratched won about $2670 each, and these included Mordick Toirer, Boston; Margaret Cohalan, New York; G. B. Bailey, Peterborough, Ont.; A. Cowie of Uno, Manitoba, and E. C. Wilson of Mattawa, Ont.

E. Billington of Lockport, Manitoba, drew "the field," but the sweep authorities had made no announcement of what his ticket would mean in cash.

Whoops It Up and Quits.

Most of the big winners who could be reached today appeared to take their good fortune in their stride, but Ward was another matter. He whooped as someone brought him the news, tore off his apron and broke into a jig while the customers cheered. Then he reached for his hat.

"And where do you think you're going?" the barmaid demanded.

"I'm off to better myself," said Ward, and he lunged out of the door.

MRS. MYRTLE BRANDT GETS DIVORCE AND $40,000 ALIMONY

Guardian for Former Husband, J. G. Brandt Jr., Admits Indignities.

Mrs. Myrtle Brandt, 7267 Colgate avenue, University City, obtained a divorce at Clayton yesterday from John George Brandt Jr., son of a retired shoe dealer who died in 1923 leaving a $500,000 estate. Brandt Jr., who was declared insane in September, 1923, has been a patient at Glenwood Sanatorium in Webster Groves.

Mrs. Brandt was awarded $40,000 alimony and $20,000 for support of their 15-year-old daughter, Cornelia, by Circuit Judge Mulloy. Brandt's guardian, Henry A. Baker, an attorney, appeared for him and admitted the truth of the charges of general indignities contained in the divorce petition. The Brandts were married in 1914 and separated in 1923.

Judge Mulloy entered the divorce decree Nov. 8, but set it aside when his attention was called to the fact that he had acted on the suit without requiring the customary three-day period between filing and trial.

EDWARD H. JEWETT DIES

Retired Auto Manufacturer of Detroit Succumbs in Florida.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 22.—Edward H. Jewett, who died today at his home in Melbourne, Fla., was one of three brothers prominently identified with industrial Detroit. He was at one time president of the Jewett, Bigelow & Brooks Coal Co., one of the very large operators, owning or controlling many mines.

Later, with his brothers, Jewett controlled the old Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co. and subsequently engaged in the production of radios and phonographs. He was born in Elmyra, N. Y., in 1874, and was educated at Notre Dame. He was unmarried.

SAYS PRICE CUT WILL MOVE SURPLUS AMERICAN STOCKS

London Banking Review Expects This to Aid Business Recovery in Time.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—J. Henry Schroder & Co., London banking firm, says in its quarterly review today that American manufacturers and merchants apparently have arrived at the conclusion that surplus stocks are the last but all-important obstacle to sound business recovery.

"The current reductions being made in retail prices, and plans to reduce prices still further, are well conceived," says the review, "and may be expected to increase consumption, reduce stocks in terms of sales and start the whole cycle of industrial recovery in motion."

While emphasizing the importance of disposing of surplus stocks, the banking house cautions that results should not be anticipated too early, as it must be borne in mind that goods in consumers' hands have not reached the point where replacement is imperative.

HUSBAND HAS TO GET DAY JOB

New York Woman Binds Herself to Tree; Police Rescue Her.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Louise Nelezinski said to herself: "If Carl Nelezinski comes home every morning and finds his wife sitting in a tree he won't like it. Maybe he will get a day job and stay home nights."

The Nelezinskis live in Brooklyn. He is a baker. The wife climbed the tree, bound herself hand and foot to a limb and waited. But her husband was late getting home. At 3 o'clock this morning the tree sitter was so numb with cold that she could not undo her bonds. A policeman heard her scream and rescued her. Her husband is looking for day work.

VETERAN WINS $20,872 IN SUIT AGAINST U. S.

Patrick B. Brennan, Ex-Marine, Was Wounded in Belleau Wood Battle.

Patrick B. Brennan, former Marine Corps Corporal who was critically wounded in Belleau Wood in 1918, is entitled to $7072 in back disability payments and $57.50 monthly for the next 20 years, a total of $20,872, a jury in United States District Judge Davis' Court decided yesterday.

The verdict is against the United States Veterans' Bureau and covers indemnity on Brennan's War Risk Insurance policy. The bureau had resisted payment on the ground that he had allowed the policy to lapse, and that he was not totally disabled as he contended.

Brennan and three other marines were manning a machine gun in Belleau Wood on June 3, 1918, at the opening of the Germans' final drive on Paris, when a shell hit alongside the machine gun, killing the three privates and seriously wounding Brennan who suffered a crushed hand and shoulder and deep wounds in the skull, all exhibited to the jury yesterday.

Eustace C. Wheeler, attorney for Brennan, contended that constantly recurring attacks of dizziness made it impossible for Brennan to work. He has been receiving $50 a month compensation, being rated 50 per cent disabled. Fifteen Government witnesses, most of them physicians, testified Brennan was not totally disabled. The outcome of the suit yesterday will not directly affect the payment of Brennan's compensation at $50 a month since only the disability payment from his government insurance policy was at issue.

1000 ADVOCATES OF WATERWAYS TO MEET IN CITY

C. A. Newton Discussing Valley Convention Denies River Plan Clashes With Railroad Growth.

25 STATES WILL BE REPRESENTED

Secretary of War Hurley and Robert R. McCormick to Be Among the Speakers.

Waterway advocates have never considered river development in actual opposition to railroads, Cleveland A. Newton, former leader of the river bloc in Congress, said yesterday in the face of several indications that railroads are opposed to river development.

Newton is general counsel of the Mississippi Valley Association, which is preparing for its twelfth annual convention tomorrow and Tuesday at Hotel Statler. Railroad opposition was a chief topic at last year's meeting, when a common opinion expressed by veterans of the association was that opponents were making a last desperate stand against waterways.

Waterways were lumped with highways in opposition, reported in last week's dispatches, in addresses at the annual meeting of the Railway Business Association and resolutions of five railway brotherhoods. A petition to bar the Inland Waterways Corporation, Federal operating agency, from placing a barge line on the Illinois River, was filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission recently by the Southern Railway.

"We have never considered the rivers as anything but supplementary to the railroads," said Newton. "We know that consistent and constant development of adequate rail service, at rates low enough to move traffic economically, but high enough to provide proper revenue, is essential to normal growth of the Middle West.

"We also know that adequate river service is an essential supplement to the railroads. Whenever the railroads come to understand that, there will be no more controversy."

The meeting of the Valley Association is recognized as the outstanding yearly meeting of waterway advocates. In the association, representing groups from 25 states, the problems of waterway development are brought up and presented each year to the annual convention.

Speakers at the convention will include Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune; Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, manufacturers, two Major-Generals, two Senators, four Governors and nine Congressmen. The meeting is expected to bring 1000 advocates of inland waterway transportation to St. Louis.

COUNT VON LUCKNER TO GIVE FIRST PUBLIC ADDRESS HERE

German Sea Raider of World War to Appear Dec. 1 Under Junior League Auspices.

Count Felix von Luckner, most colorful of modern salt water characters, will deliver his first public lecture in St. Louis at 8 p. m. Dec. 1 at Hotel Jefferson under auspices of the Junior League.

The "Sea Devil" has acquired an extensive acquaintance in St. Louis in earlier visits to lecture for various clubs since 1927. He had made some St. Louis friends in advance of his first visit, in fact, through reports of a sailor who returned to his home here in 1918 and declared the only fun he got out of life at sea was as a captive on Von Luckner's famous raider, the Sea Eagle, which sank $25,000,000 worth of allied shipping without taking life.

Count von Luckner's topic will be "Sea Raids of a Friendly Enemy." Tickets are on sale at the Aeolian Co., 1004 Olive street.

CHRISTMAS CAROL ASSOCIATION ENLISTING VOLUNTEER SINGERS

Opens Headquarters and Plans to Make This Year's Observance Larger Than Ever.

The St. Louis Christmas Carol Association has opened headquarters at 316 North Eighth street, where volunteer groups of singers are being enlisted.

The association is striving to make this year's observance of greater scope than ever before. Voluntary offerings will be taken up by the carolers and the funds will be used for emergency charitable purposes for children. Last year the fund amounted to $6380.

Groups of singers representing choral clubs, schools, and church choirs will sing in downtown hotels, restaurants, and department stores Dec. 23 and 24.

MADISON BANKER IS CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMEN

R. B. Studebaker, Forme Cashier of Tri-State Bank, Fills $10,000 Bond on Warrant.

ALLEGED SHORTAGE IS PLACED AT $19,975

As Village Treasurer, He Handled All Vouchers Both at City Hall and Depository.

Charged in a warrant with the embezzlement of $19,975.14 of the funds of the closed Tri-City State Bank of Madison, R. B. Studebaker, former cashier of the bank and former Village Treasurer of Madison, has furnished $10,000 bond, declining to comment on the charge against him.

The warrant, issued on the complaint of C. S. Schooley, president of the bank, was based on an audit by State bank examiners who finished their work a few days ago. M. H. Ward, receiver of the bank, will co-operate in a further investigation inasmuch as Studebaker, in the dual capacity of cashier and village treasurer, had the duty of handling all the vouchers of the village, both in the bank and city hall.

The bank closed Sept. 3 when it was announced an audit was under way in preparation for transfer of the banking business to a new financial group. However, rumors of a shortage in the cashier's accounts were heard and State examiners were called in. On Spet. 26, President Schooley announced an apparent shortage had been found in Studebaker's accounts.

The issuance of the embezzlement warrant is laid to the activity of an organization of depositors of the bank, who demanded criminal prosecution. As soon as Studebaker learned of the formal charge he appeared before Police Magistrate Charles Sowell at Granite City accompanied by three bondsmen.

As cashier, Studebaker's salary was $275 a month. He drew $50 a month as Village Treasurer and $50 a month as treasurer of the Venice Township School Board. He resides at 1703 Fourth street, Madison.

Deposits in the bank totaled $295,269 and the receiver plans to return 25 per cent to depositors before Christmas, if possible. Policemen and firemen of Madison, whose salaries have been in arrears because of the closing of the bank, were paid Friday. City officials were not willing to say, however, that they were certain the treasurer's accounts were correct.

NEW LISTING FOR HOMICIDES TO CUT ST. LOUIS AVERAGE

Working Out Revised Method So City Will Have Fairer Standing.

Chief of Police Gerk and Coroner Dever are trying to work out a revised method for listing violent deaths in St. Louis, so that this city will have a fairer showing in national crime statistics.

In statistics recently published by the Department of Justice, the homicide average for St. Louis during the first nine months of the year was 9.24 per 100,000 of population. This was higher than Cleveland, with 8.77, or Chicago, with 8.37. Inquiry by the Chamber of Commerce to determine how homicides were listed in St. Louis disclosed that the total of 136 reported for St. Louis included 10 holdup men killed by policemen, one killed by a private watchman and two by citizens. The total figure also included the deaths of several women from illegal operations.

An unofficial list compiled by police reporters shows only 91 deaths which could by any stretch of circumstances be classed as murders. Even including the killings of the 13 holdup men as homicides, the list totals only 104.

WELFARE LEAGUE MEETING

State and City Boards to Plan Legislative Program Tuesday.

State and St. Louis boards of directors of the Missouri Welfare League will meet Tuesday morning at the organization's headquarters in the Arcade building and at luncheon at the Town Club. They will consider a legislative program to be presented to the Legislature in January.

Out-State directors who will attend include Mrs. O. W. Bleek of Farmington, State Representative H. O. Maxey of Butler and Mrs. George A. Still of Kirksville. The St. Louis branch announced the addition of three directors, the Rev. R. L. Duckworth, assistant pastor of St. John's Methodist Church; the Rev. Humner Walters, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, and Mrs. George W. Parker.

New Post for John G. Lonsdale.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 22.—John G. Lonsdale, president of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co. of St. Louis, yesterday was chosen by the board of directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in session here, to serve as vice president of the organization to succeed the late Charles W. Lonsdale of Kansas City.

3 MEN SLAIN IN JOPLIN IN 3 DAYS

Two of Killings Unexplained—Man Held in Connection With Other.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOPLIN, Mo., Nov. 22.—The third murder in three days was discovered this morning. John H. Fenton of this city was found shot to death in his automobile parked beside a road near the city. A revolver, which had been fired three times, was clenched in his hand and there were five bullet holes in the car, made from the outside. Residents of the vicinity said the car had been parked where it was found since 7 o'clock last night.

A deathbed statement by Paul Hindman to his brother, Byron, disclosed by police tonight, said Hindman admitted shooting R. S. Pinegar, 71-year-old Kansas City, Kan., druggist, in a holdup Thursday night.

The statement, police announced, said Pinegar drew a pistol, Hindman and he both fired and both were wounded. It said Albert McCann, sought here, was in the holdup, fled, later picked up Hindman, brought him to a Joplin hospital accompanied by Hindman's former wife, Mrs. Peggy Moss, and McCann's wife, Billie Lee. The statement added that Hindman did not know how he got six wounds, as Pinegar fired only once.

In another statement, given by Hindman to his brother-in-law, Victor Shutt, Hindman was quoted as saying he fired five times, and Pinegar three. Paul said he got the druggist's revolver, containing three empty shells.

Mrs. Moss was taken to Kansas City, Kan., tonight.

William DeGrass is held in connection with the murder of Jesse Biggs, ex-convict, Wednesday night on a highway near here. Biggs has been identified as the robber who committed many holdups here and in other Southwest Missouri towns recently. He was killed by DeGraff, it is said, in a struggle over a revolver when they were seated in a car parked by the roadside. Stella White of Joplin, said the quarrel started when Biggs became familiar with her when she was riding with the men in the car, which had been stolen at Springfield. The woman was put out of the car some time before the shooting.

W. N. DOAK, LABOR EDITOR, FAVORED FOR CABINET POST

Virginian Said to Be Hoover's Choice as Successor of Secretary Davis.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—William N. Doak of Virginia, editor of Railroad Trainman, is favored by President Hoover as Secretary of Labor to succeed Senator-elect Davis of Pennsylvania, but a final decision is awaiting consideration of several problems.

Davis goes to the Senate in another week. Hoover has 30 days in which to fill the vacancy. He and his advisers want the place filled quickly in view of the unemployment situation. Doak was slated for the original Hoover Cabinet two years ago, but re-appointment of Secretary Davis was announced at the last minute.

Should the President defer selection, Robe Carl White, First Assistant Secretary of Labor, likely would hold the office. White, who is an Indianan, also has been mentioned for secretary.

Mr. Hoover still has several other names before him. These include John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and Meyer Bloomfield of New York, a labor expert and author. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, also has been mentioned.

CITY-COUNTY MERGER GROUP SPENT $34,728

Citizens' Metropolitan Committee Gives Out Report on Campaign Cost.

The Citizens' Metropolitan Committee, which conducted the unsuccessful campaign for adoption of proposition No. 5 in the recent election, the constitutional amendment to enable merger of the city and St. Louis County under certain stated conditions, has notified its members of its expenses, which aggregated $34,728.30, or $1.95 less than its receipts. The funds came from about 150 subscriptions, large and small, from individuals, corporations and civic and commercial organizations.

These expenditures were apart from those incurred in the study of the metropolitan plan made previously under a $30,000 fund provided by the Industrial Club. Major items of the campaign accounts were: City and State campaign, $26,088.92; county campaign, $5371.50; bills of the plan study exceeding the $30,000 fund, assumed by the campaign group, $1267.88 (including a $787.43 expense and salary account of Prof. Thomas H. Reed, consultant in preparing the plan, and $480.45 for work by the Bureau of Municipal Research): payment still due Prof. Reed under his salary contract, $2000.

The largest detail of the city and State campaign item was $12,398.26 for signatures to the initiative petitions for putting the proposition on the ballot. Felix E. Gunter, chairman of the Finance Committee, in a letter of thanks to contributors, spoke of the difficulty of obtaining adequate funds and said the campaign started with a deficit of about $17,000, including the cost of getting the petition signatures and payments due Prof. Reed then.

Non-Voting Penalty in Panama.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PANAMA, Nov. 22.—With a view to compelling a part of the 90 per cent of voters who stay at home on election day to go to the polls in 1932, the revised election laws of Panama provide a penalty upon Government employes and those doing business with the Government for failure to vote. The penalty in one case is dismissal from the service and for contractors cancellation of contracts.

Don't "go to war" with a cold, much as you hate the cold! Instead, just soothe it away with the potent, modern "Pineoleum" oil spray treatment! Children like it, too!

Is it any wonder that millions of people have turned to this pleasant way of treating a cold—that thousands of doctors recommend it? For the "Pineoleum" oil spray treatment acts on a cold right at the seat of the trouble—the passages of the nose and throat.

It bathes the inflamed membranes in a penetrating film of soothing oil that protects the tissues and inhibits the growth of germs.

BUS AND STREET CAR RIDERS FEWER IN 1930

Loss to People's Co. 7 Pct., to P. S. Co. 11 Pct. With Gain in Its Auto Travel.

Loss of riders by the People's Motorbus Co. this year, exclusive of the period of 22 days when the company's busses were at a standstill because of a strike, has been between 7 and 8 per cent, according to Richard W. Meade, president. For the month of October fares dropped 7.73 per cent as compared with those of the corresponding month a year ago.

The percentage of decline is less than that of the St. Louis Public Service Co. which for its entire system of both street cars and busses was 11.4 per cent for the first 45 weeks of this year. A sharp increase in the bus business of the street car company, previously noted in the Post-Dispatch, is attributable to the substitution of busses for street cars on some lines.

The People's Motorbus Co. operates about 200 busses and the extent of its service is substantially the same as a year ago, Meade said. In the early part of the year it suffered little loss of traffic except for the strike period, but since about the first of June the decline has been heavier, due largely to the business depression. In number of fares this year the company now is nearly 2,000,000 behind last year when 23,544,176 revenue passengers were carried.

The Public Service Co.'s decline up to now amounts to about 24,000,000 revenue riders. In the latest week for which figures are available its bus fares were 131,633 as compared with 99,330 a year earlier, an increase of more than 30 per cent.

Of these 30,588 were accounted for by the Vandeventer line where bus operation was started within the year as a substitute for street cars. In the last week street cars were operated on Vandeventer avenue they carried 67,583 revenue passengers. The bus line is shorter than the old street car line, the southern part of which is now served by the Sarah street cars.

Other bus installations made in recent months also have helped to increase the total proportion of the Public Service Co.'s traffic which is carried by busses. The Shreve line replaced the Marcus and Spalding car lines, covering some additional territory and in a recent week took in 9822 fares compared with 9428 from the Marcus and Spalding cars a year earlier. Busses also have replaced the Midland cars in the county.

Recent figures show that busses account for 3.3 per cent of the Public Service Co.'s fares compared with 2 per cent a year ago. The company owns 59 busses of which about 50 are regularly in operation. Eight are used on the Vandeventer line, and the remainder on 14 other routes.

RECORD ENROLLMENT IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS LAST YEAR

Pupils Numbered 116,202; Gain of 752; 7085 Credited With Perfect Attendance.

During the public school year of 1299-30 there were 7085 pupils with a perfect record of attendance every day the schools were in session, it is related in Supt. Gerling's annual report. The enrollment was 116,202, exceeding by 752 the previous record number of the year before.

High school enrollment partook of the general increase, with 16,046, or 248 more than the previous year's record, and the number of high school graduates, 2223, was 175 more than the record number of the preceding year. The 1930 summer schools had 25,187 students, and 124 high school pupils attending them were enabled to finish their courses and receive diplomas.

The superintendent reported that providing class rooms for the growing number of pupils is a problem. Playgrounds, he noted, were maintained by 67 schools during the summer, for 11 weeks, and the average daily attendance was 25,112.

The Department of Hygiene found 51,884 school children during the year who had major or minor physical defects, bad teeth being the most common trouble. The inspectors found 14,425 cases of noncommunicable diseases and 1382 of communicable diseases.

URGES EXTRA FEDERAL JUDGE IN MEMPHIS DURING INQUIRY

La Guardia Says Otherwise Statute of Limitations Will Run Against Bankruptcies.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. — The Department of Justice has been asked by Representative La Guardia (Rep.), New York, to assign an additional Federal Judge to the Memphis district to investigate certain proceedings under the bankruptcy act carried on before the House Judiciary Committee began its inquiry into the official conduct of Federal Judge Harry B. Anderson of that district.

La Guardia, who has just returned from Tennessee, where hearings were held in the Anderson case, said there is immediate need for action on the part of the Department of Justice to prevent the statute of limitations from running against several bankruptcy cases which the committee thinks should be investigated. An additional Judge, assisted by a representative of the Department of Justice, preferably an assistant attorney general, La Guardia said, would have authority to impanel a grand jury.

The House sub-committee investigating the charges looking to the impeachment of Judge Anderson will resume its hearings in Washington early next month, and may return to Memphis to hear Judge Anderson before the report is drafted. The members of the investigating sub-committee are: Representatives Heckey, Kansas; La Guardia, New York; Sparks, Kansas; Sumners, Texas, and Browning, Tennessee.

POLITICAL CRISIS IN CUBA REPORTED NEAR

Student Leaders Refuse to Arbitrate—Nationalists Denounce President.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 22. — Dispatches reaching here from Cuba assert that the political unrest in the island is seething beneath a quiet surface and that a crisis is near.

The university student leaders in the disturbances which have caused Havana to be placed under martial law, refused to arbitrate.

Senator Alberto Barreras, who recently was appointed to mediate between the students and the government, has abandoned his task as hopeless and the government now has pinned its faith to a new negotiator, Dr. A. A. Aballi, a member of the National University faculty.

Aballi's son, Luis, participated in the student riots recently and was wounded, but the father urges that politics be taken off the campus and that classes be resumed.

Nationalist Manifesto Asserts State of Revolt Exists.

By the Associated Press.

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 22.—Dr. Adolfo E. de Aragon, Cuban representative of the Key West Cuban Club, today made public a manifesto which he said was signed in Havana in his presence by Col. Carolos Mendieta, head of the Nationalist party of Cuba.

"There exists," says the manifesto, "a state of revolution in Cuba, proof of the protest and rebellion of the people against the political tyrant, Gen. Machado.

"The elections which took place Nov. 1, were marked by frauds so glaring as to occasion surprise to all who have sought for purity of suffrage in the republic. The electorate did not go to the polls; the candidates chosen were in fact designated by the imperial oligarchy."

SUCCESSOR TO R. S. KELLEY IN LAND OFFICE POST NAMED

Secretary Wilbur Appoints J. Arthur Moore of Salt Lake Bureau Chief of Denver Work.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—J. Arthur Moore, for the last six years in charge of the Salt Lake City headquarters of the General Land Office, was appointed today as chief of the Denver Land Office, succeeding Ralph S. Kelley, who was formally dismissed by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur from the service following publication in the New York World of his detailed charges contending the Department's policy for acquisition by private oil interests of valuable oil shale holdings on the public domain.

Moore's announcement today, announced by Charles C. Moore, Commissioner of the General Land Office, was not unexpected and was made after a two-day conference with Department of Interior officials. Moore, who left for Denver today to take over his new post, is familiar with the oil shale land situation as the result of his service in Salt Lake, the post Kelley held from 1918 to 1924, before going to the Denver office.

Commissioner Moore said that the Salt Lake office, which also is an important cog in the administration of the Government's oil shale lands, will be filled temporarily by Arthur Ryan, a mining engineer now stationed there. Moore has served in various posts in the Land Office for many years and is familiar with the questions upon which Kelley disagreed with the Interior Department.

LIVESTOCK MEN ASSAIL PRACTICES OF CO-OPERATIVES

Head of East Side Packing Co. Testifies That 'Marking Tickets' Makes for 'Very Bad Trading.'

Marketing practices of the Producers' Livestock Commission Association and the National Order Buying Co., complainants in the boycott hearing being conducted in East St. Louis by the Department of Agriculture, were criticised yesterday by Frank A. Hunter, president of the East Side Packing Co., who was a witness for the defendants.

The 47 dealers, who have been ordered to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked, have based their defense partly on the ground that the complainants, members of the Federal Farm Board marketing organization, employ trade practices which justify refusals to deal with them.

Livestock sales on the basis of "marking tickets," and the policy of the Producers of granting to six firms regular days of the week on which they may have first choice of the Producers' hogs, are the practices to which old line dealers have objected. They contend also that the two companies are affiliated so closely that they can exchange information which will work to the detriment of other market agencies.

Causes "Very Bad Trading."

Sales by "marking tickets," in which the price is not agreed upon at the time the sale is made, but is marked in later in accordance with the established price, makes for "very bad trading," Hunter testified.

"If it is carried to any considerable extent you may have a situation in which a relatively small number of hogs establish a market value for the greater number. In that event either the buyer or the seller may suffer. Hogs of the same weight are not always of the same quality. When the tickets are marked the price is fixed by weight, regardless of quality. That is bad for the owner of good hogs, and good for the owner of bad hogs."

The granting of preference to a limited number of buyers tends to make an unstable market, Hunter said. "If the supply is short and the preferred buyer takes all the stock, some may be shut off entirely. Also it is very natural that the buyer who has acquired hogs without a definitely determined price, will tend to be a bear on the market and seek to depress the general price level.

Buying in Western Markets.

"My personal interest is against that sort of trading. If the first buyer takes all the hogs we may have to look elsewhere for them. So far this year we have purchased only 30 per cent of our hogs on this market, the others coming from Western markets. A few years ago those percentages were reversed."

Other witnesses yesterday were John L. Delmore and A. P. Hensley, defendants. Both testified they had refused to deal with the Producers' or the National company. Both denied that any agreement to boycott the companies existed.

Hensley said he made up his mind not to deal with the National company when he read in newspapers last spring that the Farm Board had lent it $300,000 for expansion of its operations. A loan of that amount was authorized, but the company drew only $50,000, repaid that, and borrowed $100,000 from the Farm Board through the National Livestock Marketing Association. Hensley said he considered the Government loan to the National company placed him at an unfair advantage, and he resolved to have nothing to do with the company.

Refused to Deal With Concern.

He told of talking to Wallace Potts, who became manager of the branch of the National company at this market when it was opened Aug. 4. "I told Potts I wouldn't deal with his company because of its connection with the Producers' and because of the Farm Board loan," Hensley testified. "I don't think he denied that his company was connected with the Producers', but he offered to bet that it had borrowed no money from the Farm Board. Finally I told him I would do business with him if he would take the Statue of Liberty out of New York harbor. He said he didn't think he could do that, and he never asked me again."

She is the Honorable Katharine Plunkett, who was celebrating her 110th birthday, quietly as has been her wont for many years. For breakfast there was the customary glass of milk, but the dinner table was spread with roast turkey and plum pudding for the guests who came to do her honor. TIME BOMB SENT A. P. OFFICE IN SPOKANE; DISMANTLED

Inferno Machine Made of 106 Sticks of Dynamite Taken Apart Before It Explodes.

By the Associated Press.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 22.—A time dynamite bomb was delivered to the Associated Press office here today and was taken apart by locksmiths and an Associated Press employe. The bomb had been set for 3:30 a. m. tomorrow morning.

The bomb, sent in a steamer trunk from a Seattle, Wash., address and attached to an electric battery and a time clock, was delivered to the Associated Press this morning by the American Railway Express Co.

Cleveland Williams, Associated Press correspondent, checked and ascertained the senders' names were faked and this afternoon took the trunk to a locksmith. The smith opened the trunk and Williams ripped the bomb apart. Two years ago a dynamite bomb was left in the entrance to the Spokesman-Review building, which houses the Associated Press office. The fuse died out without igniting the charge.

Today's bomb contained 106 sticks of dynamite.

LIEUT. LOUIS A. VAUPRE WINS MITCHELL AIR TROPHY

Covers 120-Mile Triangle at Average of 146.7 Miles an Hour; 1924 Record Still Stands.

SELFRIDGE FIELD, MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Nov. 22.—Lieut. Louis A. Vaupre, attached to the Thirty-sixth Pursuit Squadron, captured the Mitchell trophy, a major military flying award, in the annual speed event here today.

Lieut. Vaupre's elapsed time was 49 minutes, 39.75 seconds. An average of 146.7 miles an hour, over the 120-mile triangular course. Nearly 75,000 spectators watched the race. Eighteen army planes were entered.

Flying a Curtiss P-1, standard army pursuit plane, Lieut. Vaupre nosed out Lieut. George F. Smith of the Twenty-seventh squadron, whose time was 49:51:76, or 146.96 miles an hour. Third was Lieut. Theodore M. Bolen of the Twenty-seventh, with 49:52.38 elapsed time, averaging 145.93 miles per hour.

The speed event was marked by three accidents but no injuries.

ASSERTS WORLD PACT ONLY CAN SOLVE SILVER PROBLEM

Secretary of Commerce Lamont Tells Senator Oddie Low Price Is Due to Foreign Selling.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Secretary of Commerce Lamont notified Senator Oddie of Nevada today that he thinks the low price of silver is due to foreign selling of silver stocks and only an international agreement to prevent this can help the situation.

The telegram was in response to the Senator's request for the Commerce Department to call a silver conference, with a view to relieving the depressed price situation. The Secretary of Commerce said he fully understood the "serious widespread effect of the low price of silver," but held a departmental conference would be ineffective.

"Consumption in India and China alone has been running nearly 200,000,000 ounces annually," he added. "The amount consumed in the arts by England, the United States and Canada is not over 40,000,000 ounces. I understand a movement is on foot for an international discussion and believe nothing else will be effective."

Senator Borah of Idaho said yesterday that an international agreement was the only way to solve the silver problem.

NO BASIS TO DEPORT 5 SCORFINA ACCUSED

Only One of Gangsters Involved Is Alien Never Convicted of Felony.

An investigation made by the Immigration Bureau to determine whether any of the five Sicilian gangster defendants in the Scorfina kidnaping case could be deported as undesirable aliens shows that none of them can legally be sent out of the country.

Only one of the erstwhile defendants, Vito Impastato, is foreign born. The others, Frank Agrusa, Sora Mania, Baptista Bommerito and Mike Lombardo, are native-born American citizens, and as such are not subject to deportation proceedings in any circumstances.

The immigration laws require that two felony convictions be the minimum showing for deportation of an alien who has been in this country for more than five years. If he has been here less than five years only a single felony conviction is required as a basis for deportation proceedings.

Impastato, it was established, has been in the United States for more than five years. His only recorded conviction was for a misdemeanor, violation of the Volstead act.

While the Scorfina kidnaping case was pending, Impastato's application for citizenship came up for hearing in Federal Court in Springfield, Ill. Because of his record it was denied with prejudice, which means he cannot file another application for five years from the date of refusal.

Sam Scorfina, whose failure to identify the five on the witness stand at Belleville Wednesday resulted in their dismissal and his arrest for perjury, is recuperating from a nervous breakdown, it was learned yesterday.

After he had been committed to jail on the perjury charge he suffered a nervous attack which brought about his removal to the St. Clair County Hospital. Worry for fear that friends of the gangsters would harm his wife and seven children was given as the cause for his collapse. After posting $5000 bond, he returned to St. Louis with relatives and yesterday was said to be under a physician's care at the home of a friend.

What is the relative position of France and Germany today in respect to armaments? It is thus stated by the Germans. I quote once ore from Dr. Bruening's paper:

Germany has an army of 100,000 men, that is, a hundred times less, without considering the inferiority of her war material. It is simply grotesque to say that the security of France and Poland can be menaced. The claim of Germany at Geneva is that the same conditions of disarmament be applied to Germany as to other countries and that there should be no exceptional conditions made for the German Republic. In the League of Nations there should only be equals."

This contention cannot be fairly challenged by any statesman who honestly looks into the facts and figures. It represents a glaring breach of the fundamental condition upon the strength of which Germany was induced to sign the Treaty of Versailles. M. Clemenceau, President of the Peace Treaty Commission, wrote a letter to the German elegation on behalf of all representatives of the allied Powers assembled in Paris, in the course of which he categorically promised to reduce allied armaments to the same level as those of Germany. The French group in Europe have definitely refused to carry out this obligation of honor.

Failure of Nations to Reduce Armaments, Says Lloyd George, Forecasts Another War

'Germany Duped Into Impotence by Peace Treaty—a Mean Trick'

France and Allies Are Refusing to Carry Out an Honest Obligation of Honor, Says English Leader, and Policy Is Driving Italy and Russia Into Co-Operation With Germany—Military Dominion in Europe Now Greater Than Ever Before.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE.

LONDON, Nov. 22.

IF the security for world peace is left to Disarmament Commission at Geneva, then another world war is inevitable. And when it breaks out this egregious commission will be still discussing whether disarmament shall be attained by budgetary or by direct limitation or by combination of both; whether reserves shall be included in computation of forces and whether the recommendations made shall be extended to naval and air forces as well as to land armaments.

If the nations mean business, there is only one way to reduce armaments and that is by limiting the numbers and the equipment of the forces that can be put into the field by each country in the event of war. As the official organ of the German Chancellor very fairly puts it: "France claims she has disarmed because she has shortened the length of service. What France's neighbors want to know is not how many Frenchmen are in the service but how many Frenchmen are ready to march to the frontier."

France has a peace establishment which is variously computed at figures in and around half a million men, but if war were declared by or against France she could put into the field fully equipped a force of several millions of men. A more startling phase of the position of Europe is the fact that the equipment of these millions would be incomparably more powerful and destructive than that of the German armies of 1914.

Ten Million Against 100,000.

What is the relative position of France and Germany today in respect to armaments? It is thus stated by the Germans. I quote once more from Dr. Bruening's paper:

"Germany's military security no longer exists. France and her allies can put into the field at least 10,000,000 men. Germany has an army of 100,000 men, that is, a hundred times less, without considering the inferiority of her war material. It is simply grotesque to say that the security of France and Poland can be menaced. The claim of Germany at Geneva is that the same conditions of disarmament be applied to Germany as to other countries and that there should be no exceptional conditions made for the German Republic. In the League of Nations there should only be equals."

This contention cannot be fairly challenged by any statesman who honestly looks into the facts and figures. It represents a glaring breach of the fundamental condition upon the strength of which Germany was induced to sign the Treaty of Versailles. M. Clemenceau, President of the Peace Treaty Commission, wrote a letter to the German delegation on behalf of all representatives of the allied Powers assembled in Paris, in the course of which he categorically promised to reduce allied armaments to the same level as those of Germany. The French group in Europe have definitely refused to carry out this obligation of honor.

Huge Reserves for Army.

Britain and the United States have alone performed their share of the solemn undertaking then given. Italy has offered to reduce her forces to the lowest level attained by other Powers. Russia has also offered to enter into a similar engagement. But France, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia and Rumania have hitherto resolutely declined to carry out the promise given by all the Powers in the Peace Treaties. They forced the Central Powers to accept. It is a mean trick and must inevitably lead sooner or later to international conflict.

It all turns on the questions of reserves and of equipment. At the present moment the militarist Powers are adopting the same methods for building up the strength of their armies as were in force before the war. Every able-bodied young man when he attains a certain age is called up for military service. After he has served his time of training he is passed into the reserve. If there is trouble these reserves can be summoned immediately to the colors up to the age of 45.

A view of the opening session of the League of Nations Preparatory Commission on Disarmament, at Geneva, Switzerland, recently, in which representatives of 32 nations participated.

The equipment available is adequate to put into the field the whole of this immense force, including reserves. The number of men available for active service averages something between seven and ten per cent of the total population of the country. Thus France may have a peace establishment of 500,000 men, but her war strength would be at least 4,000,000.

Shackles on German Army.

During the last 10 years Germany has been forbidden to train her young men for war. The survivors of the great war are still a formidable array, but most of them have already reached an unmilitary age, and those who are left have neither rifles nor cannon wherewith to confront their foes. In a few years they will cease to count and Germany, if she stands alone, will only have 100,000 men trained to the use of arms for the defense of her frontiers against millions of trained and equipped soldiers across her borders.

No wonder she is a Germany that is growing more and more restless and resentful at her treatment. This is not what she agreed to at Versailles. She was there duped into impotence, and no public-spirited nation can tolerate such a situation without protest and without seeking some means of escape from the trap into which she has been inveigled.

This accounts for the proposal she submitted to the last meeting of the Disarmament Commission, that in order to conform to the conditions of the Treaty of Versailles all nations which practice conscription should limit the numbers of men called up each year for training. This would automatically limit reserves. It is the only way by which these nations can honestly carry out the provisions of the treaty.

Six nations voted for the proposal. Thirteen against. But eighteen abstained. Amongst those who voted for the German proposals were Russia and the Scandinavian countries. Among those abstaining were the United States and Great Britain. The attitude of both these countries is incomprehensibly feeble. Had they taken a strong line France and her coadjutors would have been compelled to face their treaty obligations.

Policy "Cowardly Sham".

Why a Labor government should have shrunk from doing its obvious duty and insisting upon the only course that can lead to world peace, it is difficult for anyone to understand who is not familiar with its record of running away when the time comes for putting its pledges and ideals into practice. The sort of idealist who looks down on the rest of us as a sordid crowd, when his time comes for action is disposed to postpone the battle to a more convenient season. In that respect Lord Cecil has proved himself an admirable and appropriate representative of the Labor Government. His stern principles faded away before the realities of disarmament into a meaningless blur.

Why the representative of the United States shrank from a decision is more than I can explain. It means the utter failure of the Disarmament Commission. The Bernstorff resolution is the only real test of sincerity in disarmament. The alternative suggestions were a cowardly sham. Budgetary limitations would accomplish but little. The United States and Britain pay good wages to men in their armies and navies and thus their budgets are high for comparatively small forces.

The conscript armies of Europe are paid practically no wage and reserves are paid nothing, and thus a smaller budget produces an immensely larger force. France is relying on the disarmament of Germany and her own gigantic army for the maintenance of the status quo. It is a short-sighted policy. The attitude of the French group is gradually leading to the formation of a rival group. It is significant that Russia has given consistent support to the German thesis on disarmament and although the Italian representative did not vote for the Bernstorff proposal the Italian Duce has shown unmistakable sympathy for the German position.

Popolo D' Italia, the powerful Fascist paper which always faithfully and almost officially represents the Duce's views, in an article entitled "The Obstacle to Disarmament," makes it clear that in the opinion of the Italian Government France blocks the road to peace. The whole article is so remarkable and important in its implications that I think it advisable to quote its actual words:

"Is the right to security an exclusive French privilege and not a principle of life and death for all peoples? Peace treaties were not made to condemn to death certain nations and if their interpretation is to lead to that, nothing could stop the movement tending to modify and even tear them up. Security for all and respect of treaties by all! If France does not disarm the Reich has the right not to disarm, and if Germany arms, following her right as a sovereign state the situation which the treaties wished to stabilize would receive a mortal blow. But France will not disarm because she has armed too much. She has not stopped arming because she is pursuing a policy of intrigue and of violence which will lead inevitably to war. No country would tolerate the establishment of French hegemony in Europe. The policy of France is the only obstacle to disarmament."

This declaration by Signor Mussolini's brother is followed by the reception of representatives of the Steel Helmets at Rome by the Duce himself.

Italy and Russia are being gradually driven by French policy into co-operation with Germany. This regroupment of continental countries of Europe is fraught with danger to world peace. Meanwhile, Britain and the United States are ineffective and impotent neutrals standing on the brink and looking down into a boiling chasm. One day the ground may give way under their feet and precipitate them into the cauldron. That is what happened to both in the last war.

INDIAN REVOLUTION IF BRITISH PARLEY FAILS

England's Only Hope Is to Retain Limited Control In Form Radically Different From Anything Now in Operation.

By Charles Hodges,

Associate Professor of Politics at New York University.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.

THE only thing that stands between India and revolution is the long-heralded Indian Round Table Conference.

The parley opened by the King of England in Westminster represented a last resort to words against the background of mass protest which verges on civil war. It brings to a constitutional head the future of one-sixth of humanity, the largest group of people owing allegiance to the British Crown.

Behind the pageantry of empire in the meeting of British statesmen, Indian princes and spokesmen of the rest of this "cornerstone of empire," there stalks a spectre—Gandhi the apostle of Indian Nationalism and "Swaraj" or freedom, 6000 miles from the Royal Gallery of Britain's House of Lords and in jail. He remains a potent though unseen presence in the triangular deliberations now under way. He is the invisible yardstick by which men and natives from the standpoint of articulate India must be measured; the conference in the capital of Britain's empire faces him at every turn of the proceedings.

These are three-sided because the only "India" which exists today is a geographic rather than a political reality. There is the British "Raj," whose sway as Emperor of India extends over 330 millions of Eastern subjects crowding a veritable subcontinent suspended in semi-isolation from the greater vastness of Asia itself. There are the native princes, some 900 of them, who owe fealty to the British Crown but retain domestic control over their domains which stretch across two-fifths of all India and account for almost a quarter of the population. There is, finally, British India proper, the bulking humanity and territory directly under the domination of England—the political battleground of the struggle which now holds the world's attention.

Though India represents nearly three times the population of the United States crowded into about one-half that area, far greater difficulties than size alone are involved. The British justification of a slow constitutional adjustment centers about status and character of the Indian masses.

Always Near Starvation.

As elsewhere in densely populated parts of Asia which depend upon agriculture, the bulk of India is closer to starvation each twelve months than anything the Occident experiences. The population is heavy, averaging 177 to the square mile or over four times the figure of the United States. The native states, pushed away from coasts by the British encirclement and confined to the less productive interior over a large part of the peninsula, have the lowest, 101; British India, where industry has begun to supplement agriculture on a modern scale, has the greatest with 226.

However, with three-fourths of India dependent upon agricultural pursuits, the margins of existence become narrow indeed after the tax collector has gone his way. The land system, with its landlordism at one end and the over-small peasant holdings clung to tenaciously at the other, means grinding poverty most of the time. For all India, the average annual income per person ranges from $16 to $26 a year.

Even making allowance for a practical silver standard within India and the misery basis of living for the masses, taxation is burdensome. The public debt per capita is $11.30—the gross sum being over 3½ billions of dollars. While four-fifths has been contracted for, what are known as "productive purposes," chiefly railroads, communications and irrigation works, the fact that close to one-half the total is in the form of an external debt held primarily in England adds considerably to India's fiscal troubles. India's "bondage," as the Nationalists see things, begins with the public debt abroad in pounds sterling, runs through the private alien investments in the country on which interest must be paid to foreigners, and ends up with the commercial exploitation which allows English goods to flood the country because Indian industry lacks tariff protection.

Two Indias.

This land of 700,000 villages, close to the famine line, gives the statesman two Indias. Self-government is something easiest to talk about in terms of the urban population where taxation, poverty, disease and ignorance show themselves least, which means 10 per cent of the population. It is hardest to apply to the bulking tillers of the soil; here illiteracy is greatest and democratic political potentialities lowest.

Beyond these economic factors, racial, social and religious differences have made the old imperialistic maxim of "divide and rule" easy to apply. Present-day India admittedly is a motley of peoples, with their myriad tongues, whose antagonisms are deep seated. Moslem, Sikh and Hindu—even about the Westminster conference table—represent religious antipathies fanned to fanatic outbursts which detonate the length and breadth of the peninsula. As the British see it, these are rivalries only momentarily submerged in the common tide of enmity toward alien rule.

The Hindus, two-thirds of the total population, complicate the governmental problem further with the all-pervading caste system. This still stratifies the Indian social order in the face of the Nationalist agitation for one India in fact as well as name. Certainly part of the evils attributed to England's misrule, from the standpoint of Gandhism, are more directly traceable to Hindu civilization—together with the constantly increasing population pressure which in itself has much to do with India's troubles.

But the important thing today is not the charges and countercharges in the midst of bitter political agitation.

Even if the British were overwhelmingly in the right, they would still have to deal with the consequences of these Indian convictions on the question of alien rule. That is why the Round Table Conference on India has started off with the native spokesmen concertedly expressing the opinion that virtual home rule is no longer in question—but that the time and conditions of its realization decidedly press for an unequivocal engagement from the Imperial Government.

Temporizing Policies.

The whole history of the British in India, from the beginning of the seventeenth century trade to the post-war reforms, has been to temporize and retain in the end fundamental control in vital spheres. The profit motive brought them, like the other Western nations, to the "wealth of the Indies," though it is no longer a phrase to conjure with under prevailing world changes in commerce. By and large, the English did not want territory, but trade; but decade after decade found them drawn further into involvement in Indian life.

Behind the British tutelage, there still remains the lure of economic advantages and it is quite true that an independent India would do what no World War could accomplish—initiate the disintegration of an empire which naturally falls into two parts. It would leave the British commonwealth of white nations to the west; it would sunder the British colonial power to the East in the yellow world.

The parley therefore starts off with the British forced by circumstances to face the consequences of breakdown—revolution and its attendant destruction of alien, which happens chiefly to be the British interests. Public loans, private investments and trade total the price of failure.

If the Nationalists lead in demanding real governmental power, nevertheless all factions, even now the native Princes, appear to recognize that the next and last peaceful step must be incorporated within the British commonwealth as a full-fledged equal of the white dominions. The British therefore can only retain a limited control over India's future in a form radically different from anything now in operation.

Safeguards England Wants.

This makes the crucial point of the conference probably the "safeguards" which Britain will demand as the price for governmental changes, transferring domestic jurisdiction largely to Indian hands. These may be summed up as:

(1) The defense of India by British arms, particularly to ward off any threat from Central Asia and Russia beyond.

(2) The security of Britain's investment in India, both public and private, with sound finances guaranteed.

(3) The conduct of India's foreign affairs through Downing street.

(4) The protection of racial and religious minorities.

All this makes the Round Table Conference on India a supreme imperial test for Greater Britain. Here is a Hamlet-like soliloquy. "To be or not to be," in essence, is the dilemma which confronts England's spokesmen. Put bluntly, India's continued disaffection and possible secession would be a body blow to the empire east of Suez.

PETITIONS IN SECOND ATTEMPT TO RECALL SPRINGFIELD MAYOR

Gideon Recently Convicted in Federal Court, It Is Pointed Out.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 22.—Petitions asking the recall of Mayor Thomas H. Gideon were placed in circulation here today. This is the second attempt for a recall since Gideon was elected for a four-year term April, 1928. Gideon won the first recall election by a small majority a year ago.

Since then he has been convicted in Federal Court for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law and sentenced to two years in prison, continuing office while an appeal is pending. G. C. Pike, whose activities as Chief of Police provided most of the background for the first recall attempt, has completed most of a year's sentence in Federal penitentiary for accepting bootleggers' bribes.

The new petitions cite Gideon's conviction and also charge him with general incompetency, failure to administer laws, extravagance in the use of public funds and failure to recognize women in official appointments.

THE second instalment of the tragic narrative telling of the last days of the explorer who started in a balloon for the North Pole in the summer of 1897, as now reconstructed from records left by Andree and his companions, in the form of diaries, and only recently found after being ice-locked in Arctic wastes for 33 years, will be printed in the Magazine Section of the Post-Dispatch next Sunday.

Negatives of pictures taken by Andree shortly before his death and found with the diaries, have recently been developed successfully. These photographs, of absorbing interest, will be printed shortly in the Post-Dispatch.

METHODISTS VOTE TO GIVE UP MISSIONARY FIELD IN FRANCE

Enterprises to Be Turned Over to Other Denominations or to Municipal Authorities.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Withdrawal from France as a field of missionary activity was voted today by the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions. The board decided to turn over its existing enterprises in that country to other evangelistic denominations or to municipal authorities. Figures in the Methodist yearbook for 1929 show 904 members of the denomination in France.

A message to members of the Methodist-Episcopal Church throughout the world disclosing negotiations of the board with other denominations for consolidation of efforts in foreign areas was approved for transmission through church publications and pulpits. The message declares a deficit of more than $300,000 in the year's income will necessitate a readjustment that "will mean a serious and tragic crippling of the work in many fields and stations."

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Louisville's Street Car Fight.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE story in the Post-Dispatch under a date line of Nov. 12, entitled "Cut of 3 cents in Louisville's Car Fare Urged," is another instance of the failure of the foolhardy attempt on the part of street car companies to increase their revenues by raising fares.

The Public Service Co. of St. Louis has learned how unsuccessful such a course has proved, and in Louisville the local street car company is fast approaching bankruptcy as a consequence of pursuing this sort of policy, as is shown in the report of the Public Utilities Bureau referred to in the Louisville dispatch. Luckily, Kentucky is one of eight states in this country that is not "blessed" with a Public Service Commission. We manage our public utilities by a municipal bureau under the appointment of the Mayor, but which is financed in a remarkably safe way by a special tax paid by the utilities themselves. This bureau is under the sole jurisdiction of the Mayor and is empowered to "check and double check" every movement and the accounts of the street car, telephone and gas and electric companies when called upon to do so.

As a consequence, the Louisville Railway Co. has been prevented from putting over various schemes to increase its fares until it appealed to the Federal Court a little over a year ago and succeeded in getting a temporary injunction raising the rate from 7 to 10 cents, with three tokens for 25c. The report of the Public Utilities Bureau is to be made the basis of the fight the city next month will make to prevent the temporary injunction being made permanent.

What may interest the people of St. Louis in Louisville's street car fare experience as shown in this report is that the bureau estimates revenues for 1930 will fall short that of 1929 by $95,000, whereas an increase of $416,000 was expected by the company because of the rise in fares! In other words, the street car management missed its mark when increasing the fares from 7 cents to 10 cents, three for 25c, by more than $500,000. Perhaps such a serious miscalculation justified a local wag's remark today, who said: "In street car management there are always two ways of doing anything—the right way and the way adopted by the Louisville Railway Co."

A movement is now on foot that promises to be successful, to bring about a thorough shake-up of the management of the company at the next annual meeting of the stockholders in February, 1931. When that takes place many absurdly overpaid officials will be made to walk the plank, all big salaries will be cut in half and other economies effected that are expected to put the company again on a dividend-paying basis and to restore the former flat 7-cent fare.

The Trouble With St. Louis.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

CONGRATULATIONS on your two fearless editorials on the recent election. If the present trend of events continues, I do not believe I should want to remain a citizen of St. Louis. Being progressive, I naturally love to see St. Louis grow and keep pace with other cities of her class. Anyone with common sense can realize that not only is she not doing this, but is slipping, and each year finds her falling farther behind in the census.

The most flagrant trouble with St. Louis lies in her political machine and the weakness of the political bosses ruling her destiny.

Like the Post-Dispatch, I say, "Wake up, St. Louis," or before many more years, loyal St. Louisans will cease to be. They will have moved elsewhere.

CITIZEN.

Fess and the M. E. Board.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SOMEONE has very kindly sent me a copy of your paper of Nov. 13 on the front page of which is the headline "Fess Backs Down Under Fire on Dry Statement."

I feel that it would be very interesting to the public if you could find it consistent to state Mr. Fess' relation to the Methodist Church as per the clipping below which I have extracted from an advertisement I published in a Detroit paper:

> Mr. Morrow's severe criticism of national prohibition and its serious menace to our Government, leads him to advise that the eighteenth amendment be repealed.
> In every state of the Union people are carrying on political battles relative to prohibition.
> Yet the Hon. Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, one of the eight "Advisory Members" group (which includes Bishop James Cannon Jr. and six others) of the Methodist Episcopal Church Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, and also chairman of the National Republican Committee declares that: "Prohibition is not an issue."
> The above is published so that we may definitely have in our minds the practical importance and wisdom of voting for those who favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.
> America cannot continue to arrest some seventy to eighty thousand people annually for violation of the prohibition laws, and to send tens of thousands to prisons for prolonged periods without continuing also to reap the harvest of discord, crime and corruption which is already definitely upon us.

WAR DEBTS AND REPARATIONS.

It is reassuring to learn from former Chancellor Wilhelm Marx that Germany is overcoming, for the present at least, the threat of violent and revolutionary measures proposed by both the Fascists and Communists. The good sense of the German people is reflected in the support of governmental measures by a safe majority of the Reichstag. It is reassuring to learn that through drastic economies in governmental expenses Germany's budget has been balanced.

These results, however, do not signify permanent satisfactory conditions. They only avert for a time the menace of allied interference to compel German acquiescence in the conditions imposed upon her by the Versailles treaty and the Young plan of reparations. They give time for the exercise of reason on the part of the great Powers that are responsible for Germany's desperate situation and the consequences of the victors' peace which have brought disaster and hardship on all the civilized nations. In his first speech to the new Reichstag last month Chancellor Bruening pointed out that the Young plan had been drawn up under the assumption that world trade would continue its growth of the previous few years and that Germany's capacity to pay would grow with it. So far this expectation has been disappointed. Since the adoption of the plan economic conditions have been growing worse month by month.

Manfully toeing the mark of present obligations, Germany comes into court with two demands, founded upon both right and reason. She pleads that her own disarmament was coupled with a pledge of disarmament for all the nations. She demands that those provisions of the Versailles treaty be carried out, and that she be relieved from the plight of a disarmed nation surrounded by a circle of heavily armed nations. The other demand is for a revision of the Young plan of reparations. She pleads that the financial obligations imposed upon her are unbearable under present economic conditions. She is burdened by business depression and unemployment.

The number of unemployed in Germany is estimated at 4,000,000, for whom she must find jobs or give relief. She might have said in this connection that she is ringed around by tariff barriers which choke German industry and trade. She has made her reparation payments largely with borrowed money, and there is the extraordinary fact that the very nations from whom she is borrowing, including the United States, have put up barriers against her trade, the only means by which she can pay her debts. In addition to all these burdens and difficulties, Germany is obligated to pay $400,000,000 in the reparations year which begins next April 1.

Sir Josiah Stamp, one of the delegates to the reparations conference in London, declared that the United States was not responsible for the gold scarcity in Europe which is a potent factor in the prevailing business depression, because certain European nations owed her large sums of money, and she was compelled to take gold instead of goods in payment. But the fact that the United States insists upon the payment of the war debts places the responsibility directly upon this country. It is through our collection of war debts that Germany is being squeezed to death and other European nations are put into hard straits and face practical bankruptcy. Great Britain, trying to maintain her credit, with slackened industry and trade and a horde of unemployed, is striving to pay in heavy annual installments her funded debt of $4,600,000,000. France, with better but gradually demoralizing economic conditions, must pay $4,025,000,000 in burdensome installments. And so the list runs, from Italy with $2,042,000,000, in varying amounts, down to Latvia with $5,775,000. The total of war debts we are collecting from impoverished European nations amounts to $11,522,000,354. This year we expect to squeeze out of Europe in war debt payments $236,143,599.

Does the policy pay? While we are getting several hundred millions in debt payments, our foreign trade is falling off and we ourselves are suffering heavily from the world-wide depression of business. It seems to be a penny wise and pound foolish policy. We are faced with the problem that faces a creditor who is confronted with the alternative of ruining his debtors or letting them live and continuing to profit by their trade.

The United States really holds the key to reparations because if we should agree to cancel a part or the whole of our war debts from European nations, we could greatly reduce German reparations. Our canceling of war indebtedness would go far toward restoring sound economic conditions throughout Europe, to our own great profit. Of course there would remain the obstacle to increased foreign trade raised by our excessive tariffs, which will have to be dealt with on a reasonable basis.

Germany's demand for a revision of the Versailles treaty applies not only to herself but to other victims. And then there is the Trianon treaty, which stripped Hungary and Austria for the benefit of France's pets in the Little Entente—Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia, causing rankling resentments and the seeds of war.

It is high time for a return to reason by all the nations. The world has suffered enough from war hatreds. Revision of harsh treaties, the killing of war debts and reparations, are in order. Nothing else would do more for a revival of international good will and general prosperity. It is in the power of the United States to take the first long step in that direction.

OUR DYING COUNTY FAIRS.

A colorful Missouri institution is dying. Not so long ago there were 60 or more county fairs in the State every fall. Now there are only 20. Some of the survivors are tottering to extinction. The question engaged the attention of the last Legislature, which appointed a commission to consider ways and means for providing revenue to maintain these exhibits. At a hearing in Kansas City on Thursday the commission was told that the revival of horse racing under a legalized system of pari-mutuel wagering would provide the necessary money.

That is not a new prescription. Efforts to revive horse racing are a familiar feature of our legislative calendar. The proposals have had the support of men and women experienced in the management of county fairs, the State fair and enterprises of such scope as Kansas City's American Royal Livestock Show and our own National Dairy Show. The county fair, they say, is an important, almost indispensable, contributor to the stimulating expositions so vital to the art and industry of agriculture. And the county fair without its horse race is stale, flat and, emphatically, unprofitable.

As for horse racing without wagering—it just can't be done. We may deplore that truth. Many excellent people do. But the old verity refuses to die or surrender. If folks can't bet they won't go to the tracks. Other states have learned this lesson and have restored racing by the adoption of the pari-mutuel system, which has liberated the sport from the objectionable conditions that brought it into disrepute. Missouri remains more or less isolated in its race-less virtue and is paying the price. The price, among other things, is the creeping paralysis and slow but sure death of our county fairs.

MR. HOOVER'S INCONSISTENCY.

That jewel known as consistency is nowhere apparent in Mr. Hoover's opposition to the Government operation of Muscle Shoals. What deters Mr. Hoover, so we are given to understand, is his unfaltering devotion to the principle that government should not engage in private business. Yet Mr. Hoover, through his Farm Board, is engaging in business on a nation-wide scale. No longer the Cuttens or the Pattens but the United States Government occupies the position of largest wheat speculator on the Chicago Board of Trade and other grain exchanges. In livestock, fruit and cotton, the Government is in business hip deep, and one of the lustiest yells of our time is for relief from this invasion. A large part of the $500,000,000 revolving fund designed to help the farmer was poured down a rathole in a vain effort to stabilize wheat prices around $1.20. Following this maneuver, wheat prices crashed to around 80 cents and once again the Government has gone into the market with huge buying orders. It has now approximately 60,000,000 bushels of wheat, a nightmare and a terror to every private operator.

Why is it that Mr. Hoover asserts a principle in one case and abandons it in another? It is because he is not guided by principle but by opportunism. It is politically opportune to go into the business of agriculture and politically inopportune to do anything to vex the Power Trust. With voters throughout the country knocking down Power Trust candidates for public office, however, Mr. Hoover may change his mind about the latter clause of the proposition. He may agree that Muscle Shoals is a unique problem in that the Government already owns the plant, and no private offer worthy of serious consideration has ever been made for it. In default of such an offer the plant is lying idle and a huge public investment is yielding no proper return to the taxpayers who paid for it.

Is this condition to continue, as it has continued for 10 years, because the Power Trust has adopted toward it a dog-in-the-manger attitude and because a "principle" has been invoked which, in other fields, is totally disregarded?

THE SMOOTHER LIAR.

An eminent English jurist, Judge McCardy, says that women are much more proficient perjurers than men. Now and then, to be sure, a slippery male acquits himself pretty creditably, but he never attains the spontaneity, audacity and sheer joy of the lady liar. The difference is that between a labored effort and the stylist's ease, between accomplishment and endowment, between talent and genius. Whether this pronouncement should be regarded as an opinion, or an obiter dictum, or the malice of a splenetic old crab, we are unprepared to say at this writing. Anyhow, the presiding Judge in this cause celebre is a bachelor, and, therefore, what he has not learned about women may, without exaggeration, be estimated as colossal. Just the same, in the swirling competition of the age, woman is demonstrating such a versatile superiority that it is not surprising to see her showing her pointed heels to man in the subtle art of mendacity.

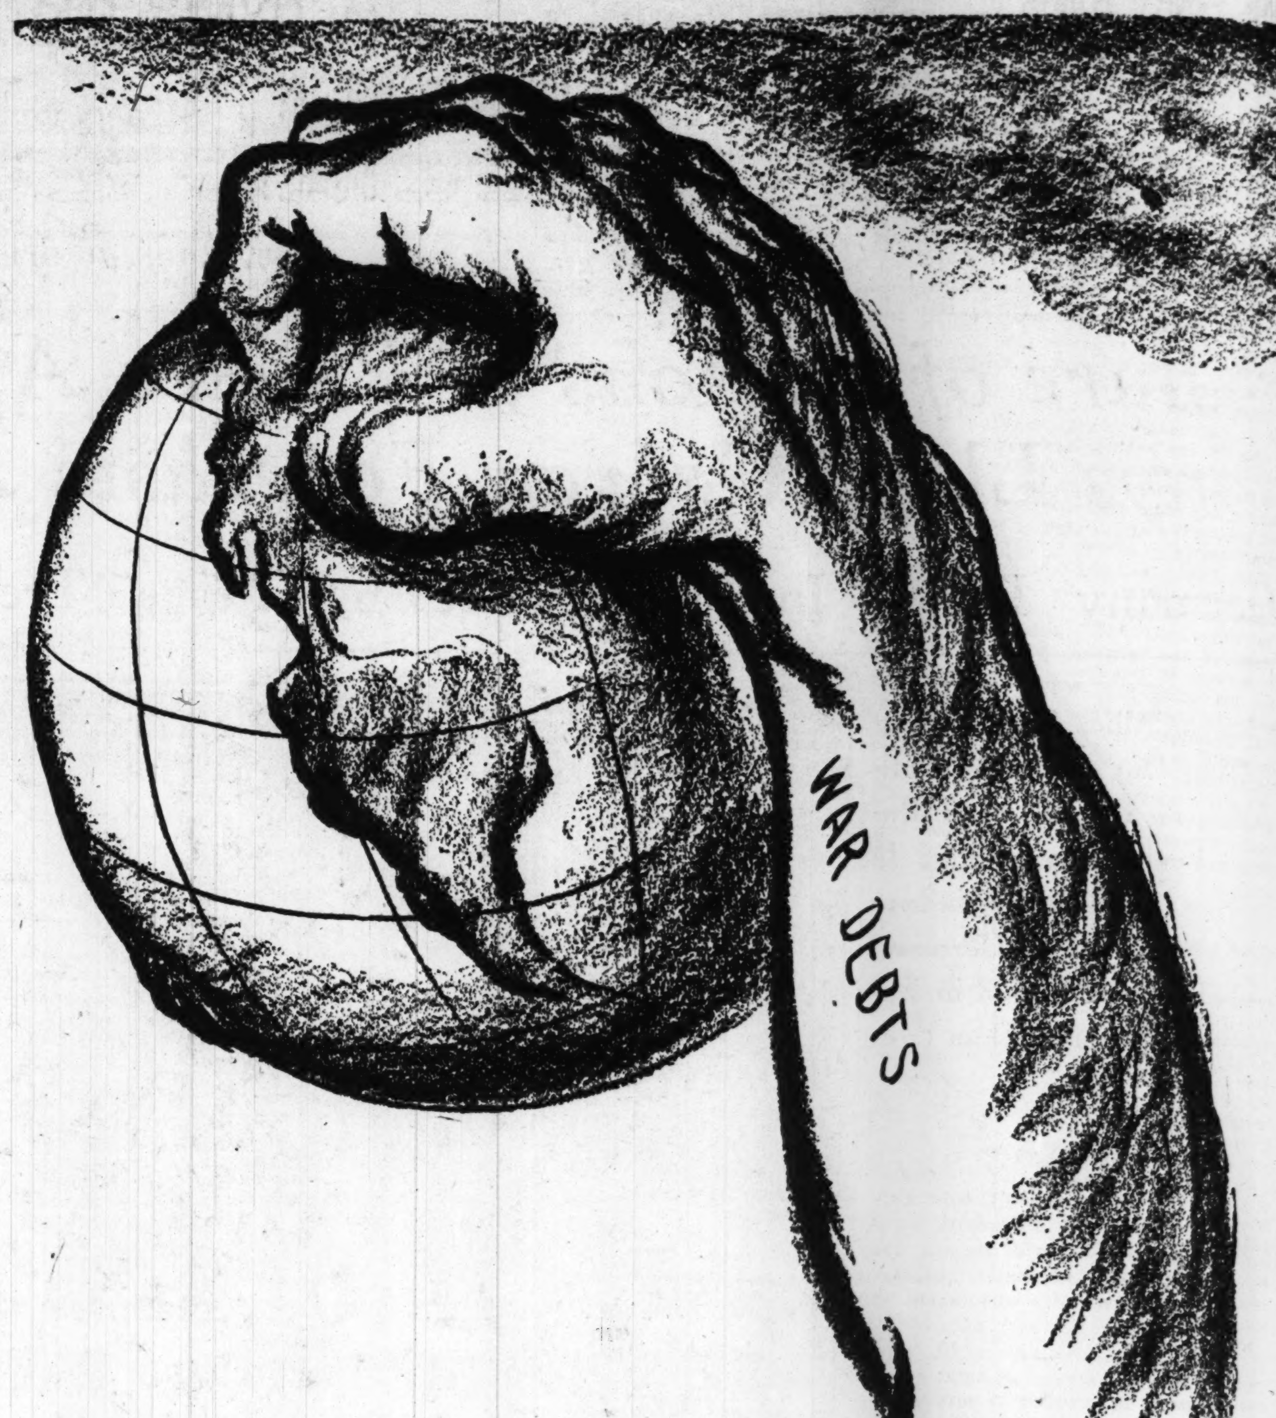
TOWARD A "NEW FREEDOM" IN EDUCATION.

The announcement that the University of Chicago plans to abandon the system requiring a fixed number of credits for graduation means that one of the leading educational institutions of the country has turned its back on a set of pedagogic customs which has become traditional in American higher learning. President Hutchins proposes to supplant the system which calls for four years of residence and the acquisition of a fixed number of credits with one whereby a student can be graduated whenever he can pass a comprehensive examination. The hope is to inspire students to finish their courses more quickly under their own initiative so they may earlier enter professional schools or leave college with a general education.

This plan amounts to executing an about-face in the educational field. For there has been no stronger emphasis in American colleges of late than the stress upon credits and the acquisition of material for degrees. The mechanical requirements in many institutions have grown so burdensome that they are offensive to the better students. Rigid class attendance is insisted upon on many campuses. Educators themselves agree that the emphasis on degrees has blighted the career of many promising teachers. By the time they have run the gamut of requirements, their zest for working among young minds is gone. There is more than a little reason to argue that the traditional system is based on the proposition that all students should be taken over a low hurdle.

The University of Chicago has an endowment of $50,000,000. Only three other universities in the country have larger endowments, Harvard, Columbia and Yale. It has a student body of 13,000, which makes it one of the largest in point of enrollment. So striking a change in its policy can not but affect the course of our collegiate education. If any be so thoughtless as to discount the Chicago plan as impractical and of little consequence, let him remember that a half century ago another young university president, Charles William Eliot of Harvard, was opening the way for an innovation of questioned value, the elective system. Over widespread protest he successfully championed it in his effort to eliminate monotony, to introduce freedom and make possible enthusiasm on a large scale. Within this generation increasing emphasis on credits and degree requirements unfortunately has tended to produce a counter effect.

It would seem that the University of Chicago has decided it is time to question the attitude of educational institutions which admit "we don't know where we're going, but we're on our way." Movement, it says in effect, is not enough. There must be direction as well. If a "new freedom" is about to dawn in American education, if our colleges are to give more thought to the structures to be built and less time to a consuming gathering of tools, there is every reason to believe the Chicago plan will have a leading part in bringing in the new day.



THE DOWN PULL.

Finances and International Relations

Nearly all our political questions are economic, but nations have been slow in studying them; gold fluctuations, reparations, tariffs and taxes all have international effects; British economist proposes International Bank at Geneva act as economic clearing house; urges research and education of politicians along these lines.

From an Address by Sir Josiah Stamp, British Expert on Dawes and Young Plan Committees, Before the Academy of Political Science, New York. Reprinted from Political Science Quarterly.

WHEN we look at politics today we find that at bottom practically all political questions are economic. Now we can perceive that most economic questions have to be handled, if we are to get to the root of them, by severe statistical methods.

There is, however, at present no organization for dealing systematically and scientifically with the financial strains that come upon the world's economic social organism, and we have not even improvised one yet, except for something that I shall refer to at the end of my remarks. If these economic questions are to be dealt with, then new qualities of thinking are wanted on the part of those who take part in international discussions, who regulate international relationships, and particularly those who interpret them through the press and otherwise to the people.

We tend to treat financial operations as though they were self-contained and independent, as though they were an end in themselves. But that method of thinking, if we carry it into our politics and international relationships, will lead us very far astray, because in the last resort, finance is only a mode of speech. It is only a method of moving goods and services and changing their ownership. It has no meaning whatever in itself.

If we reflect, therefore, that an apparently complete financial transaction is very often only the beginning of an intricate chain of economic consequences, then we shall realize that the financial aspects of international relations have an immense importance. We have only just begun to study them. We have to get behind the figures that are in the international ledgers.

Finance was formerly viscous. It did not move quickly or sensitively. Now it is extremely sensitive and fluid. There is today available on the desk of every business man an international knowledge of stock markets, that would never have been dreamed of before the war.

There are large short money markets in the world, not many indeed, but extremely sensitive to competing money rates. These money rates, swinging large masses of short money back and forth, would not affect the body politic or economic very much, if their effects would stop there. But their effects do not stop there, because, under the gold standard which obtains throughout most of the civilized world, these oscillations entail, for the protection of the particular countries affected, certain definite acts, which very often incommode a country, or make it feel irked by something that has happened elsewhere.

The bank rate is put up in London. Some short money in New York is called back. The next thing I hear is that a New York stock broker has been shaking his fist in the face of a Britisher and telling him that all the New York trouble is due to London. Allegations and recriminations are at once put forward, and very often supported, by interested parties, and they may indeed on occasion be true.

Here you have indeed new and quite fruitful sources of difficulty in international relations. They involve these questions of gold and its influence on the international situation, but all of these things, by and large, sooner or later bring with them effects upon the trade movement of the countries concerned. They all of them are interwoven in a most inextricable way.

The relations between countries now, in their financial aspects, deal with the interest on debts; with the surplus we have available for investment abroad and the control of that surplus, or the leaving of it to chance; with tariff walls and the possibilities of recrimination and retaliation and even of suicide; with questions of double taxation which acts like a tariff against the free flow of capital, and the elimination of double taxation which often calls for very farsighted and statesmanlike renunciation on the part of individual treasuries and budgets of debtor and creditor countries; with the short money peril with all the political allegations that may attach to it. All these things are important, and they all require study if we are to get international relations upon the new basis for which I ask.

Necessary for that object are, I imagine, four things. The first is some recognized institution or clearing house of thinking through which these things can be tackled. I am, I hope, not foolish in believing that the Bank for International Settlements is the beginning of an institution which can develop into that kind of international brain for a more co-ordinated and thought-out control of these vast and hitherto capricious forces.

Second, is the need for two classes of workers: first, those who create solutions, the hard, analytical thinkers, the economists, the men in finance and business; and, second, the larger educated public who will not create solutions but will create a demand for them, together with the will to put them into force and not to obstruct them.

The third thing that we want is to put the cost of this kind of research—which is so important to business and without which business can never be regulated on a really scientific and humane basis—upon business. It should not be supported merely by the energies and the pockets of a few theorists. Otherwise it will drag on, and if we get a 25 per cent fall in the price level in the next five years in Great Britain or elsewhere, as we have had in the past five, you can say good-by to Young plans, Dawes plans and anything of that kind. It will upset all the contractual relations of the whole world.

And the fourth thing is to demilitarize finance. International finance is so full of military terms of retaliation and aggression, that if we are to think of it on a scientific basis and to do justice with it in the cold light of the study, we must at any rate take such terms out of it, because the feelings of men are so often energized by the terms they use. They talk warlike terms and begin to feel warlike. Let us get these military terms out of the whole vocabulary, and then we can have a dispassionate study.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.

JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS, if you please—not "Jim Ham" or "J. Ham"—is coming back to Washington to represent Illinois in the United States Senate. It pains the man whom Champ Clark once described as "the greatest dude in the United States" to have his name so butchered. He has done his best to discourage the practice. Once he even arose in the Senate to make a formal protest over this mode of addressing him.

Faultless in appearance on all occasions he has a perfect courtesy and elaborate manner as natural to him as breathing. There is but one word which adequately describes him—from his spats to the once reddish but now white beard, which he keeps carefully parted at the chin—"elegant."

There is elegance even in the way he signs his name. Holding his pen as an artist would hold a brush, at the end, he writes with a flourish. The "J" in the James is sometimes as long as three inches, the other letters proportionately large. But back of all his elegance is legal talent and oratorical ability that have carried him far.

HE sat in the last seat, in the last row, when he was a Senator before. But when he arose to speak or engage in debate always he moved to the center aisle. And there, in a baritone that at once charmed and soothed his audience, he spoke.

Once in Paris he was invited to speak before the Geographic Society. His audience was sufficiently charmed with his address to pay him the compliment of a second invitation, but tactfully added: "It is the request of the society, in view of your well known mastery of English, that you will kindly give the address in that language."

He was the Democratic whip when member of the Senate before. He took great pride in his work. His colleagues still remember how frequently he would send out notices to them telling of the important questions under debate and how necessary it was for them to be in their seats at the time of voting.

HIS greatest love was presiding over the Senate. He probably holds the record of longest continuous presiding of any man in the Senate, once sitting in the president's chair for seven and one-half hours consecutively without even relief for food.

They tell the story in Washington that during the Baltimore convention in 1912 which nominated Woodrow Wilson, Ollie James of Kentucky, the permanent presiding officer, was much fatigued by the continuous night sessions of the convention.

Lewis, then not a member of the Senate and not even a delegate to the convention, approached James and said: "Old fellow, you must be very tired. Let me relieve you for a while." And he took up the gavel and presided over the convention.

PROF. ERNEST FUCHS, EYE SPECIALIST, DIES

Noted Austrian Delivered Lectures in St. Louis and Elsewhere.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—The death last night of Prof. Dr. Ernst Fuchs at the age of 78 removed a man considered one of the world's most brilliant eye specialists.

Prof. Meller of Vienna, one of his pupils, tonight said that the science of eye healing had hardly been touched when Prof. Fuchs began it, but before he stopped there was not one optic disease which he had not studied and healed, if that were possible.

Prof. Fuchs was the author of many dissertations on the eye, but is best known for his "Lehrbuch Fuer Augenheilkunde," which is considered the veritable bible of the student of the eye. In addition, his works have been translated into all languages and nearly all prominent eye specialists of the world have studied at his Vienna clinic.

He was eagerly sought as a lecturer in all countries. Countless healing processes, surgical instruments and anatomical descriptions of the eye are associated with his name.

Prof. Fuchs' death was due to angina pectoris.

Dr. Fuchs visited St. Louis twice during his long career and lectured on blindness, its causes and methods of prevention to American physicians assembled here. His most recent visit was a year ago when he attended a three-day conference of the National Society for Prevention of Blindness.

20 Lectures in St. Louis.

Seven years earlier, he conducted a month's post-graduate course in ophthalmology under the auspices of the St. Louis Medical Society and delivered 20 lectures before a class of 81 eye specialists, 18 of whom came here from states other than Missouri.

His lectures, held in the library of St. Louis University, were illustrated with lantern slides said by medical men to comprise the rarest and most complete set in existence. The slides, having to do with diseases of the eye, all were of human eyes, specimens difficult to obtain in the United States, where pathologists had been accustomed to work with animal specimens and lecture from drawings. Dr. Fuchs had accumulated the slides over a period of 47 years of practice in Vienna.

Textbook Was "Bible."

At the time of his appearance here, Dr. Fuchs was hailed as the author of the "Bible" of the science of ophthalmology. This referred to a textbook on eye diseases written in 1885. Medical authorities say it still ranks as the greatest ophthalmology textbook extant. It was also declared at the time that for 25 years virtually no paper on ophthalmology had been written without containing somewhere a reference to Dr. Fuchs, so profound had been his influence upon the science.

Last September Dr. Fuchs was awarded the Leslie Dana medal, established several years ago by a St. Louisian and former member of the Missouri Association for the Blind to be bestowed upon physicians who contributed most to the work for conservation of sight. The medal was awarded to Dr. Fuchs by the International Congress of Ophthalmologists at Amsterdam on the fiftieth anniversary of the publication of his book, "Causes and Methods of Prevention of Blindness." The book was credited with pointing the way to the present extensive movement to preserve sight.

MERGER OF EPISCOPAL CONGREGATIONS ARRANGED

Three and Possibly Four Churches and Missions Included in New Consolidation.

Completion of the merger of three and possibly four Episcopal congregations on the north side is expected as a result of a special Mobilization Week of combined services beginning tonight at St. Philip's Church, Union boulevard and Maple avenue, participated in by members of the four congregations.

A temporary combination of St. Philip's Church and the congregations of the two mission churches of St. Luke's, 5346 Lillian avenue, and of St. Timothy's, 2853 North Euclid avenue, has been in effect since last July, with activities centered at St. Philip's Church. In addition, the congregation of St. Alban's Church, 4321 North Grand boulevard, has joined with the new group, and laymen from the Maple avenue church have occupied the pulpit of St. Alban's Church since last July.

Under an agreement drawn up last summer, the newly-formed congregation, comprising about 280 families, will be known as the Church of the Holy Apostles. One of the major purposes of this week's meetings will be to select a pastor for the church and to decide on the site for a new building.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

OUTDOOR MEETINGS IN TRAINING COURSES

Elementary and Camping Classes Hold Afternoon Sessions in the Open.

Two outdoor meetings marked the training courses in Boy Scout leadership by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council last week. One was held by the elementary course and the other by the troop camping class.

A treasure hunt in Nelson's Woods at the Lucas and Hunt roads was a feature of the outdoor hike of the elementary course yesterday afternoon. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in scouting instruction and in cooking suppers individually in accordance with the second-class requirements in cooking. A council fire concluded the hike.

The camping class held its regular meeting at the scoutmasters' cabin on the Meramec River near Fenton yesterday afternoon, under the direction of M. D. Shippey, camping director of the council, assisted by Prof. Eugene Stephens of Washington University. Supper was prepared by Frank Barnes, Irondale chef. The class will meet at the cabin again next Saturday afternoon.

The regular evening classes will meet tomorrow as usual. Scoutmaster L. John Lewis of Troop 198 will discuss "Methods for Promoting Troop Morale and Advancement" at the elementary class at the Michael School, while L. J. Case, field executive of the Central District, will speak on "The Good Turn in Scouting."

"Education for Character" and "Character Values and How Obtained" will be the topics of discussion at the principles course at the Stix School. Dr. Lentz of Washington University will lead in the first; the second will be conducted by Scoutmaster Herbert Morisse of Troop 21. Dr. R. F. Barnes will talk on "Common Emergencies" at the meeting of the first aid course at the Washington University Medical School.

52 NATIONS TO PARTICIPATE IN CONFERENCE FOR BLIND

Meeting to Be Held in New York Next April at Request of President Hoover.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—On invitation of President Hoover, 52 nations will participate in a world conference on work for the blind in New York next April, Robert B. Irwin, executive director of the American Foundation for the Blind, announced today. Formal acceptance of the invitation, which was authorized by Congress, has erable number of countries.

"No international conference of workers for the blind has been held since the World War," Irwin said, "and never has one been so truly representative of any considerable number of vuntries.

"Probably a greater variety of methods for assisting the blind may be found in the United States than in any other country. The foreign delegates will make special trips to institutions for the blind in Boston, Washington, Philadelphia and other nearby cities.

"On the other hand, America has considerable to learn from the Europeans. The German system of compulsory employment of the blind in regular industrial and commercial enterprises has demonstrated the feasibility of many occupations for the blind which we have never had a chance to try out here.

"In France the friendly attitude of the church has resulted in the employment of more than 1000 blind organists and choir directors, as compared with about 25 employed in the United States."

Troop Notes

West District.

The Camping booth exhibited by Troop 30 of the Y. M. H. A., at the Merit Badge Show last week, won first prize in Class "A." The booth, the largest one in the show, was situated almost in the center and attracted great attention with its rows of tents, lean-tos, tepees, cooking, model camp and fire-building contests of flint and steel and fire by friction. The Black Bear patrol easily won first place in the ticket selling contest, selling 236 tickets to the second place Ravens' 145. The Beavers came third with 116, followed by the Flying Eagles, 48, and the Adders, 45. In all, 597 tickets were sold, compared to last year's record of 395. Fred Haffner took the individual prize with 70 sales, while George Gillerman came second with 61. Both are in the Black Bear patrol. Simon Rezznikoff of the Ravens was third with 45, and Harry Rothman, also of the Ravens, was fourth with 42. Jerome Wenneker of the Black Bears was fifth with 40 sales. By selling the most tickets the Black Beare are leading an inter-patrol contest by approximately 100 points, two points having been awarded for every ticket sold. Aaron Lander, David Cohen and Norman Bernstein passed their Tenderfoot tests last week and are now members of the troop.

Assistant Scoutmaster Morton Pareira of Troop 90 of Temple Shaare Emeth gave a talk on achievement to Troop 167 of Lafayette Presbyterian Church last week.

The fall program of Troop 246 of B'Nai Amoona is now well under way under the leadership of newly-elected troop officers. Scout Dan Mandel is senior patrol leader, Scouts Bernard Larner, Melvin Cassell and Isador Fendelman patrol leaders, Abe Lipsitz, scribe, Irwin Larner, librarian, and Ely Fortus quartermaster. All these officers were elected the first of this month.

Central District.

Fred J. Usher, veteran scoutmaster of Troop 23 of Gibson Heights Presbyterian Church, who has been seriously ill at the City Hospital, is on his way to recovery, according to an announcement made by the troop.

Practically the entire membership of Troop 32 was present every night at the recent Merit Badge Show, acting as ushers in the "Little Theater" and performing other duties in connection with the show. The scouts were under the charge of Scoutmaster E. A. Kleykamp.

John W. Cory, formerly a scout in Troop 77 of Tyler Place Presbyterian Church, has been commissioned scoutmaster of that troop, taking the place of former Scoutmaster Hope, who has become the educational member of the Troop Committee. Scoutmaster Cory has made a number of plans for winter activities for the troop.

Troop 97 of St. Agnes' parish presented its annual Troop Minstrel Show at Swiss Hall last night. The show was one of the most elaborate ever put on by the troop.

Another new troop leader, Scoutmaster Hartnett, has been added to the Central District. Scoutmaster Hartnett has taken over Troop 112 of St. Francis Xavier Catholic School.

The Beaver patrol won an interpatrol contest in Troop 138, at the Shriners' Hospital. The contest closed Wednesday with a five-minute talk by members of each of the patrols on "What Scouting Means to Me." The entire membership of this troop is made up of patients at the hospital. The troop holds one of the best records in the city for Scouting accomplishments.

Troop 155 of McCausland Avenue Presbyterian Church held its annual dinner at the church last week. The troop presented a program.

A talk on achievement was given at the regular meeting of Troop 167 of Lafayette Presbyterian Church by Assistant Scoutmaster Morton Pareira of Troop 90, last week.

South District.

Four scouts received first-class badges, nine second-class badges and eight merit badges at a troop court of honor conducted by Troop 63 of Oak Hill Presbyterian Church recently. The troop was also presented with an American flag by the J. C. Fremont Circle of the Ladies of the G. A. R.

Troop 200 of the Fanning School has organized an interpatrol contest to be run next month. Three new scouts have joined the troop so far this month.

ST. LOUIS TRADE CONFERENCE

Merchants to Meet Dec. 5 to Discuss Increase of Sales.

A conference to discuss how business firms in St. Louis' trade territory may increase their sales in 1931 will be held Dec. 5 at Hotel Jefferson under auspices of the Sales Managers' Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. More than 300 reservations have been received and an attendance of about 1000 delegates is expected.

Speakers will include Harold Stonier of New York, educational director of the American Institute of Banking; Alvin E. Dodd, Chicago, assistant to the president of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; H. W. Prentis Jr., Lancaster, Pa., vice president of the Armstrong Cork Co.; Frank W. Lovejoy, New York, of the Vacuum Oil Co.; A. L. McCarthy, Detroit, vice president of the Eureka Vacuum Cleaner Co.

SCOUT TICKET REPORTS MUST BE IN TOMORROW

Prizes to Be Awarded for Troop and Individual Making Most Sales.

Complete reports on tickets sold for the recent Boy Scout Merit Badge Show must be in by tomorrow evening in order for a troop to be eligible for troop and individual awards in the ticket-selling competition, C. H. Mills, activities director of the St. Louis Boy Scout Counsel, sponsor of the show, has announced. Settlement in full for all tickets sold must also be made.

A number of prizes will be given in the ticket selling competition, awards being made to the troops, regardless of size, selling the greatest actual number of tickets and to the troops selling the largest number in proportion to the number of members. Scouts who sold the most tickets individually will also receive awards. Ticket selling is also considered in the grand prize for allround accomplishment.

Individual scouts must have a troop officer, preferably the scoutmaster, notify headquarters of their entry by letter. The letter must state the number of tickets sold by the scout and certify that, in the judgment of the writer, all sales were made entirely through the contestant's own efforts. Mills suggests that the name of every scout who sold 15 tickets or more be entered in the contest.

Troops not entering in the contests must report by Dec. 1 in order to be given commissions on their sales.

The Merit Badge Show this year was attended by the largest crowd in its history, Mills said. Although an accurate check-up of attendance has not been completed, it is estimated that attendance for the three days totaled more than 40,000.

CHRISTMAS HEALTH SEAL CAMPAIGN

Tuberculosis Society to Offer Stamps to 150,000 Families to Raise Funds.

Penny Christmas health seals, emblems of the nation-wide fight against tuberculosis, will be sent this week to 150,000 families in St. Louis and St. Louis County, John B. Edwards, new president of the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis, has announced.

Work in the prevention and treatment of tuberculosis is carried on chiefly with funds raised by the sale of these seals. Last year, in addition to conducting a health eduction program, the local society operated a residential Open Air School and a Night and Day Rest Camp, and furnished eight nurses who made more than 31,000 visits to tubercular patients. The society does not participate in the Community Fund.

A mail clerk in Denmark conceived the idea of Christmas health seals in 1904. The idea spread to the United States and in the first sale in 1907 raised $3000. Last year 1600 state and city organizations raised $5,536,000 through the sale of seals.

Since the first Christmas seal was sold in this country the national death rate from tuberculosis has decreased from 178 to 76 persons in the 100,000.

In 1907 there were only 20 organizations to combat tuberculosis, no camps and only a few hospitals for its treatment. Now there are 600 sanitariums, providing 73,000 beds, more than 7000 public health nurses engaged in tuberculosis work, more than 1000 open air schools for children, and 1066 permanent and 2615 temporary tuberculosis clinics throughout the country.

AUTOPOINTS, more than any other pencil, are purchased by big business for use as "remembrance" advertising.

Why not select your pencil as carefully as the big firms do? Your dollar is just as important as theirs—make it buy as much.

Autopoint is the best balanced, the lightest, the most attractive pencil made. It cannot jam because there is nothing to jam. It has only one moving part. You won't find any pencil, at any price, that will give you the lasting satisfaction an Autopoint will give you.

Autopoint barrels are of Bakelite. This onyx-like material is beautiful, light in weight. It does not tarnish or "perspire." Drop an Autopoint—it won't break.

Selling Coal Instead of Corn.

By the Associated Press.

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill., Nov. 22.—Weather conditions that dried up crops and cost other farmers thousands of dollars have given C. M. Batson a workable coal mine on his farm. The receding water of the Wabash River disclosed on Batson's property south of Mount Carmel a coal vein. The farmer built a dam, pumped the remaining water into the regular channel and started mining. He is selling coal instead of corn.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 22.—A uperb Kansas football team, executing its running and air attack perfectly, swept to a 32 to 0 victory over a fighting but ineffective Missouri team today in their thiry-ninth annual contest.

The victory, the most decisive in the history of this traditional conflict, assured Kansas of a tie for the Big Six championship.

It was not a one-man victory. Every Jayhawk player, and there were many in the game before its end, filled his position creditably. Missouri was overpowered, outgeneraled and nearly routed by as brilliant an exhibition as the Kansans have given on the gridiron this season.

A crowd of 25,000, including Gov. Henry Caulfield of Missouri and Gov. Clyde Reed of Kansas, witnessed the home-coming contest.

"Jim" Bausch Stars.

"Jarring Jim" Bausch, Kansas halfback and spark plug of the team, started the scoring but he went out of the game with a recurrence of his knee injury, before the touchdown parade ended. He tossed two passes which resulted in touchdowns and plunged two yards for a third, ringing his season point total to 8 and maintaining a lead that may bring him the season honors. His vicious driving power was demonstrated several times as he continued to gain yardage with tacklers hanging on all available places.

Missouri's air attack failed. The best toss was a flip from Van Dyne to Collings in the first period before Kansas scored, and which the little redhead carried to the Kansas 16-yard line for a 57-yard gain before being pulled to earth by Schaake. But the Tigers failed to score from this position and on two other occasions after gaining the ball near the Kansas goal by a blocked and recovered punt and a recovered fumble could not push aside the sturdy Kansas line.

Two Touchdowns on Passes.

The first Kansas touchdown was an electrifying forward pass that gained 80 yards. Missouri had failed to score after blocking one of Bausch's punts near the goal ne, and had passed incomplete into the end zone, giving Kansas the ball on its 20-yard line. On the first play Bausch heaved the ball far down the field, caught the Tiger defense napping, Hanson catching it on the run about midfield and galloping unmolested down the side lines right in front of the Missouri stands for a score.

Kansas scored its second touchdown by a pass, Bausch to Fisher, who had relieved the able plunging and smart field general, Carnie Smith, and these two passes gave Kansas the 12 to 0 margin which it held at half time.

Third Score on Fake Play.

In the third period Kansas showed it could gain on the ground. Starting again on its 20-yard marker, Missouri having passed incomplete over the goal line on its third and last scoring opportunity, Kansas made a steady drive of short ends runs off tackle smashes, and plunges right through the heart of the Missouri forward wall with not a pass used to end behind the last chalk mark when Bausch plunged for the score.

The scoring play was a beautiful fake. The backfield was poised. The line was set. Then Arch Stuck left his right end post as though walking back for instructions. As he walked the ball was

HANLEY AND SCHWARTZ GO THROUGH FOR TOUCHDOWNS

WESTERN MARYLAND'S 20-GAME WINNING STREAK BROKEN BY TIE

By the Associated Press.

READING, Pa., Nov. 22.

A FIGHTING Albright football team broke the 20-game winning streak of the Western Maryland eleven here today, but had to be satisfied with a 7—7 tie, after having victory in its grasp until the last five minutes of play.

A blocked punt enabled the Green Terrors, undefeated since early in the 1928 season, to escape the stigma of defeat.

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 22.—Notre Dame, marching on to America's football championship, defeated the hitherto unbeaten Northwestern eleven, 14 to 0, as the seconds were clicking off precious time in the closing minutes of the game at Dycke Stadium yesterday. The victory was Notre Dame's eighth successive triumph, leaving only the Army and Southern California to conquer for the 1930 gridiron title. The defeat was the first of the season for Northwestern, co-champion of the Western conference.

Notre Dame, held scoreless for three periods, and with the game apparently destined to end in a scoreless tie, suddenly exploded its irresistable force and crashed over with two touchdowns, barely missing a third, while a crowd of 51,000 spectators sat dumbfounded at the amazing finish. Northwestern, forcing Notre Dame to the defensive in the first and second periods, missed two marvelous opportunities to score. Costly fumbles, with the ball inside Notre Dame's 10-yard line, ruined both chances.

Better Team Won.

The game was contested bitterly and closely throughout, with Notre Dame taking advantage of the breaks that turned an imminent deadlock into victory. In the first half it was all Northwestern, with Rockne's Ramblers on the defensive practically all the way. In the last quarter, it was just the reverse and Notre Dame, taking advantage of openings, dramatically turned them into touchdowns.

In the light of what happened in the fourth period, the better team won by just such a margin as could have been expected. There was no more than two touchdowns difference between the two teams. The Northwestern line however, invincible until the last seven minutes of the game, finally cracked just enough to allow Rockne's cavalrymen to break through twice. Northwestern's defense against passes, not as brilliant as Notre Dame's, coupled with Frank Carideo's sensational kicking, paved the way for the deciding score.

Marchmont Schwartz, Notre Dame's left halfback, scored the first touchdown in the closing minutes of the game, that started the Ramblers off to victory. A few minutes later, he tossed a pass that resulted in the second score. Heaving a long pass to O'Brien, who came into the game to replace Conley at right end, Schwartz put the ball in position for the first touchdown a few seconds later. O'Brien caught the ball and stepped out of bounds on Northwestern's 40-yard line. Northwestern then was penalized 15 yards for holding, and after Dan Hanley, understudy for Jumping Joe Savoldi, lost four yards, Schwartz went into action. With his legs pumping under him like pistons, Schwartz shot off his own right tackle, and sprinted 29 yards to cross Northwestern's goal.

Conley's Costly Fumble.

Carideo kicked the extra point from placement, and the backbone of Northwestern's resistance started to crumble. Notre Dame barely missed scoring in the next two or three plays when Schwartz threw a 20-yard pass to Conley, who dropped the ball on Northwestern's seven-yard line, with a clear field ahead of him.

With less than three minutes to play, Kassis intercepted the tail end of a triple pass on Northwestern's 25-yard line. After Hanley and O'Connor had made first down on the 12-yard line, and then lost a yard on three more attempts, Schwartz suddenly whirled and tossed a long pass to Conley who stepped out of bounds on Northwestern's one-yard line. Dan Hanley, no relation whatsoever to the Sun Beau broke from the extreme outside and Coltiletti did not hurry him in the early stages. Went to the outside when improving his position, entered contention approaching the home stretch and, full of run, easily disposed of the leaders to win well in hand. Valenciennes, showing keen improvement, was kept closer up than usual, displaced Phalanx when ready and held on well for the closing drive. Lady Broadcast dropped back at the final turn after racing forwardly in the early part, came again and outstayed Spinach. Latter handled his weight well and raced into contention until midway of the stretch. Mokatam went evenly. Ned O dropped out of contention on the back stretch. Jock tired after racing wide and being shut off when the break came. Phalanx broke his leg 50 yards from the finish.

By the Associated Press.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 22.—Winning his first race over the Bowie turf, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau today entered the select group of leading thoroughbred money winners as he won the Southern Maryland Handicap.

The victory not only sent the total earnings of the five-year-old son of Sun Briar soaring above the $250,000 mark, but assured him of once again being ranked as the leading handicap horse of the year. It was the third time Sun Beau had been sent after the coveted Bowie stake, but not until today was he successful.

Although requried to pick up 127 pounds, the Kilmer ace covered the mile and one-sixteenth in the good time of 1:46 to defeat Mrs. John Hertz's Valenciennes by one and one-half lengths. In third place trailed R. Caldwell's Lady Broadcast, while in the also ran group were such great thoroughbreds as Spinach, Dr. Freeland, Ned O, Phalanx, Mokatam and Jock.

Sun Beau lived up to advance notices when he came from far back to conquer his rivals in the stretch. Despite his defeat last week, Sun Beau easily ruled the public choice, paying $5.80 for $2 in the mutuels.

Nine started the juorney, but only eight finished, Marshall Field's recent imported Phalanx breaking his leg 50 yards from the judges' stand. The British horse, which won his first race in America by eight lengths earlier in the week, set the pace for the first six furlongs, then wrenched his leg. He broke down completely while trailing the field.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Is Connie Kidding Us?

CONNIE MACK, who has been trekking back over the 50-year trail he made through baseball history, for the benefit of admiring newspaper readers, rather shocked the old guard when he declared, in naming his all-time Athletics baseball team, that "Mule" Haas and "Bing" Miller were entitled to places on that mythical outfit.

The grandstand managers of 25 years ago have it that Connie is spoofing us. They believe that the Athletics of other days had several outfielders deserving of preference over both Haas and Miller. Among the noted flychasers and hitters who made history for the Athletics might be mentioned "Socks" Seybold, the renowned Davy Fultz, "Topsy" Hartsel, Elmer Flick, Danny Murphy, Amos Strunk and Rube Oldring, among others.

These men flourished from 15 to 25 years ago under conditions when high batting averages were far more difficult to accumulate. Their swatting figures then might not compare so favorably with the bloated hitting averages of today; but all of those named were splendid fielders, scientific hitters and good throwers; most of them were fine base runners.

OLD TIME fans forget that there is no way of translating batting figures of 20 years ago into equality with those of today. If anybody could make the guess it would have to be Connie himself—and he has spoken his mind.

ROOSEVELT WINS HIGH SCHOOL TITLE; DEFEATS SOLDAN, 6 TO 0

By Harold Tuthill

Roosevelt won the championship of the City High School League yesterday afternoon, defeating Soldan, 6 to 0, in the second game of the final doubleheader at the Public School Stadium. Cleveland exceeded advance expectations, smothering Central 46 to 7, in the first game. The attendance was 8000.

Just at the time when everybody predicted that Soldan would hold Roosevelt scoreless, for there was less than two minutes to play, Harold Maile rose to heroic heights, blocked Lee Handley's kick and fell on the ball behind the goal for Roosevelt's only score. Nathan Tutinsky tried to placekick the extra point, but the effort was wild.

Handley had escaped several threatening blocks, but managed to get the ball off in time to prevent Roosevelt from scoring, because three times Lee had to punt either on or behind his own goal line and twice he momentarily fumbled the ball.

Maile Blocks Kick.

Soldan was in another tough spot in the third period when Tutinsky passed 23 yards to Strugar over the goal line, but the ball was called back because both sides were off side. Gus Beiser then took the ball and slashed his way over left tackle for 16 yards. Soldan stemmed this charge of the Rough Riders and others successfully.

In the fourth quarter an exchange of punts gave Soldan the ball on its own 15-yard line, when it was so dark that it was difficult to distinguish the players. Maile emerged out of the shadows, and a moral victory for Soldan changed to a defeat when the big guard jumped in front of Handley's foot and blocked the kick.

Roosevelt finished the season with four victories and no defeats.

Cleveland took the game with Central so lightly that it ran rings around the Red and Black with the greatest exhibition of open field running and forward passing seen this season. Central's particular tantalizer was Durand "Bud" Edele, who scored three touchdowns and one point after a touchdown for Cleveland.

72-Yard Run.

Edele's running mate, George Werley, continued his distinguished work with faultless passes and two long runs, one for 72 yards and another for 39 yards, both resulting in touchdowns. Harold Vogt and Henri Comfort scored the other two touchdowns.

Cleveland's easy ability to score caused it to let up in the second quarter and Central took advantage of this to push over a touch-

Woods' Fine Passing Enables Harvard to Defeat Yale, 13 to 0

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 22.—Harvard's big gridiron machine, after a succession of mishaps along the football road this season, clicked on all cylinders today for the first time and flattened Yale with a sensational come-back before a crowd of 78,000 that packed the big Blue Bowl to capacity.

With the cool, calculating sharpshooter, Quarterback William Barry Wood Jr., of Milton, Mass., dealing destruction to Eli hopes with a spectacular passing attack, Harvard scored two touchdowns and whipped Yale decisively to the tune of 13 to 0.

It was the third successive victory for the Crimson over the blue, the second straight year in which the forces from Cambridge completely stopped the Eli flash, Albie Booth, and a crowning triumph, after previous disappointments, for the gridiron pupils of Head Coach Arnold Horween.

By way of celebration Harvard cohorts snake-danced on rival soil in the dusk, lighted red flares and pulled down the Eli goal posts in a wild duplication of the scenes following the Crimson victory here two years ago.

Albie Booth Stopped.

Harvard's sturdy defense, led by her redoubtable captain and all-America center, Ben Ticknor, stopped Booth and the Blue running attack cold throughout the game.

The Crimson got the jump and dominated the game from start to finish as the flashy Wood gave on one of his greatest passing exhibitions, aided and abetted by Art Huguley, of Swampscott, Mass.

Huguley, a rangy halfback with a long reach, scored both Harvard touchdowns as he pulled down bullet passes thrown with unerring accuracy by Wood to the fringes of the Eli goal. Huguley took two successive heaves early in the first period, the first for 25 yards, the second for 30 yards and a touchdown, as he raced a scant seven yards across the Blue goal.

Again in the third quarter the alert Crimson back plunged across the goal line on a 26-yard toss after Harvard had recovered a Yale fumble.

Yale was prepared for and succeeded in stopping Harvard's lateral passing game, which had contributed to the downfall of the Blue in the past two years, but the Elis were caught napping by Wood's brilliant forward passing today. The Harvard field general,

By Dent McSkimming.

Manuel Rapp, the 198-pound boy from Herculaneum who never played a football game before entering college, stood the Washington University Freshmen on their collective ears as he led St. Louis U.'s first year men to a 21 to 7 victory at Walsh Memorial Stadium yesterday afternoon. True, no football game was ever won by an individual single handed, but Rapp's performance was so outstanding, he had such complete control of the progress of the game that one can't give him too great a share of praise.

Washington held a momentary advantage because of the alertness of Left Tackle Wendt, who blocked Feldman's punt and fell on the ball for a touchdown in the opening quarter, but there was never any great doubt about the outcome of the game. Feldman had only to use some discretion in dividing the brunt of attack between Rapp and his very effective running mate, Arnold Arenz, to assure himself of enough touchdowns to win. The fact that Washington scored but once and then through a blocked kick is unmistakable evidence that the young Billikens' line was nearly impenetrable. The forwards, from end to end, played wideawake active football on both attack and defense.

Arenz Averts a Score.

Except for their successful drive in the first period, the Bears had only one bright scoring chance. In the third quarter, after St. Louis had scored its second touchdown, Halfback Karchmer received Rapp's kickoff. He started his return from Washington's five-yard line, and by cleverly reversing his

ANN ARBOR, Mich. Nov. 22.—Pile-driving charges by Roy Hudson, big fullback, and a place kick by Stanley Hozer gave Michigan a 16-0 victory over the much-defeated Chicago Maroons today—and with it a joint Big Ten football championship with Northwestern.

The major part of the proceeds of the game went to charity, but only 4500 persons, the smallest crowd to attend a Conference game here this season, were in the stadium.

Hudson made the two touchdowns of the game. He went across the goal line on a run from midfield after receiving a pass in the third period and crashed over left tackle in the final period from the three-yard line. Hozer place kicked a goal in the second period.

Michigan's running attack was held in check during most of the game by the Chicago defense. It was not until the final period that the battering of the Michigan backs reduced the Chicago defense to a condition where Wheeler, Hudson's running mate at left half, and the Wolverine fullback were able to make extensive gains on off-tackle dashes.

Hudson's first touchdown was at the end of a surprise pass by Capt. Simrall, who was back in kicking position. Instead of kicking, although he went through all motions, Simrall tossed the ball to Hudson on approxiamtely the 50-yard marker. The big fullback sped down the sideline. He was knocked down at the 20-yard line and again at the four-yard mark, but the Maroons failed to pin him and he tumbled and rolled the remainder of the distance to the goal.

His other score came at the close of Michigan's only sustained march. Wheeler contributed most of the distance, but Hudson lugged the oval the last eight yards.

who played the entire 60 minutes, completed six out of the nine aerials he attempted for total gains of 111 yards. However, he required only three well placed shots to do the scoring damage. He contributed the thirteenth point personally with a dropkick after the first touchdown.

Blue Outrushes Crimson.

Yale, due mainly to a last period spurt, outrushed Harvard by a slight margin, 139 yards to 127, and Booth connected with a series of short passes with the end of the game in sight but the figures failed to reveal how completely the Elis were outplayed, out-charged and out-generaled.

Booth was unable to shake off the jinx that has beset him in athletic combat with Harvard. The "Mighty Atom's" freshman game with Harvard resulted in defeat. His dramatic entry into the game at Cambridge a year ago proved a boomerang and his most desperate efforts today were smothered for the most part by the hard driving, alert Harvard forwards led by Ticknor. Albie's longest dash from scrimmage neter 12 yards. All told, he advanced the ball for net gains of only 22 yards in 10 attempts through the line. He completed 10 out of 19 passes but most of these were wasted. One of his 11 punts was blocked.

IOWA UPSETS NEBRASKA BY 12 TO 7 SCORE

By the Associated Press.

IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 22. — Iowa University reopened an ancient football feud with Nebraska by defeating the scarlet eleven, 12 to 7, today.

Some 12,000 spectators saw Coach Burton Ingwersen's rejuvenated eleven, which got away to a dismal start this year by losing three of its first four contests, stage a brilliant comeback to defeat the Cornhuskers and close its season with a 50-50 record of games won and lost.

After a brilliant Nebraska attack netted a Cornhusker a touchdown within the first four minutes, the Hawkeye eleven pulled itself together to push over two counters in the second quarter and outplayed the visitors throughout most of the remainder of the contest.

Nebraska missed an opportunity at the very start of the game when Frahm's attempt to score from placement was nullified. Sansen, however, gave them another chance which Long made good almost immediately, racing around the Hawkeye right end for a touchdown.

Frahm added the extra point.

The Hawkeyes came back in the second period with two touchdowns, however.

Jerry Kriz, Sophomore back, took the ball on a cross buck and slashed off left tackle for the first. The try for point was wide. The second came later in the same period, Leo Jensvold leading the parade which enabled him to score from the Nebraska eight-yard line on a right end dash.

Nebraska's aerial attack yielded 92 yards on four successful attempts out of 19 tries, while Iowa's lone effort was incomplete.

MISSOURI SUFFERS WORST DEFEAT FROM KANSAS

snapped and in the twinkling of an eye Bausch had the ball back of the goal line.

The veteran, Forrest Cox, scored the fourth touchdown as the completion of a 45-yard march in which passes were mixed with line plays. Johnny Madison, who scored the lone Jayhawker touchdown against Pennsylvania, broke loose near the end of the game for a 24-yard run and the fifth touchdown. McCall and Fisher, who seldom kick goal, added the two points, Kansas annexed this way after three failures.

The Kansas interference functioned like a well-oiled machine. Against it Missouri was helpless. Even Capt. McGirl, an excellent lineman, was taken out of the plays.

Statistics on the game clearly indicate the superiority of Kansas. The first down favored the victors, 23 to 6. The scrimmage gain showed, Kansas leading 351 to 35 yards in a running attack and 167 to 142 by passes. Hubert Campbell and his successor at punting for Missouri had an edge on the Kansas kickers, each team punting eight times.

Sarazen Leads in Oregon Open Golf Tourney

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 22. — Gene Sarazen, New York professional, came from behind today and stroked his way to leadership in the 1930 Oregon open golf tournament.

Sarazen completed 18 holes on the Columbia Country Club course today in 71, one under par. He shot a 70 in the opening round Friday for a total of 141. Craig Wood, New Jersey pro, who led the first day's play with a 69, counted a 73 today to place second with 142. Tied with him were Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, and Frank Walsh, Chicago. Diegel posted a 70 today, but shot even par 72 in the opening round.

Walsh stole the show today, equaling Wood's spectacular 69 of Friday. He went out in 37 and came home in 32, the best score for nine holes in the tournament so far.

Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, continued to lead the amateur field. Willing scored a 72 on the first 18 holes and while he dropped to 74 today it was good enough.

The final 36 holes will be played tomorrow.

INDIANA SCORES IN LAST PERIOD TO UPSET PURDUE

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 22.—A fighting, underdog Indiana football eleven rose to unsuspected strength today in the last game of a disastrous season and upset Purdue, 7 to 6, in the annual Hoosier gridiron classic.

Tonight the Crimson cohorts bore the "Old Oaken Bucket," symbolic of the ancient rivalry, back to Bloomington in triumph for the first time since it was placed at stake in 1923.

Shut out in five major games this season and trailing by six points most of the time today, Indiana swept forth with powerful off-tackle smashes and deceptive passes in the final quarter to march 60 yards for a touchdown. Dauer, Indiana quarterback, stood on the Purdue goal line with husky Boilermakers on all sides, and snared a fast pass from Opasik to knot the count. Then Ed Hughes, kept from the game by injuries, came running out to boot a perfect place kick for the winning point.

The Crimson clad team fought back savagely to smother Purdue's frenzied attempts for a last-minute score. Three times the Boilermakers obtained the ball in the last five minutes and each time the Indiana forward wall stood firm, and each time a secondary defense player leaped into the air to intercept a Purdue forward pass.

The only Boilermaker score came after about three minutes of play in the first period. Pope had passed to Moss for 14 yards and first down on Indiana's 20-yard line. Pope tossed a long heave to Purvis behind the goal line. The game was lost on the next play, when Van Bibber failed to place-kick the goal.

WASH-JEFF WINS, 7-6, OVER WEST VIRGINIA

By the Associated Press.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 22.—Washington and Jefferson battled to a 7 to 6 triumph over West Virginia today and the story of it all concerns a big fullback, the Presidents' "Stew" Wilson.

It was Wilson who carried the ball most of the way during a 45-yard march in the third period, and who tossed a pass to Port for a touchdown. Wilson it was again who kicked a perfect placement and that point won the battle when Parriott of West Virginia failed in a similar effort after passing his team to a touchdown in the final quarter.

Country Day Wins 7 to 6 From John Burroughs

In a fast gridiron battle, closing the "ABC" League football season, the Country Day "A" team defeated the John Burroughs School by the score of 7—6 and won for itself the "ABC" League championship. This is the only time this year these teams have met. Before this contest, the two schools were tied for first place in the league competition and this was the deciding game.

In the first quarter, Burroughs received the kick-off and by using Hahnel and Turner on end runs and line bucks took the ball down to Codasco's 30-yard line, where they were forced to yield it. The Red and White then completed a pass, but was unable to make any serious gains. In the second period Codasco began to make inroads in the enemy's territory by using line plunges and a number of sensational passes and threatened the Burroughs goal from the 25-yard line. Then they tried another pass, which was intercepted by Turner of Burroughs, who carried the ball for the first touchdown of the game. The Glancymen tried for the point after touchdown with a line plunge, but failed to make it. In this same period, Codasco received the kick-off and worked itself down the field, using end runs. Then Putney threw a sensational long pass to Swift, over the goal, from the 30-yard line and scored the last touchdown of the contest. Coach Hughes' players made the extra point with an accurate place kick. The half ended with the pigskin on the Blue and Gold's 45-yard chalk mark.

In the third quarter the Burroughs men carried the ball within scoring distance by placing it on the Codasco's 15-yard mark. Though earning a first down at this time, John Burroughs was unable to put the ball across. During this period, Codasco was taking the offensive most of the time and Burroughs was frequently forced to kick out of danger. In the last quarter, Morgan intercepted a pass and took the ball to the enemy's 15-yard line, but Country Day was not able to score and the Blue and Gold punted to safety.

Just before the whistle blew, Burrough completed a long pass and took the ball to the opposition's 35-yard line.

STANFORD PILES UP 41-0 VICTORY OVER CALIFORNIA

By the Associated Press.

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 22.—Behind a perfect aerial barrage and a ground attack that proved irresistible, Stanford's Cardinals smashed their way to a 41 to 0 victory over California's Bears today, the most decisive triumph ever chalked up in the 38-year gridiron rivalry between these teams.

Eighty thousand fans thrilled to the new-found power of the veteran coach, Glenn Warner's 1930 football machine, a power that developed in the second half and steam-rolled the game. A 38 to 0 victory by California in 1920 was the former most decisive score since the two teams first clashed in 1892.

Held to a 6 to 0 lead at half time, Stanford turned up with a crashing attack in the third and fourth periods that gained five touchdowns and a safety. The Cardinals were not only unstopable on offense but their defense was impenetrable.

field, aided by interference, he worked his way through the entire Billiken team. He reached midfield and was absolutely in the clear. There was not an opponent between himself and the St. Louis goal line. But he was pursued. Arenz, 187-pound Billiken halfback, bore down on the flying Karchmer and collared him from behind, dragging him to the ground on the Billiken 42-yard line. Arenz there proved he has the speed that makes a good football player. Karchmer had run the ball back 53 yards.

Some long, well placed punts by Fullback Grant were chiefly responsible for delaying the Billikens' winning drive. In the first quarter Grant outkicked Feldman by yards and yards. Later in the game Feldman seemed to have the advantage.

Three of the Bears' Best.

No St. Louis lineman turned in a better game than the Washington center, Steinecker. The Bears had a star also in Quarterback Gettlin, and the 270-pound tackle, Bill Helmbock did a lot more than get in his own way.

The tackling of the Washington players seemed not so good as it might have been. It was usually necessary for four or five men to mass before they could stop Rapp when he was under full headway. One of his two touchdowns, that made in the fourth period, was accomplished on a straight buck of 15 yards through center and every man of the Washington backfield made a futile attempt to bring him down. He carried three men over the goal line with him.

Although the youngsters played with all the spirit and drive of the Varsity, there were no serious injuries reported.

Wendt scored Washington's touchdown in the first period; Rapp counted for St. Louis in the second, and again in the fourth period, and John Hoy scored the second touchdown for St. Louis in the third quarter, on an end run.

About 5000 persons witnessed the game. Ideal football weather prevailed.

Wisconsin Defeats Minnesota; False Signal Stops Contest

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 22.—The Wisconsin football team outplayed and outsmarted Minnesota here today to crush the Gophers, 14 to 0.

More than 30,000 bundled spectators cheered the Badgers in their supreme effort, and were dazed at an unforseen anti-climax to the oldest football rivalry in the Middle West.

The Badgers had marched to Minnesota's 10-yard line in the wanning minutes of the final period. As they lined up for a touchdown play, a pistol was fired from near the Minnesota bandstand. The players ran off the field and the crowd surged over the field. For 15 minutes cheer leaders worked frantically to clear the field in an effort to finish the final five seconds of the contest.

The Wisconsin team came back onto the field, and spectators lined the edge of the playing area as in gridiron days of the 90's. Minnesota did not put in an appearance, and officials declared the game finished.

Early in the second period, Lusky passed to Capt. Milton Gantenbein, who sprinted 36 yards for a touchdown. Lusby place-kicked the goal.

The final Badger touchdown was made in the third period with Schneller making the count on his second plunge from the two-yard line. Lusby place-kicked the goal.

PRINCIPIA WINS FINAL GAME OF SEASON, 37 TO 6

By Davison Obear

The Principia Junior College football team defeated the Hannibal-La Grange Junior College eleven from Hannibal, Mo., 37 to 6 in a Missouri State Junior College conference game at Taylor Field yesterday afternon. Coach George Kilburns' players scored in three of the four quarters of the game, which closed the season.

In the first quarter Principia outrushed Hannibal and carried the ball to the 25-yard line. Halfback Powers then ran around left end for the first touchdown. A kick for another point was blocked.

Principia advanced again at the start of the second quarter due to line bucks and end runs. Captain Carl Becker scored his first touchdown in two years for Principia when he went through center. Tullis kicked goal. A forward pass from Becker was received by Powers later in the quarter and the shifty halfback scored another touchdown. The goal kick went to the right of the posts.

The Hannibal-La Grange eleven scored a touchdown in the third period and held Principia scoreless.

At the start of the fourth quarter Principia started an offensive which resulted in three touchdowns. Powers made the first on an end run from the 15-yard line. Becker scored later on a line play after Nolte had advanced the ball to the 18-yard line.

ARMY SUBSTITUTES WIN FROM URSINUS ELEVEN BY 18-0 SCORE

By the Associated Press.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 22.—The Army today engaged in its last minor skirmish in preparation for the game with Notre Dame at Soldier Field, Chicago, next Saturday, the second and third stringers running up 18 points in the first half to defeat Ursinus College, 18—0.

If Notre Dame scouts were in the stands today they got little line on what to expect next week. No regular Cadet back or linesmen saw service and the Cadets so clearly outclassed the little squad from Collegeville, Pa., that they only tried four passes and no trick plays.

Cochran Takes Hoppe's Title

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Welker Cochran, of Hollywood dethroned Willie Hoppe as world's 18.1 balkline billards champion, in their championship match completed tonight, 3600 to 2815.

Hoppe had the satisfaction of winning the last block, scoring 448 points while Cochran was making the 300 he needed to win the title and the diamond medal that goes with it.

Cochran really clinched the title in the first seven blocks, all of which he won. In these blocks he piled up a lead of more than 1000 points and Hoppe's closing rally failed by many points to overcome the deficit. Of the 12 blocks, Cochran won nine and Hoppe three.

The new champion scored his 3600 points in 107 hours for an average of 33 69-107, a new record in competitive 18.1 balkline play. The old record of 31 was set by Hoppe in 1910 in a 500-point match. Hoppe himself compiled the excellent average of 26 33-107.

The feature of the final block was Hoppe's string of 149 in the sixth inning. For the second block in the even dozen played, Cochran failed to collect a run of 100 or better.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 22.—Wesley Fesler, Ohio State's one-man fighting machine, closed his spectacular college football career today before a crowd of 20,000 by leading the Scarlet and Gray to a 12 to 9 victory over Illinois in a game that sizzled with thrills from start to finish.

It was a fitting end to one of the greatest football careers in college football history, as the victory not only gave Ohio State revenge for three straight years of scoring famines at the hands of the Illini but gained for Fesler and his mates a tie for fourth place in the Big Ten football race despite a wretched start.

Fesler, standing on his own 18-yard line, booted a punt out of bounds to Illinois' eight-yard line. On the first play, Hunter Russell, Illinois' sophomore halfback, fumbled the ball and Carl Ehrensberger, the big Buckeye center, recovered it on Illinois' 10-yard line.

Fesler, switching from end to fullback, carried the ball to the Illinois six-yard line and then after losing two yards on another try, stood back and flipped a pass to Bob Grady, who reached high and fell over the line for the touchdown. Ehrensberger's try for the extra point failed.

Three minutes later, after Fesler's kicking sent the ball deep in Illinois territory, the Buckeyes launched an aerial attack with Fesler again doing the tossing that soon put the ball in scoring position for Ohio State's second touchdown—the one that ultimately decided the ball game. Fesler heaved one to Grady that netted 10 yards and another to Horn for 18 yards that put the ball on the Illini one-yard line. Varner picked up the offensive threat from that point and went over for the score on two straight plunges through the stubborn Illini forward wall. Ehrensberger's attempt for the extra point failed again.

Illinois scored a touchdown in the second period, kicked the extra point and later counted two points on a safety.

A powerful Oak Park (Ill.) High School team outplayed and defeated University City High by a 14 to 0 score before a crowd of 3000 at University City yesterday afternoon.

Oak Park used its weight advantage of 23 pounds per man, to good advantage, and scored in the first three minutes of play, after which University City's defense stiffened and held until the start of the third period, when Oak Park's offense again began to tear through University City's defense and gave Oak Park another touchdown. Bob Hernon made both touchdowns on line plunges and made one of the extra points after touchdown.

Oak Park's offense functioned smoothly and powerfully, while its defense was impregnable so far as the University City backfield was concerned.

Oak Park scored its first touchdown before the game was three minutes old, taking the ball on its 38-yard line and mixing line plays and one long pass to carry the ball over the goal. Rubini started the march, gaining 12 yards on two plays. He then passed 40 yards to Zinkil, who ran an additional 15 yards to put the ball in scoring position for Hernon, who carried it over in two plays, and scored the extra point on a fake kick.

The second quarter saw Oak Park carry the ball from its 40-yard line to University City's one-foot line on successive line plunges by Rubini, Schwartz and Hernon, the strong forward wall of the Chicago team easily pushing the lighter St. Louis county team aside for its backs to go through wide holes. On the one-foot line, the center of Oak Park made a bad pass to Hernon, and the half ended before the visiting team could make an almost certain touchdown.

Oak Park scored in the third quarter after another long march down the field, this time for 68 yards. Rubini and Hernon alternated in hitting the line and another long pass, from Rubini to Schwartz, for 30 yards, put the ball in scoring position for Hernon who went over. Schwartz kicked the extra point.

University City's only opportunity to score came in the last quarter when successive penalties of 15 and 25 yards backed the Chicago eleven to its three-yard line and Lovett made a poor punt that ended on Oak Park's 15-yard line. With the ball deep in its territory, the Chicagoans proved their strength by throwing the U. City players for three losses out of four attempts to gain ground.

Rubini and Hernon made the game a certainty for Oak Park by their spectacular ball-carrying, both men gaining ground on almost every attempt and both refusing to be downed except when tackled by two or three men. The Chicago team's tackles also played a fine defensive game.

Johnson did the best offensive work for U. City, while Dave Lamb and C. Ochs did a good job in the line.

South Sides Roll 1186 in Peterson League

Charley Peterson's bowling alleys need a cleaning judging from the scores shot in last week's round of play in the Peterson Scratch League. Three teams bested the [illegible] mark and one went above [illegible]. Otto Stein counted a 716 total and Flesh and Nelson accounted for 682 each. Among the high single games turned in were: Moehle, 287; Kastner, 277; Stein, [illegible] and 266, and Flesh, 264.

The South Side Chevrolets rolled a new season single game record of 1186 and finished with a three-game total of 3143. The Witter Razz quint paced the teams with 3190, which included two games above 1100. The Wooster Lamberts totaled 3142 and the Justin Flints shot 3013.

The Wooster Lambers won three games from the Petersons and are now only one game behind the leading Flints, who won two games from the Hellrungs. The South Sides, which won two from the Schmitts and are third with the Schmitts fourth. The Witters are next, followed by the Petersons, Hellrungs and Sunshines.

the handbookies has it that next year's Derby might as well be made a three-horse race, and save the trouble and expense of training some 150 other candidates. It is the belief of the wise boys who handle other people's money in racing bets, that Jamestown, Equipoise and Twenty Grand are the only two-year-olds of class developed this season.

They see a big gap between Equipoise, the third best juvenile, and the next best two-year-old, say Mate or Vander Pool, with Surf Board, Epithet, Siskin, Don Leon and others trailing.

What's the matter, boys—have you forgotten Gallant Fox? He didn't rate better than tenth or fifteenth as a two-year-old, but look at him today!

Two-year-old form is no guarantee of success in three-year-old events. Bookies laying less than 10 to 1 against the favorite in next year's Derby, to start the ball rolling, will be short-changing the bettors.

Twenty Grand Favored.

AT this writing Twenty Grand, because he started late in the season and finished like a whirlwind, will be the opening favorite, with Jamestown second choice and Equipoise third.

If the race should be run according to 2-year-old form, the bettors would have to play Twenty Grand to beat the other pair.

The public's real task is to guess which horse among the other entries will turn out to be the Gallant Fox of 1931.

Our Racing Outlook.

A GOOD ground-work looking toward the enactment of a bill legalizing pari-mutuel betting on horse races in Missouri has been laid down, with reasonable prospects of it getting favorable consideration when the Legislature convenes.

It is high time to consider the provisions needed to make such a bill fool-proof and crook-proof. The Illinois bill has several defects which a Missouri measure might avoid. The public will not be satisfied with any measure which fails to provide adequate protection for the pari-mutuel money. To do this it is necessary that:

The State provide pari-mutuel inspectors and pay the inspectors' salaries (in Illinois there is one inspector and the race track pays him).

The inspector-in-chief be a certified public accountant and not a politician.

All pari-mutuel windows close before the horses reach the starting point.

No comeback money be accepted within five minutes of post time.

Forestall Suspicion.

WITH all mutuels closed before the horses are at the barrier no manipulation of tickets in favor of "straw" clients would be possible and the final odds posted would therefore be almost exact.

The effect of last-minute "comeback" money in disturbing the prices, too late for the change to be posted, is well known in this vicinity. The customers, breathe stertorously and exhale explosively and profanely. Such price changes beget suspicion of juggling and are bad for the sport whether criticism is deserved or not.

Too Much for St. Louis.

IT is also asking too much of this community to expect its race track to pay $2500 a day, plus a tax on admissions as well as the usual property taxes. One or two Chicago tracks have been able to do this on a 6½ per cent takeout with no "breakage," but St. Louis will hardly be able to make it pay.

A sound racing law is due Missouri where betting on horses goes on illegally to an intensive and expensive degree. Why not legalize the business and thus protect the bettors and give the State a revenue as well, since it is evident that John Thomas Public is going to have his fling at betting whether the law is favorable or not?

Can't Be Done.

A SYNDICATE which annually rates the boxers in various weight divisions according to the "best ten" in each class, has asked this writer to name his choices. After a brief once-over of the heavyweight division, it is evident that the thing conscientiously cannot be done.

There is no "best ten." In fact, there is no "best" ONE.

Here's the layout:

The champion is a foul ball.

Jack Sharkey is Old Man Foul himself and erratic besides.

Young Stribling is a "wow" against a dub and a dub against his equals.

Carnera can't be knocked out, apparently, but he can be outboxed in a short fight.

Ernie Schaaf seems to have reached his limit (and it's not too high).

Uzcudun, Risko and Loughran are all "shot."

Mickey Walker and Tuffy Griffiths are too small.

On his showing Carnera seems to have the best chance to go somewhere, if the state commissions will give him right of way. But as to naming the "best ten"—boy, you are asking nine too many.

GRANITE CITY AND E. ST. LOUIS PLAY 0-0 TIE

A crowd of more than 6000 katched the two leaders of the Southewestern Illinois Conference, Granite City and East St. Louis, battle to a scoreless tie yesterday afternoon on the East Siders' field. The result of the game leaves the deadlock for first place unbroken and each team has one more game to play, both contests scheduled for Thanksgiving day. In the only other conference game on yesterday's program, Collinsville defeated Wood River, 13-6 on the Oilers' field.

The game at East St. Louis was an exciting affair with Granite City on the offensive throughout the contest. Play was in East Side territory with the visitors within scoring position in all four periods, but the Flyers held when the invaders were within the 10-yard area.

The Granite City lads made 17 first downs to one for East St. Louis, and the East Siders did not have the ball for offensive play more than five minutes of the entire game.

Collinsville fired its guns early, making two touchdowns in the opening quarter and then scoring no more. Allen ran with the ball and scored the extra point.

A lateral pass play gave Wood River its touchdown in the second quarter, Solterman taking the ball from Smith and running 30 yards to score.

EDWARDSVILLE ELEVEN DEFEATS LIVINGSTON IN NON-CONFERENCE GAME

Edwardsville High School's football team had an easy time with Livingston this morning, winning the nonconference game without trouble, 21-0. Edwardsville had possesion of the ball for the greater part of the game. Livingston did not threaten at any period of the play.

The Tigers scored early in the first period when Reno Tenor broke around left end for a 40-yard run and touchdown. Tillo Tenor went off tackle for the extra point. The second session was scoreless, but play centered in Livingston territory. Reno Tenor tossed a 30-yard pass in the third quarter to Fahrig, who stepped over the goal line for the second touchdown. Tillo Tenor went through the line for the point.

As the last quarter opened, Edwardsville had the ball on the one-foot line and on the next play Blixen went through guard for score. Ax place-kicked the extra point.

VILLANOVA SURPRISES GEORGETOWN AND WINS BY TWO TOUCHDOWNS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Georgetown University football team went down to defeat before the Wildcats of Villanova College today, 13 to 0.

It was the first gridiron battle between the two teams in 25 years, Villanova winning in 1905, 6 to 0. The Villanova proceeds went to the unemployment fund. Damp, foggy weather held the attendance to about 10,000.

The victory of the Wildcats, coached by Harry Stuhldreher, of Notre Dame four horsemen fame, came as a surprise as the experts had picked the Georgetowners as the stronger team.

N. B. A. RESCINDS ITS BAN AGAINST NON-MEMBER STATES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing Association, announced today that the organization has voted unanimously to rescind its resolution of last fall decreeing that boxers who appeared in nonmember states would be barred from states comprising the N. B. A. Clinnin took the vote by mail.

The resolution caused a furore in boxing circles at the time it was adopted. New York, Massachusetts and California are not affiliated with the N. B. A. and several outstanding boxers who would accept bouts in these three centers would be barred from the rest of the states.

AGGIES DEFEAT OKLAHOMA U. BY 7-0 SCORE

By the Associated Press.

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 22.—Led by their great little quarterback Hayden Trigg, the Oklahoma Aggies pounded out a 7 to 0 victory over their traditional rivals, the University of Oklahoma Sooners, in their homecoming struggle here today.

A crowd estimated at 15,000 persons filled the stands at Lewis Field, and overflowed upon the cinder track which encircles the gridiron.

More than 2500 University of Oklahoma rooters were in the crowd that watched the Aggies jump into the lead early in the first period.

Three times the Sooners threatened in the final period but an alert Aggie pass defense snuffed out the final bid for a "tying tally with only one minute to go."

Until the last few minutes of play when Buxton filled the air with passes for the desperate red and white clad invaders, there seemed little doubt as to the outcome.

WESTERN "B" TEAM DEFEATS PRINCIPIA, 8-0, "C" ELEVEN LOSES, 51-0

The Western Military Academy A. B. C. League football elevens finished the season in third place when the "B" team managed to win a hard-fought game with Principia by a score of 8 to 0 yesterday morning at Taylor Field. Western's "C" eleven, however, was not quite so successful. It was swamped underneath a 51—0 score by Principia's "C," due in a large part to the wonderful running of Earl Stitt, Principia's quarterback.

For the first three quarters the two "B" teams battled evenly. Western showed itself to be much superior in its play, but the boys of that team were "under confident" due to the setback received at the hands of the weaker Burroughs team a week ago, and were afraid to try anything. In the latter minutes of the final period, Western regained its confidence and loosed a terrific drive which resulted in a touchdown by Martin. The limited time was the only reason for the score being as close as it was.

The safety was made when Western again approached the goal. Principia gained the ball on the five-yard line on downs and tried to kick out. The ball, however, went outside behind the line, and Western gained 2 points.

In the "C" game, the Stitts "had it." Seven of the eight touchdowns were scored by Earl Stitt, while his brother took a pass from him to score the other. Everyone of Earl's touchdowns were made on runs at least 20 yards long, while most were around 40 yards in length.

Carnegie Tech Wins

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Carnegie Tech and Temple University football teams played on Franklin Field today for the benefit of the unemployment fund, but Temple saw no charity in the game for the Skobos from Pittsburg steam-rollered them by a score of 32 to 13.

COUNTRY DAY AND BURROUGHS "B" AND "C" TEAMS PLAY TIES

In two "ABC" League games the Country Day School "B" and "C" teams held the John Burroughs "B" and "C" teams to scoreless ties. These results place the Burroughs "B" in second place in the "B" division and the Codasco "B" in third place. They also mean that the Burroughs and Country Day "C" teams will still be tied for first place in the "ABC" League.

In the first half of the "B" contest there was an exchange of kicks and Country Day tried several passes. Burroughs concentrated principally on line bucks and end runs. The most sensational play was when Young of Burroughs intercepted a pass on the 10-yard line and ran to the enemy's 30-yard mark before he was tackled. The half ended with the ball on Burrough's 40-yard line. The last half was almost a repetition of the first. A few passes were completed, but both teams played straight football the majority of the time.

Ames Is Handed 14th Defeat in Row by Drake

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 22.—Iowa State College of Ames, striving desperately for its first football victory in 14 games, fought Drake University's Missouri Valley conference champions tooth and nail through three and a half periods of their traditional "grudge" battle today but finally succumbed, 20 to 19.

A lapse in the final period enabled Drake to come from behind to score a touchdown and the point after two plays before the game ended.

KANSAS AGGIES WIN FROM CENTRE, 28-0

MANHATTAN, Kan., Nov. 22.—The Kansas Aggies trounced Centre College 27 to 0 in an intersectional football contest here today, blanking the Kentuckians easily in a game played under ideal weather conditions. Nigro scored three of the Aggie touchdowns. The Centre eleven showed a flash of offensive power in a second period passing attack, but otherwise was held to defensive tactics.

SCHENBERGS MEET SPANIARDS IN MUNY SOCCER LEAGUE FEATURE TODAY

ST. EDWARDS TO PLAY C. B. C. IN FIRST GAME AT SHERMAN PARK

The Jimmy Dunn-coached St. Edwards team meets Christian Brothers College Alumni in one of the most promising games of the Municipal Soccer League schedule this afternoon. The match is the first of a double-header at Sherman Park, the old C. B. C. campus. Dunn and Eddie McHugh have collaborated in building up a team from comparatively inexperienced boys. Today they will have a new center forward in Ellison, formerly of the Academys, and a new halfback in Schaefer, also an old Academy team regular. In the second game at Sherman Park the Cook A. C. will oppose the St. Louis Hurlers.

At Fairground Park, on No. 3 field, the Longos meet the Pals in what may prove the deciding game of the league race. Manager Loftus has put together a strong scoring machine under the Longo banner this year with Emmet McDonnell as his key man at center forward. He has a very useful inside left in Bennie Chautin and an experienced center halfback in Frank Mercurio. Joe Hand, veteran backfield man of the professional league, spoke to the Longo players at a team meeting Thursday evening and gave them some valuable hints in which should result in a general improvement in the team's play.

Perhaps the best game of the day is offered at Carondelet Park, where the Spanish Club meets the Schenbergs. With Dave Bartnett in goal, protected by two good fullbacks, Dave Branconier and Heidell, and Tom Heidenry at center half, the Schenbergs have at least the structure which guarantees a strong defense. Jimmy McCarthy has been resurrected to lead the attack at center forward and he has some able assistants. Al Thro, at right halfback, is far above the average player.

The Spaniards, too, have a good club, although the team management has been under a severe handicap in being forced to restrict his roster to players of Spanish birth or antecedents. He lost one of the finest goaltenders in town when one Senor Rodriguez visited Spain last year and forgot to come back.

Bowling Notes

The Red Circles of the Wellston White Way League, will bowl a picked team from St. Charles in the final three games of a home-and-home match on the Wellston Recreation alleys this afternoon at 1 o'clock. The St. Charles five won the first half of the match by 100 pins.

Jerry Ludwig of Jule Schmitt's Ready Mixers, and Ray Zeigler, of the International Greyhounds, will meet in a seven-game match tonight on the Wellston Recreation alleys. The match will begin at 7 o'clock. The same pair will meet in a 20-game home-and-home match next Saturday and Sunday. The first 10 games will be bowled at Floriss Recreation and the final half at Wellston.

A special team match between the Martin-Breitts, of the Women's Major City League, and Judge Butler's Elks is scheduled for Ed Schaefer's Delmar Recreation alleys tomorrow night at 9 o'clock. The women's team has an average of 851, while Butler's stars are rolling an average of 837. The match is three games and the following bowlers will participate: Mrs. M. Summers, Flo Schlenck, Mrs. E. A. Schafere, Mrs. Bostelman, Mrs. M. Schulte, Judge Butler, George Butler, George Dominick, C. Graves, J. Hickey and E. A. Schaefer.

Entries are being received for Ben Cohen's Congress alley gold medal tourney, which will be rolled next Saturday and Sunday. Four squads will be rolled each day with the first taking the alleys at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. This event is eight games across eight alleys and has drawn most of the leading bowlers of the city. Among the star tenpinners already entered are: Otto Stein Jr., Frank Kastner, Andy Leicht, Lee Martin, Lee Groneck, "Buzz" Wilson, "Windy" Glaub, Jim Wilson, Jule Schmitt and Hank Summers.

The South Side Leaders and the South Side Boosters will meet in a special match on the Cinderella alleys Thursday night at 7 o'clock. Both teams are members of leagues which bowl on the Cinderella alleys.

Although three of the Russell bowlers hit better than 600, the team totaled only 2844 and won three games from the Show Boats in the South Side Boosters League. Mocker paced the team with 624. Held hit 617 and Kerr 608. The Zeigenheins led the teams with a 2871 total, which enabled them to win three games from the Menetrees. The Beckers, Jolly Three Five and South Sides won the other matches. Fox shot 617 for the Beckers.

Entries for the Officers' Club handicap tourney to be rolled on the Arway Recreation alleys Dec. 6 and 7, close at midnight next Saturday. The event will be four games on a 60 per cent handicap basis. More than 175 entries for the meet have already been received.

Halfback Should Always Use Pass in an Effort to Get by Opponent, Wilson Writes

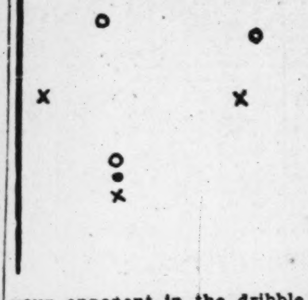
Dribbling Is Waste of Valuable Time; Gives Opponent Better Chance to Tighten Defense.

By Andy Wilson,
Of Scotland and Chelsea.

I DO not think there is a more important position on the field than halfback, so far as letting the ball do the hard work in preference to the player actually doing it. By that I mean cutting out dribbling and passing the ball to beat an opponent.

The necessity for holding the ball and drawing an opponent has been impressed upon you. You draw him to you so that one of your colleagues is left clear. Now suppose that you have drawn this opponent. If you pass the ball to your man you have done your duty and are still in a position of safety if things go wrong; you can easily get back to defend.

If, instead of passing the ball, you decide to dribble past your opponent, where do you stand? In exactly the same position as if you had not dribbled. Let me make it clear. You have dribbled past the opponent but you have not yet passed the ball to your colleague. You still have to complete your work and you have given the other side an extra second in which to cover up their defense. You now pass the ball, say to your winger, and probably you will find that the opposing back is covering him. You have wasted time, but in addition you have taken a very grave risk.



Suppose that instead of beating your opponent in the dribble you had lost the ball—by no means an unlikely happening—you will find an opposing attack started instead of an attack for your own team being on the way. By attempting a dribble you are taking a grave risk. By passing the ball you are not taking the slightest risk.

Quick Pass Is Useful.

YOU will probably think: "But if I pass the ball, the opponent may still intercept it and we shall be badly placed." I want you to study the diagram of this week. The ball is indicated by a dot. You are shown by a cross nearest to the ball. The other crosses indicate your colleagues to whom you can pass the ball. The circle nearest to the ball is the man against whom you are opposed. The other circles are opponents.

You will see that a quick pass will be very useful, but if you delay a second too long your colleagues will be covered. You can see how fatal the delay might be if you dribbled and how you would still have to pass. Now suppose that your rival did get the ball when you passed. He has the ball at his feet, but you are still in a position to tackle him again. He has not got a clear road to attack, you are still between him and your goal.

Wing Back, Who Is Beaten, Should Not Chase Forward, but Should Go Back to Protect the Goal.

But if he beats you in a dribble he will carry the ball past you and you have to turn round—you are at a great disadvantage.

This tactic applies to practically every position on the field, but I have included it in the wing halfback notes because such positions occur with him most frequently. But it is of great value to the center half, and to save unnecessary repetition when writing about the center half back position, I hope it will be noted by players in that position.

The next item in a wing half back study is that of when a player is beaten. Let us assume that the opposing winger has got the better of you in a duel, especially in a dribble. If your fullback has done his work properly and covered up as I suggested he should do, he will now be on the job. The wing halfback who is beaten should not waste time by turning and chasing the winger.

Must Get Into Position.

THE moment you are beaten you must leave the opponent to the man who is covering you and you must get into the middle of the field and back into your own goal mouth. You must, in short, take up the fullback's position. You must be ready for the ball being centered or for a back pass from the winger to the inside man.

If you did turn and chase the man with the ball you would not expect to catch him. Usually wingers are very fast and, in any case, the start which he would gain would be too much for you. The next task is to see that when the winger parts with the ball there is no danger to your goal.

Should you be beaten by an inside forward then you are, or should be, safe in thinking that your center halfback or fullback will cover you, and you can concentrate upon seeing that your conqueror cannot pass the ball out to the wing. You must close up that road to an attack. It may appear as though you are running away from the ball, but do not let that deter you. Your job is to see that every avenue of attack is closed and a fruitless chase of a man who has beaten you is not the best way to that end.

I am not sure but what this is the most important thing a wing halfback must do. We are all beaten at times, and it is easy in the circumstances to do the wrong thing. I admit that often when I lose the ball I feel like chasing after the man who has beaten me. Perhaps my vanity is hurt, but I soon realize how wrong that is when I do not get the ball.

No, the golden rule for halfbacks when beaten, is to go where the ball might come. If you remember that the moment you are beaten another of your men must be drawn out of position because he is covering you, then you will not make the mistake of chasing your rival; you will go back into the position from which your colleague has been drawn.

Tablers Oppose Ben Millers in Soccer Feature

In their St. Louis Soccer League game with the Ben Millers, today, the Tablers are going to run into far tougher opposition than they encountered in their two previous meetings. The Tablers have beaten Foley's club, 7 to 0, and again, 2 to 1. Since the last game, the Millers have tightened up the defense largely through switching Hughie Hill to center halfback. Erbe's presence at right fullback also plugged a big gap. As the team performed against the Hellrungs last Sunday there are only two weak spots, center forward and right halfback.

George Bollam is making a worthy effort to supply the need at center, but Bollam even at his best falls short of being a good leader in the forward line, and Eddie Croak's usefulness at right halfback seems to be limited to spoiling the efforts of the opposing forwards; he fails to add anything of a constructive nature to his own team's attack, largely because he doesn't pass accurately.

If, by some rearrangement of his material, Foley can hit upon a center and good left half, the Millers may still be factors in the league race and in cup games. Harry Fink might make a good wing half. John Hamm has his bad days in goal but he remains one of the outstanding goalies of recent years.

If Tate Brady's four cripples, Hanson, Nolan, Mahon and Hebberger, are sufficiently recovered to be ready for play, the Hellrungs should have an edge over the Coca-Colas in the first game of afternoon.

New "COLD-TREATMENT" process

PRESERVES "PEAK OF FRESHNESS" FLAVOR IN CIGARS...!

FELLOW CIGAR SMOKERS, if you've ever smoked a really fresh cigar, right after it's been made—you know that no other smoke hits the spot as that one did.

It lingers in your memory the way the taste of a fresh peach would linger with a man who'd always eaten dried ones.

How to bring you that "Peak of Freshness" flavor has long puzzled cigar manufacturers. But now Dutch Masters has achieved it—with the revolutionary NEW "Cold-Treatment" process!

This amazing process takes each Dutch Masters cigar just as it comes from the machine—just at the precise moment when the fine tobaccos are at their freshest, blandest, most fragrant perfection...

And then by this exclusive and secret process of "Cold-Treatment," seals in the cigar that new-made flavor and aroma.... seals it in so that it remains in the cigar until your match releases it for your pleasure—in long, cool puffs of "fresh flavor" smoke!

Try a Dutch Masters "Cold-Treated" cigar today! And enjoy that greatest of smoke-thrills—a cigar as fresh as if it had just been made.

Says Mr. Jack Kepsen, "Dutch Masters is a great smoke. It's so fresh." Says Mr. Bissell, "I've smoked Dutch Masters before. This new cold-treatment seems to make it fresher and more fragrant than ever."

"After the run there's nothing like a fresh Dutch Masters for relaxation," says Mr. John Gould, Morrisville, Pa.

"So this is one of those new cold-treated cigars. Well, you can say for me that it's a great smoke," says Mr. Ollie Davis, Ludington Flying Service, Inc.

"What I demand in a cigar is freshness, and this Dutch Masters certainly fills the bill," says Mr. Earl G. Aspen.

Joe Trippe vs. Teddy Yarosz, at Pittsburg.
Joey Scalfaro vs. Jimmy Slavin, at New York.

Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight champion of the world, who makes his home in New York City, and K. O. Phil Kaplan, also of New York, have been matched for a 10-round non-title bout at The Arena, Dec. 2, Jack O'Connor announced last night. O'Connor stated that he is acting under the promoter's permit granted to the Christian Brothers' College Fathers' Club and that part of the profits from the show, if any, would be turned over to C. B. C.

It will be the second meeting between the pair, as they fought in New York in 1928, with Rosenbloom gaining the decision.

Kaplan, according to available records, has not fought much in the past two years, although he knocked out Johnny Roberts in two rounds in one bout last year and gained a decision over Babe McCorgary in another. He fought McCorgary at the Coliseum several years ago and won from the Oklahoman and also defeated Jimmy Gorry and Italian Joe Gans here.

An injured hand has handicapped Kaplan for some time, but it is said that he has entirely recovered from the ailment. In 90 bouts in the ring Kaplan has won 30 by knockouts.

This would indicate that the battle at The Arena will be a contest between a puncher and a boxer, for Rosenbloom's forte is his cleverness. That is the way he won his way to the title. Maxie has fought 130 times during his career and has won all but 13 of the bouts.

Rosenbloom was matched to box Jimmy Slattery here during the recent world series, but the bout was called off by Commissioner Seneca Taylor when it appeared that the show would be a financial failure. He has put his O. K. on Rosenbloom's bout with Kaplan.

PIVAC'S FIRST BOXING SHOW SET FOR DEC. 11

Tom Pivac, matchmaker for the Croatian Athletic Club, last night announced that he will hold his first boxing card of the 1930-31 ring season Thursday night, Dec. 11, at Croatian Hall, located on Chouteau avenue, near Fourteenth street.

Pivac, who also is a professional boxer, has several matches virtually closed. He is trying to sign Bill Trout of the Olpmpian A. C., and Dan Durso of the Croatian A. C., who recently staged a hectic battle.

A team of boxers from Fairfield, Ill., also will be pitted against local scrappers on the coming card.

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY DEFEATS STOWE, 20-0

The Lincoln University Blue Tigers of Jefferson City defeated the Stowe Teachers' College team of St. Louis in a football contest for Negro team supremacy yesterday at the Stars' Park, score, 20 to 0.

In the first quarter the Lincolnites played a loose and ragged game yet forced the Stowe team to make a safety. Both teams played an even game in the second period and neither scored while in the third quarter. Green passed to Lawson to score the first touchdown for the visitors. In the final period, which saw several substitutes used, the rivals played a hard and fast game. Baker starred for the Blue Tigers in the last period when he made a pretty 35-yard run to cross the Stowe goal line. A second touchdown was made in this period by Decker.

STILLMAN READY FOR BOUT WITH JOE LOHMAN

Al Stillman, local middleweight fighter, yesterday afternoon completed his training and reported himself in good condition for his 10-round fistic match with Joe Lohman, shifty Toledo fighter, on Jack Tippett's professional boxing program tomorrow night at the Gayety Theater. The Stillman-Lohman match is one of the four 10-round bouts arranged for the Walter Hatzfeld American Legion mitt card.

In the heavyweight bout, Jeff Carroll, sturdy Biloxi (Miss.) mauler, meets Tommy Davenport, Little Rock scrapper. They met last year in a Southern ring and the match went the limit with the honors about equally divided. Carroll, who trained at the Croatian gymnasium last week, looks impressive in his ring drills. In recent matches, he has faced Babe Hunt, Frankie Wine and Angus Snyder.

Davenport checked in yesterday afternoon and, according to his handlers, is in prime shape. He boxed Battling Bozo, promising Southerner, in his latest match, and owns a decision ocer Dave Knost on a foul.

Sammy Offerman, local lightweight, who faces Johnny Franks of Mark Tree, Ark., is in better condition than he was when he outpointed Ray Alfano, rugged East Sider, on the last Gayety card. In that bout, Offerman made a great hit with local fans. It was his first bout in his home town.

Franks, in his lone battle in the Mound City, fought Lou Terry to a standstill. He is a rough and rugged youngster who has opposed such battlers as Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, Joe Pecks, Babe Ruth, Jimmy Watts, Joe Cook and Phil McGraw.

Danny Long, Los Angeles middleweight, and Sargis Provost, a Spanish scrapjer, who is a stable mate of Carroll, completed their training yesterday with heavy workouts and are in fine trim for their match.

Stillman, who has won most of his matches on knockouts, will attempt to accomplish a feat that both John Schwake and Dave Knost failed to do. The former National A. A. U. middleweight titleholder will try to win his coming match on a knockout. Both Schwake and Knost found Lohman a tough hombre and annexed decisions on points. In the two matches the Toledo battler was going strong at the finish.

In his other pair of bouts in the Mound City, Lohman stopped Lorenzi Angelo and Bert Quin in early rounds. During his lengthy career, Joe has met more than 200 fighters, six of them being former world champions.

VENICE OVERPASS TO COST ABOUT $425,000

Grade Separation Ordered by the State Commerce Commission to Be Time Saver.

Harry F. Porter, managing director of the Industrial Bureau of the Granite City District, has announced that the Illinois Commerce Commission has issued an order providing for the separation of grades on Broadway, in Venice, where the street crosses eight railroad tracks. Broadway, through Venice, is an important link in a highway system which for many years has been the main artery of communication between St. Louis and Illinois points north and northeast as far as Chicago. U. S. Highway 66, from Chicago through St. Louis to Los Angeles, is optionally routed via Broadway and McKinley Bridge.

According to a traffic count, taken last May, over a six-day period there were approximately 10,000 vehicles each 16 hours between 7 a. m. and 11 p. m. In the same period of time, an average of 231 trains crossed, some of them consisting of 150 or more cars each, and a number of fast through trains to and from St. Louis via the Merchants' Bridge. The crossing was found to be blocked one-third of the time during the 16 hours and 44 per cent of the time during the busiest hours. When this crossing is opened, it is thought that downtown St. Louis can be made easily from the heart of Granite City in 15 minutes by motor.

The Terminal Railroad, it is said, has had to slow the movement of its trains across Broadway and its plan to have rapid transit from Illinois points to the heart of St. Louis cannot reach its full efficiency until this crossing is eliminated.

Plans to be submitted to the Illinois Commerce Commisison within 90 days will probably call for an overhead of approximately 1750 feet from the beginning to the end of the slope, on a grade of 5 per cent, extending from Market street, Madison, to McKinley avenue, Venice, with a Y on the northern end to receive the traffic from both Madison avenue and State street, the latter being the main outlet from Granite City proper. The overpass is to be constructed of structural steel and concrete, with a road surface of either asphalt or concrete, 60 feet in width overall, providing a seven-foot sidewalk on both sides, a 46-foot roadway with two tracks for the surface cars in the center.

According to the Commission's order, the cost is to be divided equally between the two railroads and the State. The railroads are to build the structure and then seek reimbursement from the State for one-third of the cost. The structure is to be completed by Dec. 31, 1931.

Industrial Aspects of St. Louis' Water Supply

Pure, Low-Cost Water Essential to Profitable Production in Nearly All Industries —Abundant in St. Louis.

Leonard A. Day, Water Commissioner of St. Louis, says the successful location of industrial plants involves consideration of the factors of both economic production and economic distribution. The five fundamental factors of production as he sees them, are raw material sources, labor, fuel, power and water resources. He has observed that an abundant supply of pure cheap water is essential to 75 per cent of all industries, and must be considered a basic factor in controlling the industrial development of any community as well as its health, population and general development.

"The City of St. Louis," Mr. Day said, "obtains its supply of water from the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers, the average combined flow of which is over 199,000,000,000 gallons per day. A source of such magnitude insures an ample supply of water for all future needs. Two independent plants, the Chain of Rocks Station on the Mississippi River and the Howard Bend Station on the Missouri River are equipped to easily supply the city with a total of 215,000,000 gallons of purified water each day. An additional 50,000,000 gallons per day could be furnished by the present plants if emergency required, and the new Howard Bend Station is so constructed that with comparatively little expense, and without interrupting operation, its capacity can be increased to 200,000,000 gallons daily. Sufficient water supply to provide for a city of 2,500,000 population will then be available from two plants, either of which could furnish enough water to tide over an emergency.

"Purification consists of grit removal; treatment with lime and iron sulphate to remove hardness, turbidity, color and bacteria; sedimentation in settling basins; recarbonization to stabilize the salts remaining in solution in the water; secondary coagulation with aluminum sulphate; filtration through mechanical rapid sand filters, and sterilization with liquid chlorine.

"The filtered water from the two plants is pumped into two gravity flow reservoirs of 185,000,000 gallons total capacity, and also directly into the service mains.

Water under pressure of 15 to 130 pounds per square inch is delivered to all parts of the city by means of an efficient distribution system consisting of more than 1150 miles of steel and cast iron mains, varying in size from three inches to 60 inches. Old mains whose flows become impeded by accretions on their interiors, are thoroughly cleaned systematically, and throughout the city during all hours of the day water flows are maintained which exceed the fire flow requirements of the National Board of Fire Insurance Underwriters.

"The St. Louis water is of exceptional purity from a bacterial standpoint—being, in fact, almost sterile. It is of sparkling clarity, agreeable to taste and constantly free from objectionable mineral matter, odors or tastes. The purity of the city water is reflected in the low general death rate of 1391 per 100,000, the exceedingly low typhoid death rate of 1.50 per 100,000 and the infant mortality of only 58 per 1000 children born, which is the lowest of any of the first 10 cities in the United States.

"The clarity of St. Louis water is equal to that of single distilled water, and its faint amber color is discernible only by comparison with distilled water, using special optical instruments. Iron, manganese, lead, copper and zinc are present in the water only in amounts less than one part per 100,000,000, and the dissolved matter amounting to 13.26 grains per gallon, consists principally of salts of calcium, magnesium and sodium. These salts are in a state of chemical stability at all temperatures below 160 degrees F., and practically no trouble is experienced from incrusted mains and meters or clogged water heaters. Nor does this water at any temperature show any marked tendency toward corrosion of cast iron, brass, copper or lead pipes, or steel boiler tubes and plates. No red water is ever experienced.

"The water is reasonably soft, its average hardness being 6.02 grains per gallon, of which 3.16 grains per gallon is sulphate or permanent hardness. Improvements now being made in the purification process are expected to give a water of only 4 to 4.5 grains of hardness.

"Further or even complete softening of the water, where required, is easily and economically accomplished by the soda ash, trisodium phosphate or zeolite filtration processes. St. Louis water treated by any of these methods is very satisfactory for boiler use, no difficulties being experienced from corrosion, abnormal scale formation, caustic embrittlement, foaming or excessive blow-off.

"The maximum temperature of the city water last year was 85 degrees F, the minimum 37 degrees F, and the average 60 degrees F. The temperature was below 60 degrees F for 210 days and below 55 degrees F for 150 days. This low average temperature is a valuable asset to industries requiring large quantities of cooling water in their processes such as steel mills and petroleum refineries.

"The bacterial purity, clarity, low color and low dissolved solids content make St. Louis water excellently suited to the manufacture of heavy chemicals, fine chemicals, pharmaceuticals, ice, soap and soft drinks. Water having such characteristics is also essential to the fur, dairy and meat packing industries.

"The freedom from iron, manganese and other heavy metals, along with its other qualities, permit the use of St. Louis water in the tanning, brewing, laundry, dye, dye intermediates, textiles, paper mills, paint pigment, corn products, toilet articles, enameling, ceramics, food chemicals (flavoring extracts, coloring and condiments), and photographic materials. These same properties make St. Louis water ideal for use in swimming pools.

"The low degree of hardness is of some advantage to practically all industries and especially desirable to such industries as canning, laundry, ice, textiles, tanning, fermentation, paper manufacture, glue manufacture, sugar refining, petroleum refining, corn products, chemical manufacture, railroads, and steam power generation.

"St. Louis water rates compare very favorably with those of any other metropolitan area when the purity and potability of the water are considered, and are actually lower than the rates of most of the cities in the Mississippi Valley. The meter rates per 100 cubic feet provided by ordinance are, first a general rate varying from 15 cents to 5 cents; second, a manufacturer's rate, varying from 10 cents to 5 cents; third, a rate of 6 cents to public schools, libraries, the Zoo and the Art Museum; fourth, a charity rate of 4½ cents to hospitals, etc., and fifth, a swimming pool rate of 3 cents. The general and manufacturing rates vary according to the quantity of water consumed. There are at present 325 consumers under the manufacturers' rate."

ROAD CONSTRUCTION ON EXTENSIVE BASIS

Cities and Counties Planning Extensive Road Programs.

One of the interesting improvements of the St. Louis industrial section is the construction and paving of county roads and State highways and the paving of city streets in the larger communities of the district.

Both the Missouri and Illinois sections of the district are featuring road and street improvements at this time, with the double purpose in view of improving transportation facilities and providing work for the unemployed.

St. Louis County is one of the latest affiliated political divisions to propose a comprehensive plan for the construction of new roads and the repaving of old ones, as well as for the expenditure of the remainder of the county's $10,000,000 road bond issue fund.

Social Events Centering About Thanksgiving

Debut Dinner Dance At St. Louis Country Club For Amelia Overall—Bridlespur to Have Hunt Breakfast.

THANKSGIVING DAY, with its traditional turkey feasts, informal teas and luncheons, recurs next Thursday, bringing with it this year not so many parties or such large ones as have been given for the past few seasons, but enough of a variety to keep the younger element of society with but few leisure hours until next week-end is over.

One of the most elaborate parties of the week will be the debut dinner dance at the St. Louis Country Club Thanksgiving eve at which Miss Amelia Overall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Overall of the Kent road, will be presented to society.

The decorations, which have not been divulged, will be kept intact for the Thanksgiving day luncheon at which various members of the club will entertain. The largest party is to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Levering Whittemore, in honor of Miss Margaret Vieths, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar H. Vieths, and Miss Louise Goddard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Goddard, popular debutantes of the season.

Bridlespur Hunt Club, rendezvous for society in and about Huntleigh Village, will have a hunt at 10 o'clock, after which the riders and their friends will return to the club for a hunt breakfast.

The Glen Echo Country Club will have its celebration Thanksgiving eve, with a cotillion patterned after parties given in the mauve decade called the Gay Nineties. There will be programs in which to book dances, after the vogue prior to "stag lines" and "cutting-in," popular with the present generation, and dinner will precede the entertainment. Invitations to the affair, sent last week to club members, have been written supposedly similar to society items appearing in the newspapers of that day, and are dated, Nov. 26, 1890. They read as follows:

"The country estate of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Echo will be the scene of a brilliant ball which will take place Wednesday night, the eve of Thanksgiving. A cotillion, led by Mr. Junior Boehmer, will open the ball, and will form with a grand march immediately after dinner. It is rumored that many lovely and exotic gifts picked up in their travels abroad will be presented to their guests. Society is looking forward to the event, which promises to be as characteristically entertaining and recherche as are all parties given by that popular couple, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Echo."

Mrs. Thomas Clive Jones and Mrs. Procter Holmes are in charge of the arrangements.

Beginning tonight, the parties for the week include a buffet supper which Miss Katherine Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard W. Boyd, will give at her home, 4470 Westminster place, for Miss Grace Jones, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McKittrick Jones.

Tomorrow night Miss Helen Kirtland Spencer, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Nelson Spencer, will be guest of honor at a theater party at which Mrs. Louis W. Crampton of the St. Regis apartments will be hostess. Later the guests will have supper at the Spencer home, 4324 McPherson avenue.

Miss Jane Perry Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Talton T. Francis, will have a dinner at her home in honor of Miss Helen Green, who will come to St. Louis to be the guest of Miss Louise Goddard.

Dr. and Mrs. Anthony B. Day have sent out invitations for a fancy dress party at their home, 107 Aberdeen place, Saturday night for their neice, Miss Anne Wyles of Chicago, sister of the hostess, and Miss Grace Jones. The cards, printed in red ink, announce the opening of a new night club, Blue Heaven, and invite the guests to appear as bootleggers, racketeer, gunman, chorus girl, gold-digger or gambler.

Next Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Richard Worsan Meade, 484 Lake avenue, will have a mixed tea in honor of Miss Jane Blackmer, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. L. Guy Blackmer.

Alliance Francaise Meeting

THE Alliance Francaise will meet Wednesday at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the Kings-Way Hotel, to hear Gaston Gille speak on the "Renaissance of Contemporary France." Mr. Gille is a lecturer at Cornell University, at Rice Institute and at the Pennsylvania French Institute.

Following the talk a tea will be given in honor of Mr. Gille, to which all members of the alliance have been invited.

Palms, ferns and white chrysanthemums decorated the chancel before which the members of the bridal party took their places. The church was lighted with cathedral candles.

The bride wore a gown of ivory bridal satin, fashioned along princess lines, with a tight-fitting bodice, long shirred sleeves and a three-yard train. Trimming the square neck were pieces of rare old rose point lace which matched the cap. The veil, an heirloom, was of rose point appliqued on net made over tulle. The bridal bouquet was of orchids, sweetheart roses and liles of the valley. The bride's only jewelry was a platinum and diamond lavalliere, the gift of the groom.

The matron of honor wore a period frock of violet shaded crepe and carried Joanna Hill roses with a ribbon shower of violets. The bridesmaids were dressed alike in orchid crepe fashioned with tight waists attache dto full skirts with circular flounces. A violet velvet bow depended from the low neckline in back to the floor. They wore long ivory gloves. Their violet velvet hats were tilted far to one side and caught around the exposed side with crushed velvet ribbon.

Simple Home Mixture Darkens Gray Hair

Cincinnati Barber Tells How Any One Can Prepare It in 5 Minutes.

Any man or woman can easily look twenty years younger by simply darkening their gray, faded, or streaky hair. This is now easy to accomplish with a recipe given by a well known Cincinnati barber. Simply take a half-pint of water, add one ounce of bay rum, ¼ ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound. Shake and it is ready to use. These ingredients can be bought at drug stores at trifling cost.

Applied to the hair twice weekly this delightful mixture quickly gives the desired shade. It is easy to use, is not sticky or greasy, will not color the scalp and does not rub off.

FIVE candles! And each of them stands for a year of vigorous, hearty living. Little Peggy Jostedt, of 3815 Ashland Ave., St. Louis, is a typical Fig Syrup baby. Here's what her mother says:

"My mother used California Fig Syrup with me, and when Peggy was a baby we decided to get some for her. It relieved her constipation immediately, sweetened her breath, made her bright and happy again.

"I have also used Fig Syrup for all her colds and upsets. It has kept her strong and vigorous. I have used it myself as a laxative, with splendid results."

For fifty years, wise mothers have been secure in the knowledge that a child's headachy, bilious, feverish or fretful spells can be quickly and safely overcome by California Fig Syrup. Physicians recommend the soothing aid of this pure vegetable product to keep the bowels clear in colds or children's ailments; or whenever unpleasant breath, coated tongue, listlessness or lack of appetite warn of constipation. California Fig Syrup helps tone and strengthen weak bowels—assist in building-up and energizing weak children.

Three Comedies

American and Shubert Offer Plays New to St. Louis This Week, While Mary Hart, at the Orpheum, Brings Back One of Last Season's Big Successes.

THEATER goers who may have complained about lack of attractions in the local theaters an have their pick of several good ntertainments, all of them comdies, by the way, this week. The merican Theater reopens tonight ith Vilma Banky and Rod La Rocque, movie stars, appearing in erson in "Cherries Are Ripe," hile Mary Hart, at the Orpheum, ffers "June Moon," which scored fine hit here last season at the hubert. Tomorrow night the latr house will have "Topaze" with rank Morgan as the star. This iece was one of the big successes New York and in Europe, too.

Neither Mr. LaRocque nor Miss anky are beginners on the legitiate stage, for the former was a ading man before he entered picures, while Miss Banky played on e stage in Budapest before comg to America. Their present vecicle is a comedy by John Emeron and Anita Loos.

Miss Banky had read the orignal Hungarian version of the play hree years ago, and, when it was ecided that she and Mr. La Rocque would grace the legitimate tage, Mr. Emerson and Miss Loos ere commissioned to construct it. From all accounts, their efforts ave met with success. "Cherries re Ripe," tells the story of a beauiful young wife, enacted by Miss Banky, married to a provincial genleman, who is actuated by jealousy oward everything about him, inluding his young wife. Upon this cene comes a former admirer of he wife, a Baron, played by Mr. La Rocque. Echoes of the past arry through a series of highly ophisticated situations.

"TOPAZE," at the Shubert, it may be remarked, is not a jewel or a mineral but the ognomen of a perfectly adorable cholastic who bears the name of Prof. Albert Topaze.

"Topaze," in a uniquely satirical ashion, concerns itself with a deent, slightly abashed schoolmaster who, in the beginning, endeavors o inculcate into his more than lightly recalcitrant charges such of the simpler virtues as are represented by wall mottoes reading "Honesty is the best policy."

Despite the fact that he is offered the opportunity of achieving his sole ambition, that of the deree of Doctor of Moral Philosophy, he refuses to falsify the report card of one of his most stupid pupils because of his strict code of ethics and finds himself ignominiously dismissed, without a means of livelihood.

Going to the home of one of his rivate pupils, this simple, guileess tutor is drawn into a maze of political graft and intrigue, in which he acts as the trusting cat's-paw. From that point on, the plot akes such odd twists and the ansformation of his character is so unique that it provides a continuous succession of wholesome laughs.

Frank Morgan's portrayal in "Topaze" has been widely heralded as an excellent one, played with deft touches and unfailing zest from beginning to end. The New York cast comes here intact, with Catherine Willard and Clarence Derwent, two thespians who, while almost strangers here, have international reputations; then there are our Harry Davenport, Essex Dane, Nicholas Joy, Stapleton Kent, together with Harry Plimmer, Barbara Barondess, Fanny Davenport—niece of the famous Fanny Davenport—Claire Stange, Frank Peters, Freddie Stange, Joseph McGarrity, Harry Murray and James McGuire.

DOWN at the Orpheum, Mary Hart's players, with the help of two new guest artists, tonight open a two weeks' engagement of Ring Lardner's and George S. Kaufman's highly entertaining comedy romance "June Moon."

The two new guest players are Monroe Purcell, brother of Charlie, the musical comedy favorite, and Kenneth Burton. Two guest stars of "The Command to Love," both of whom scored such hits during the past two weeks, will remain for the "June Moon" engagement. They are Beverly Bayne and Shirley Booth.

The co-authors of this brilliant comedy are well known for their writings. Lardner is famous for his "You Know Me, Al" comic strip and other syndicated articles, while George Kaufman, who in addition to having been dramatic editor of the New York Times, has contributed more smash hits along Broadway in the last six years than almost all the other playwrights combined.

"June Moon" is the story of a young man from Schenectady who believes he is endowed to write lyrics for popular songs and goes to New York to carve his fortune. There he meets another chap who thinks he can turn out popular music and the two team up. The serious and naive manner of the boy aspirant for lyric honors, and the hard-boiled people who come

"TOPAZE," at the Shubert, it may be remarked, is not a jewel or a mineral but the cognomen of a perfectly adorable scholastic who bears the name of Prof. Albert Topaze.

"Topaze," in a uniquely satirical fashion, concerns itself with a decent, slightly abashed schoolmaster who, in the beginning, endeavors to inculcate into his more than slightly recalcitrant charges such of the simpler virtues as are represented by wall mottoes reading "Honesty is the best policy."

Despite the fact that he is offered the opportunity of achieving his sole ambition, that of the degree of Doctor of Moral Philosophy, he refuses to falsify the report card of one of his most stupid pupils because of his strict code of ethics and finds himself ignominiously dismissed, without a means of livelihood.

Going to the home of one of his private pupils, this simple, guileless tutor is drawn into a maze of political graft and intrigue, in which he acts as the trusting cat's-paw. From that point on, the plot takes such odd twists and the transformation of his character is so unique that it provides a continuous succession of wholesome laughs.

Frank Morgan's portrayal in "Topaze" has been widely heralded as an excellent one, played with deft touches and unfailing zest from beginning to end. The New York cast comes here intact, with Catherine Willard and Clarence Derwent, two thespians who, while almost strangers here, have international reputations; then there are our Harry Davenport, Essex Dane, Nicholas Joy, Stapleton Kent, together with Harry Plimmer, Barbara Barondess, Fanny Davenport —niece of the famous Fanny Davenport—Claire Stange, Frank Peters, Freddie Stange, Joseph McGarrity, Harry Murray and James McGuire.

DOWN at the Orpheum, Mary Hart's players, with the help of two new guest artists, tonight open a two weeks' engagement of Ring Lardner's and George S. Kaufman's highly entertaining comedy romance "June Moon."

The two new guest players are Monroe Purcell, brother of Charlie, the musical comedy favorite, and Kenneth Burton. Two guest stars of "The Command to Love," both of whom scored such hits during the past two weeks, will remain for the "June Moon" engagement. They are Beverly Bayne and Shirley Booth.

The co-authors of this brilliant comedy are well known for their writings. Lardner is famous for his "You Know Me, Al" comic strip and other syndicated articles, while George Kaufman, who in addition to having been dramatic editor of the New York Times, has contributed more smash hits along Broadway in the last six years than almost all the other playwrights combined.

"June Moon" is the story of a young man from Schenectady who believes he is endowed to write lyrics for popular songs and goes to New York to carve his fortune. There he meets another chap who thinks he can turn out popular music and the two team up. The serious and naive manner of the boy aspirant for lyric honors, and the hard-boiled people who come in contact with him, furnish the fun.

Members of the resident cast in "June Moon" include Arthur Pierson and Marian Sterly, Willard Robertson, Philip Lord and Louis Tanno. Purcell plays the role of Maxie, a nonchalent piano pounder. The popular Pierre Watkin is cast in the part of the song writer who befriends the boy when he lands in New York.

"YOUNG SINNERS," Elmer Harris' new comedy, now winding up an engagement in Chicago, following an extended and prosperous engagement on Broadway, has been booked for the Shubert for the week commencing next Sunday, Nov. 30.

Also starting next Sunday night will be "The House of Fear," a mystery play, which comes to the American Theater after 16 weeks' engagement at The Playhouse, Chicago.

This will mark Stone's first appearance here in three years. His daughter, Dorothy, is co-starred in this production.

THE STAGE VS. THE SCREEN

By Rod LaRocque

Rod LaRocque and Vilma Banky—who is Mrs. LaRocque—who are at the American Theater this week, have long been favorites of movie audiences the world over. They were however, actors of ability on the legitimate stage before they began making pictures, and they are now returning to their first love. Mr. LaRocque, in this article written for the Post-Dispatch, sketches a comparison of the two arts.

WHEN I returned from Hollywood to New York to enter on rehearsals for "Cherries Are Ripe," I was asked quite frequently how I compared the stage and the screen as fields in which to practice the arts of Thespis. Or more plainly, did I prefer the legitimate theater, to which I was returning, to moving pictures, from whence I had come, as the favored playground for my profession—if either is a playground, I should hate to see their workshop. I suppose that I should have had a glib answer on the tip of my tongue and my conclusions already formulated, inasmuch as I had had several seasons' experience on the stage prior to embarking on the picture career which has held me these last seven years. Fact of the matter is, though, that I have never before attempted to analyze the matter in black on white and so, the pros and cons of the case will be set down before you, extemporaneously, just as they occur to me.

When the layman goes in search of employment, he is very apt to ask, "What are the hours?" When an actor is informed that he has been engaged for a part, his query is, "How long will the job last?" In pictures, before one has attained sufficient prominence to be awarded a contract, the "how long will it last" attitude is answered in terms of days. On the stage, it is generally estimated in weeks, although there are always a certain number of Broadway plays which open and close with the alarming rapidity of a morning glory. When one is under contract, either to a New York producer or to any of the larger film organizations, there are certain stretches, during which one will work approximately 24 hours of the day, for the extent of that particular tour of duty.

TO cite comparative examples, when one begins the preliminary preparations for a legitimate attraction, it is understood that one must become letter-perfect in lines and interpretation of a role within a limited period of time, usually four weeks. In pictures, an entire production may be "in the can" in the same time but needless to say, there are equally few leisure hours for the actor during the rehearsal of a play or the consummation of a motion picture. In New York, one is called for rehearsal at 10 in the morning and from then until the smaller and more wee hours of the morning after, one is very much in and of the theater. In Hollywood, the same situation prevails, particularly in this day of sound pictures, which, for a large part, are "shot" at night.

Comparing the two environments, I find that the legitimate has the bulge over the films on one count, at least. After the rehearsal period for a play has been complete, IF the play be successful, one is able to settle down to a routine of eight performances a week, with but a few hours a day in the theater, leaving ample time for the pursuit of such arts or sports as may strike the fancy. In Hollywood, the rigorous life never lets up.

I think that I may safely nominate the theater of the ancients over the movies of the moderns as offering, in my opinion, broader scope to the artist for the display of histrionic talents. The gentle art of acting, by its very nature, must allow itself to be subjective to the modulations of a living, pulsating audience, rather than being subjected to the necessity of drawing artificial stimulus from the soul of the actor.

A MAN may register emotions before the cold, relentless eye of the camera but the fallacy which ultimately dulls the artistic end desired, lies in the very fact that such emotions are "registered" and do not spring from a feeling of transmigrant spiritual contact such as an audience provides. From this condition has grown what is known as "movie technique," an execution which, viewed through the dispassionately critical eye of one well versed in the lore of the stage, becomes woodenly rigid and unresponsive to audience reaction. I myself find that I feel much more pliant when my senses tell my mind immediately and definitely that any emotional phase which I am seeking to project has—or has not—touched the proper chord in the people to whom I am playing. Fan mail, while very gratifying and appreciated, does not let one know until months after that the scene was good or bad.

It is generally understood that motion picture salaries are large enough to more than compensate for the drudgery entailed in earning them. Allow me to get out my own pencil and be statistical for a moment. Let's see. Suppose that an actor is receiving $3500 a week in pictures. He will work seven days, a minimum of 12 hours a day, thus netting about $42 an hour. On the stage, the proportionate salary will be about $1000 weekly. But for this wage, our man will work the above mentioned eight performances, or about 16 hours a week, and the hourly income would seem to be $62.50. A picture is made in from four to five weeks. The play, perhaps, will run a season.

And so, economist reader, behold! Surely $1000 a week for 40 weeks is more profitable than $3500 for 10! In conclusion, we seem to find that even the money, the alleged charm of working in pictures, is more apparent than real. However, if one were to receive one-quarter of one per cent royalty on a picture, that would be different!

Linking Four Stage Families

HARRY DAVENPORT, who is accredited with giving a fine characterization of the old man Tamise in support of Frank Morgan in "Topaze," which comes to the Shubert tonight, is one of the last links in the great matrimonial chain which held four most representative families of actors in one big fraternal group—the Davenports, the Rankins, the Drews and the Barrymores.

And this is how it happened:

McKee Rankin, one of the best and most virile actors of his day, and his wife, Kitty Blanchard, had three daughters: Phylis, Gladys and Doris; Phylis married Harry Davenport, and their daughter, called after her illustrious aunt, Fanny Davenport, is a member of the "Topaze" company.

Glayds married Sydney White, an adopted son of Mrs. John Drew and supposed brother of John Drew, who became professionally known as Sydney Drew. Doris married Lionel Barrymore, brother of Ethel and John Barrymore. Thus the four families became united by marriage, Rankin-Davenport-Drew-Barrymore. It is something of a coincidence that Harry Davenport and his daughter should follow Ethel Barrymore so closely at the Shubert.

Claire Dux to Sing With the Symphony In Coming Concerts

CLAIRE DUX, who retired from opera and concert stage upon her marriage to Charles H. Swift of Chicago, makes one of the few concert appearances she has permitted herself since that time when she is soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra at its concerts at the Odeon, Dec. 5 and 6. There are no symphony concerts this week.

Mme. Dux will sing the Mozart aria "Deh vieni non tardar" and a group of Strauss songs: "Freundliche Vision," "Standchen" and "Morgen." Her appearance is on a program which presents also Wagner's overture to "The Flying Dutchman," and Beethoven's Second symphony, which St. Louis has not heard in years. There are also three spirited pieces of Spanish music on that program. The intermezzo to "Goyescas" and a Randalla by Granados, and Albeniz's "Catalonia."

The Symphony Society announces an award of a box each at the Students' Concerts to the John Pitman School of the Kirkwood district and the Home Heights School in the Overland district, each of which led in the sale of seats for those concerts in their respective districts.

St. Luke's Players.

Tonight at the Shubert Theater the St. Luke's Players will present the comedy, "Your Uncle Dudley," with Warren Carroll in the title role. Others in the cast will be Nona Mae Schulze, Louise Bawn, Helen McEvoy, Lee Oetter, Catherine Kersens, Frank McDonough and Joe Kenney.

Mexican Tipica Orchestra in a Concert Tuesday

JUAN TORREBLANCA'S Tipica Orchestra of Mexico, to be heard at the Odeon Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Civic Music League, will provide the musical novelty of the season. Torreblanca has arranged a program made up chiefly of native composers and in addition to what the orchestra provides, there will be a generous sprinkling of Mexico's leading soloists: Senora Maria Romero, soprano; Jose de Arriata, tenor of the Mexican Grand Opera Company; the Trovadores del Bajio, male quartet, and the Charros Mexicanos, marimbists.

The first appearance in this country of Senor Torreblanca was in 1915, when he presented his orchestra at the San Francisco Exposition, where he won the gold medal for the best musical attraction there. This was the forerunner of an American tour, preceded by one to South America, where many honors were bestowed upon him.

Hard Luck for New African Hunt Film

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 22.

Nearly all the scenes of a film taken in Africa were found to be light struck when the company returned. So it became necessary to refilm most of it and to restage many of the wild animal shots.

Pumas, lions and other beasts of the jungle, imported for the occasion, were assembled at an isolated spot in Mexico, in a large enclosure lined with "prop" trees. Cameras were turned on them when they were released from their cages.

The animals that were supposed to fight merely looked at each other and walked away.

Experts are trying to devise ways to make them stage a battle.

Dramatic League Meeting.

The Dramatic League of St. Louis announces its third monthly meeting in the Crystal room at the Jefferson Hotel, tomorrow night. At this meeting, Little Theater of Washington University will present "The Last Pardon," a play written and directed by members of the group.

Scholarship Fund Benefit.

The Alumni Association of the Morse School of Expression will sponsor an entertainment of the Toy Theater Players, an organization of the graduates of the school, in the English comedy, "The Mollusc," by Henry Davies. This is to be given for the benefit of their scholarship fund on Dec. 2.

Doug Talking

Fairbanks Not Ready to Follow Chaplin Back Into the Silent Films—Several Wars Going On—Berlin as a Director—Jolson Back to Stage.

ST. LOUIS is not the only city in which the movie people are having their troubles. Here the bout between the musicians and the cinema houses drags along and several Eastern towns are going through the same thing. Out in Hollywood declarations of war, in the form of publicity stories, are hovering over the celluloidal horizon. All at this writing seems quiet on the United Artists front, in the recently announced bellum with Fox Theaters. Doubtless their forces are mobilizing. And when you think of it, the ranks U. A. contain many veterans. Mary Pickford was an honorary colonel of some regiment or other during the World War. Bebe Daniels now occupies the same honorary position with a pursuit squadron at San Diego. Ronald Colman won his spurs or tartans or something with the London British Scottish overseas. And Chaplin is admittedly a veteran in marital (if not martial) affairs. Meanwhile, the great army of no occupation in Hollywood is marking time and wondering if wars really do stimulate employment.

And Clara Bow, heaven's gift to headline writers, is at the moment in the throes of a front page quarrel with her ex-secretary. Not that it matters. It's just one it-eration after another. Wouldn't you like to see Aimee and Clara in a sister act?

REFERENCE having been made in these columns last Sunday to Charlie Chaplin's coming silent picture, "City Lights," it is now reported that the film is finished and, about the middle of next month, the star will set off for Europe. The world premier of the new Chaplin picture will not take place, however, until New Year's eve, when it will get the first showing in a Los Angeles theater.

Minus talk but with sounds and music, "City Lights" is now being titled and edited. Among the supporting cast are Virginia Cherrill, 19-year-old Chicago girl, and Harry Myers.

The European journey, Mr. Chaplin's first in some years, is in the nature of a vacation and a nostalgic return to the scenes of youth. Also the trip will help boost "City Lights" on the other side of the Atlantic, where, being without words, it will have a big edge on other American-made films.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, who threatened for a while to follow Chaplin's lead and stick to the non-conversational drama, is not ready, quite yet, to throw out sound. He, like every one else in the industry, is anxiously waiting the Chaplin opus to see how it will be received at the box offices around the world. In the meantime Doug, minus the trappings and holas of D'Artagnan, Robin Hood and such gentry with whom he peopled his silent screen career, is preparing for "Reaching for the Moon," in which he will appear as a 1931 stockbroker, a wealthy, aggressive American business prince. It will be the first appearance in modern clothes on the screen in some years.

Bebe Daniels, who scored a screen "comeback" in "Rio Rita," and revealed a soprano singing voice, has the leading feminine role in "Reaching for the Moon." And, oddly enough, it is the same young man who played opposite Miss Daniels in "You Never Can Tell," her first starring film, who upholds the romantic interest with her in this picture, Jack Mulhall.

The entire production represents the debut in active film production work of Irving Berlin, who has composed songs and sketches for motion picture productions before but who now emerges as a production executive with a canvas chair on which his name is inscribed, a megaphone (if he cares to use it, which nobody does in these days of sound tracks) and the right to wear puttees and demand the conventional number of ayes in the Hollywood tradition.

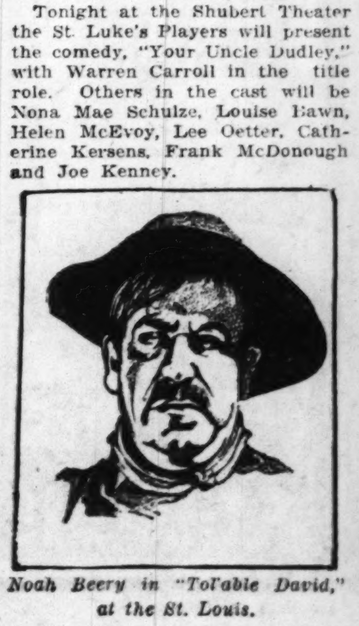
MARY PICKFORD, by the way, is said to have abandoned her idea of returning to the stage and she, like her husband, is at work on a new picture. Colleen Moore, whose trying times with a terrible stage play a week or so ago drove her to a sanitarium for a rest, is going back to Hollywood and the screens but Rod LaRocque and Vilma Banky—they are in town this week at the American Theater—are finding life on the boards very pleasant.

Then there is Al Jolson, who led the parade of stage stars into the talkies. Jolson is going back to the stage as the star of a new musical show, according to an announcement in New York the other day.

The blackface comedian has not played in musical comedy on Broadway since his first audible movie, "The Jazz Singer," which was produced in 1927.

John Wayne in "The Big Trail," at the Fox Theater.

Joe E. Brown in "The Lottery Bride," at Loew's.



Noah Beery in "Tol'able David," at the St. Louis.

George Bancroft in "Derelict," at the Missouri.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE.

HARRY HERSHFIELD has added something else again to many accomplishments. A cartoonist, columnist, all around wit, after dinner speaker, radio star and vaudevillian, he has just authored a book, "Super City," which is as racy a tale about New York as one would want on a wintry night.

Another book that wins my hearty huzzah is "Sins of New York," by Edward Van Every. Mr. Van Every, a capable newspaper man, permits copies of the Police Gazette, beginning with its first issue, to tell the entire story. The pictures are those marvelous black and whites familiar to old Gazette readers. When the Gazette turned pink so does the book. Stokes is the publisher and it is all grand fun.

THREE CONVICTED OF ROBBERY LAST WEEK

Five Others, Charged With Major Crimes, Pleaded Guilty and Were Sentenced.

Three robbers were convicted and sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary last week in the criminal divisions of the Circuit Court. Two were found guilty by juries when their alibis failed, and a third, a Negro, entered a plea of guilty. All were prosecuted under the Henry law, which fixes minimum punishment of 10 years' penal servitude for persons found guilty of having committed robbery with a deadly and dangerous weapon.

Those convicted were Dale Harrison, Frank Degnan and Walter Jones, a Negro. Harrison and Degnan interposed alibis as a defense. In each case a jury refused to believe their witnesses. In the Harrison case four witnesses were arrested, suspected of perjury. Mrs. May Hall of Carmi, Ill., mother of Harrison, his sister, Mrs. Gladys Politte of 218 West Hancock avenue, St. Louis County, Elam Hall, the defendant's stepfather, and a friend. Mrs. Stella Franklin of 611 Marion street, were ordered held. The mother and sister were arrested near the court room after the verdict was read, but Hall and Mrs. Franklin have not yet been apprehended. All are sought for questioning.

Harrison was found guilty of robbing Frank W. Werner, a driver for the Pevely Dairy Co. Members of Harrison's family testified that at the time of the robbery Harrison was driving them to St. Louis from Carmi, Ill. Mrs. Franklin corroborated their testimony.

A perjury warrant was issued for John B. Sullivan, who gave alibi testimony for Gorman Craig, convicted of attempted robbery. Sullivan admitted, according to police, that he framed the testimony and induced others to say that Craig was at a party rather than at the scene of the crime.

Others charged with major crime who entered pleas of guilty and received penitentiary punishment are: Andrew Bradley, burglary, 2 years; Michael McDonald, 3 years, commuted to Boonville and paroled from the bench; Andrew Aberle, forgery, 2 years; Arthur Black, larceny of motor vehicle, 2 years, commuted to Boonville and paroled, and Raymond Terrell, larceny of a motor vehicle, 4 years, with a concurrent 2-year term for driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Persons charged with major crimes who were permitted to plead guilty to offenses of lesser degree and take less than penitentiary punishment were: Theodore Stankiewicz, assault to kill without malice, $100 and costs; Amos Johnson, petit larceny, 9 months in workhouse; Frank Fox, carrying a concealed weapon, 50 lay in jail; H. A. Winkler, forgery in the fourth degree, 6 months in workhouse; Elmer Robnett, petit larceny, 6 months in workhouse; Peter Gulin, possession of gaming device, $100 and costs; Paul Thomas, carrying a concealed weapon, 50 days in jail; Melvin Burke, petit larceny, 6 months in workhouse; William Knirihn, driving motor vehicle while intoxicated, $100 costs, stayed on costs, and Robert Page, larceny from person, 6 months in workhouse. Charges of robbery against Arthur Alexander and burglary against William Ahlert were dismissed. Ahlert is serving time for another offense and there was insufficient evidence to sustain the charge against Alexander.

Garages Under Ground Planned In Michigan City

Bond Issue of $7,500,000 Considered by Council in Detroit.

By CHRIS SINSABAUGH.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 22.—Proving ground for so many of the nation's motor cars, this vicinity now seems destined to become the proving ground for an idea that may vitally affect their use. That is the implication in the request this week for the Detroit City Council's approval of a $7,500,000 bond issue to construct underground parking areas for automobiles.

Four underground garages are proposed, to provide short-time parking space for 12,000 to 18,000 vehicles in the shopping district of the city. The four contemplated sites are under Cadillac Square, Grand Circus Park, Washington boulevard and Madison avenue.

By way of testing the theory that this is a way of disposing of the downtown parking problem, it is proposed that the Cadillac Square garage be built first. It is this square on which the City Hall is located. The cost of building this proposed garage is estimated at $1,500,000. A daily revenue of $856, netting a $26,000 profit on a 300-day year, which would retire the bonds issued to cover construction within 10 years, is predicted by advocates of the idea.

A feature of the plan is a proposal to build tunnels for pedestrians under the sidewalk and fronting on the proposed storage areas. These tunnels would provide subterranean entrances to shops and buildings in the downtown district, thus further reducing surface congestion.

An elaborate conveyor system, such as is used in motor car factories, is proposed as the method of handling the cars to be stored in such underground garages. This not only would increase efficiency, but reduce the cost of such structures by obviating the need of an elaborate ventilation system.

Chevrolet, Fisher Plants in St. Louis Expanding Forces

Expect to Employ 4500 by Dec. 1, Regional Sales Manager Gilpin Says.

Workers are being recalled to the plants of the Chevrolet Motor Co. and the Fisher Body Corporation in St. Louis as rapidly as production of the new Chevrolets can be speeded up to make room for them. Both plants are expected to be working at normal production speed by Jan. 1, it is announced by A. W. L. Gilpin, regional sales manager. Employes who were laid off during the summer and early fall are being put at work first.

Gilpin said that the two plants, which normally employ about 6000, should be working at three-quarters capacity by Dec. 1, which will mean a force of some 4500 men. He said also that the plants have been unable thus far to fill orders for new Chevrolets as fast as received, because of the time required to get the employes working at highest efficiency as there have been so many improvements in the bodies.

Wages in both plants are being maintained, Gilpin stating that the minimum for workmen in the factories is 42 cents an hour. A few superanuated or partly incapacitated employes are being paid 35 cents an hour. The average for workmen is 55 cents an hour, semi-skilled men averaging 77 cents, while top pay is 90 cents in the

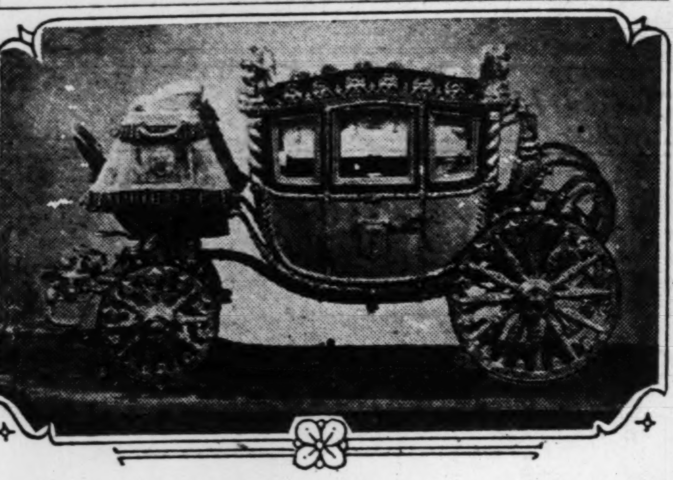
Studebaker Built for Special Sound Film Is World's Largest Car

An unusual sound picture entitled "Wild Flowers" has been produced at the Studebaker Proving Ground. Featured in the picture is the radio orchestra, the "Studebaker Champions," as well as "the world's largest automobile," built to commemorate the second anniversary of the 30,000-mile run in four President Eights, which established many world and international records. The giant car is a replica of the new free wheeling President Eight roadster, and has 15½ times the capacity of the normal car.

The giant President Eight roadster which appears in the picture was constructed in Studebaker's engineering laboratories. It is 41 feet long, has a wheelbase of 325 inches and is 13½ feet high, 15 feet wide, and weights 5½ tons. Each wheel, six feet eight inches in diameter, weighs 600 pounds.

After serving as a "prop" for the sound film, the big car was torn down and reassembled on a high knoll at the Studebaker Proving Ground overlooking U. S. Highway No. 20. Daily thousands of passing motorists view it and marvel at its tremendous size.

Model for Boy Craftsmen



This replica of a Napoleonic coach represents four $5000 university scholarships of four years each and other substantial awards for boys of this country who have joined the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild. The awards are for the boys who display the best craftsmanship in constructing this miniature model coach. Plans furnished call for a coach model 18 inches long, six inches wide and eight inches high.

Ignore Amber-Colored Lights.

The use of the amber light in automatic traffic control signals may be discarded in Columbus, O. According to the police, the use of the amber light only means continued violation of the traffic signals by many motorists who refuse to bring their cars to a stop, in anticipation of change of signals to the red light. They also take advantage of the amber signal to start their cars before the green light is flashed.

15,000 Smiths Drive Buick Autos

There are more Smiths in the country than any other family. There are more Smiths driving Buicks than any other family.

Of the 1,500,000 Buicks on the highways, about 15,000, or 1 per cent of them, are driven by members of the Smith family, according to the records of the Buick factory. Mr. and Mrs. Jones are in second place with 9000, followed by the Browns with some 6000 Buick sedans, coupes, roadsters and coaches.

Run Millions of Miles.

More than 8,631,000 miles are covered daily by motor vehicles on State highways in Pennsylvania. Allowing 35,000 miles as the average life of a car, this means that nearly 247 cars are worn out daily on the main roads of Pennsylvania.

Puncture-Proof Tires Help Protect Money Car From the Bandits

Dependable automobile tire equipment is of extreme importance wherever high speed and danger are encountered, according to E. R. Kenner, manager of Goodrich Silvertown, Inc., in St. Louis, who has just received some interesting photographs from Agua Caliente, Mexico.

"In the transportation of money there is usually necessity for speed and always danger of lawlessness. The larger the amount of money being transported, the longer the distance and the more dangerous the territory, the greater is the necessity for reliable tires and tubes.

"In taking money from Agua Caliente, near Tijuana, Mexico, which is one of the most pretentious gambling casinos in the world, elimination of danger from lawlessness and tire trouble is accomplished by the use of armored motor equipment mounted on Goodrich Silvertown tires and Goodrich air containers, the puncture-sealing inner tubes.

"The deaths of two guards in a holdup of an open touring car on the bandit-infested highways between Tijuana and San Diego, Cal., prompted the Bank of Italy to purchase this new and dependable equipment.

"In over 20,000 miles of operation on hot highways under maximum speed the truck has never been delayed."

New Chris-Craft Line Of Family Cruisers

A new line of comfortable, moderately-priced family cruisers is about to be brought out by the Chris-Craft Corporation, for which the Schneider Nash Sales and Service, Neosho street at South Kingshighway, is distributer locally.

The new boats are to be of a modified V-bottom type, and the hulls will be finished with paint instead of varnish. Reports indicate that they will have sleeping accommodations for four to six persons, depending on the model.

Features New In Low Price Field On 1931 Chevrolets

Bodies Noticeably Roomier—Special Pains Taken to Prevent Squeaks Developing.

"Thousands of people who thronged showrooms throughout the country last week to get their first view of the new 1931 Chevrolet commented particularly upon the features new to the low-priced field in the current line of Fisher-Chevrolet bodies," C. E. O'Meara, zone sales manager, reports.

"First remarked among the new features are the increased size and roominess made possible by the longer wheelbase, while numerous other changes not obvious to the eye combine to make the bodies stronger, more rigid, and as completely squeak-proof as human ingenuity can devise.

"A surprising amount of handwork goes into every body in the new Chevrolet series. In the application of the exterior finish, alone, 22 individual steps have to be taken along the line, ranging from the cleaning of the metal with an acid solution on through the glazing and wet-sanding operations, the dry-sanding and application of a mist coat, to the final ducoing, touching up and striping.

"The combination steel-and-hardwood method of body construction, the most durable and desirable known to the industry, is continued, although with important changes at vital points.

"The new roof construction, for example, is now a separate assembly known as the slat-and-bow type, the strongest known to the industry. The bows, instead of being steam bent, are cut to shape so that they will retain their shape indefinitely. Double steel braces, easily accessible for servicing, replace the wood strainers formerly used along the sides of the roof, and strong steel braces are now used at the corners to add to the roof rigidity. The roof structure is thoroughly padded to prevent drumming, and is covered with a material consisting of two layers of fabric bound by an inner layer of rubber.

"Anti-squeak material, in liquid, rubber dough or friction form, is used between all steel braces and their respective wood parts and insulating material wherever wood touches metal."

"Exclusive patent rights just obtained by the Fisher Body Corporation for a new type of spring never before used in automobile seat construction, assure greater comfort for the passengers. The coils of these springs are larger, with strips of burlap running lengthwise to separate the rows of coils.

"In the sedan, 32 coil springs make the front seat unusually resilient, and 45 coils are in the rear seat, nine more than in the 1930 models. Over the springs is placed a thick layer of padding unusually durable and soft. The upholstery cloth is piped with another layer of padding, and the seats are trimmed with a 'Turkish' front, with tufts and buttons ranged along the front side of the cushion, a style of trim which adds much to the tailored beauty of the interior.

"For the greater protection of front seat passengers, a layer of jute or felt is vulcanized, this year, to the rubber floor mats and an insulated pad covers the entire dash to keep out heat or cold and add to quietness. The mat in the rear compartments of the coach and sedans are a round wire tapestry type of great durability, and in the sport sedan the carpet has a high wool content with a new mottled pattern.

"Option of broadcloth or mohair upholstery trimming is provided with every closed body in the new Fisher line. Curtains on all bodies have a high luster, and curtain tassels are provided in the special sedan and sport coupe.

"All interior hardware has been newly designed and beautified. Exterior handles have the Protectalok feature which foils the would-be thief. Doors are locked from the inside simply by lifting the door handle.

"Dome lights come with the coach, sedans and sport coupes. A highly polished robe rail is found in the sedan, while a silk cord type is used in the special sedan. Foot rests, comfortably located in all sedans and the coach, are regulated from the front seat adjuster."

Four New Arvin Hot Water Heaters Ready For Winter Season

Four hot-water heaters have been perfected by the Arvin engineering staff for the 1930-31 winter season—a standard model for large cars; a junior for medium and small cars; one for Model A Ford cars, a floor model for sedans and limousines. Hot water flows from the motor through the radiator of the heater, and a fan forces warm air to circulate through the car.

An outstanding feature, externally, is the chromium plated deflector front, by which heat may be deflected in any direction desired. All Arvins have a six-volt motor operating a six-blade fan, and using about the same amount of current as a head lamp. All models have a shut-off valve which discontinues the heat during the summer. In warm weather, the fan alone may be operated as a ventilator.

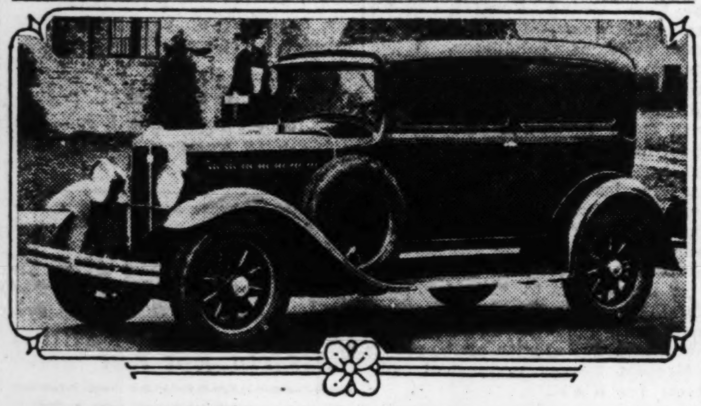
A striking custom touch is the use of coach sill in this Cadillac V-16 phaeton. Fleetwood has used two shades of green for exterior colors, with leather upholstery and piping to match. Wheel spokes and hood ports are chromium plated. The secondary windshield drops into the back of the front seat. The tonneau has chronograph and speedometer.

Studebaker's New Delivery Car



The new Studebaker boulevard delivery car. It has 70 H. P. engine, wide side doors, two folding, adjustable coach-type seats in leather fabric and a wide door at the rear. The interior is in natural wood and lighted by a dome light.

Dodge Marathon Car Has Run 50,750 Miles; Starts on Seventh Trip

All the 48 states and the District of Columbia, including 408 important cities and towns, have been visited by the Dodge Mileage Marathon Car since it started its dependability run on July 1.

The car completed its seventh and longest trip across the continent on Nov. 7. The compilation cities and towns does not take into consideration the hundreds of villages and hamlets through which the Marathon Car has passed. Nor does it take into account the fact that of the 408 different cities and towns which were counted only once in this figure many cities like New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Detroit and a score of smaller ones, have been visited several times. If all second, third and fourth visits were counted the total would be several times 408.

In the 129 days of driving since the start of this test of a motor car's stamina, the Marathon Car has run more than 50,750 miles.

The eighth trip will take it into the South, by a circular route through Iowa, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, South Carolina and Georgia, returning North through Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

Marmon Shipments Again Increase Over Same Month in 1929

George C. Tenney, Marmon general sales director, reports that for the second consecutive month shipments of Marmon cars have exceeded those in the corresponding month of 1929.

Total Marmon shipments in October, both domestic and foreign, were 14 per cent ahead of last year. The total for September and October showed a substantial gain over the same two months of 1929. Domestic shipments alone were 24 per cent ahead of last year. Indications, according to Tenney, are that Marmon business for the final four months of this year will fully equal, and may exceed, last year's total.

"One of the most encouraging factors in the present situation is that there is a healthy demand for the higher-priced models in the Marmon line," Tenney said. "Marmon big eight and eight-79 models, both selling in the higher-price classifications, are moving well. This business, of course, is in addition to shipments of our eight-69 and Marmon-Roosevelt models in the medium and popular price classifications."

School for Service Managers Started By St. Louis Dealers

A school for service managers has been established by the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association with a six months' course. One of the principal items in the curriculum is the study of psychology—the psychology of meeting customers, pleasing customers, advising customers pleasantly and sending customers away satisfied.

An enrollment of 60 service managers, representing that many firms, has been obtained by Robert E. Lee, manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association. The school opened at the Hadley-Crow Vocational School, Channing and Bell avenues, on Wednesday with 100 per cent attendance.

The teaching staff for this new and rather unusual activity in the automobile industry is furnished by the St. Louis public school system and is partly under the supervision of the Federal Educational Department. The classes will be under direct charge of Kenneth J. Weber, well trained automobile man, who is connected with the Vocational Educational Department of the St. Louis public schools. The class meetings of the service managers will be held every two weeks.

Employes of the two plants who are in distress as a result of being laid off are being cared for at the companies' expense. Two social workers report their needs to the officials. Gilpin said that this had cost the companies a large sum in addition to contributions to the Community Fund.

In 1929, the Chevrolet and Fisher plants spent a total of $24,000,000 in St. Louis, Gilpin said. This included $8,164,000 for wages and $14,287,000 for freight and express paid in this city. The sum of $1,332,000 was spent in St. Lois for various commodities.

Briggs Nash Adds Used And Demonstrating Car Department on Gravois

Briggs Nash, a Nash dealer at 5630 Gravois, has just added a used car demonstrating department at 5617 Gravois. A special group of salesmen have been assigned to this new department, which is across the street from the main store and service headquarters.

The Briggs Nash Co. maintains a 24-hour service, and its mechanics are all bonded.

Olds-Viking Plants Make Money of Waste

The Oldsmobile-Viking factories, through a recently adopted system to salvage waste, have not only saved money but also have improved working conditions.

All waste is carefully sorted, giving employment to a number of men. Such as is combustible is consumed in a new incinerator, consisting of firebox and boiler, and as much as 90,000 pounds of this waste material has been converted into profitable heat units in a week.

In addition to this practically free steam, the waste brings other revenue through the careful sorting. Much salable material is recovered from the waste and disposed of at a profit.

Miller Says Auto Industry Sets Pace Toward Recovery

The automobile industry will be the first to recover from the business depression, says L. A. Miller, president of the Willys-Overland Co. He also points out that the activities of practically all automobile manufacturers anticipate restoration of normal business early in 1931.

"Practically all automobile manufacturers are gradually increasing their working forces," he notes. "Stocks of new and used cars have been so greatly reduced that there is now no inventory handicap.

The detour on the St. Charles Rock road, part of U. S. Route No. 40, has been eliminated.

Hudson and Essex 1931 Models Will Be Displayed Wednesday

The new Hudson and Essex models were shown to dealers the past week by the Hudson-Frampton Motor Co., distributer, and will be displayed for the public Wednesday, Nov. 26, by the Hudson-Frampton Co. and its dealers throughout the St. Louis district.

The Hudson Motor Car Co. has added another 1000 men to its working force, making an additional 3500 men put to work in the past three weeks in line with this policy to afford immediate employment to as large a force of wage earners as possible, William J. McAneeny, president of the Company, has announced prices at which the new Hudson and Essex models will sell. They are lowest in 22 years of manufacturing.

The base list price of the Hudson, to be known as the "Greater Hudson Eight," will be $895. The new Essex "super six" will sell as low as $595.

Thus, McAneeny points out, his company is offering new products at a saving of $175 on the Hudson and $170 on the Essex, compared with prices when new models were introduced a year ago.

Hudson-Essex sets a precedent in announcing prices in advance of the public showing of the new models. This was done, says McAneeny, to give distributers and dealers fullest possible co-operation in preparing for aggressive sales and merchandising campaigns.

Only former employes of Hudson are being taken back.

Chauffeurs in Philippines.

Most of the automobile owners in the Philippines employ a chauffeur. This is due to the fact that the operator of a motor vehicle which injures a pedestrian is subject to arrest and imprisonment until he can prove that he is blameless.

Plymouth Piston Pin Limit Is Less Than One Hair's Breadth

If one plucks a hair from his head and holds it up to the light he can scarcely see it. From a distance of four feet it is almost invisible.

Yet the presence of that same hair would prevent the piston pin from fitting into the piston of a Plymouth motor. So precisely are the parts of this low cost automobile fitted that there is no room for the proverbial hair's breadth.

The human hair represents 1-2100th of an inch, or, expressed decimally, .00048 inch. The engineering "limit" in machining a Plymouth piston and piston pin is .00025. So the insertion of a hair between the piston pin and the piston is impossible, the thickness of the hair being almost twice that of the space between piston and pin.

Still Higher Peak Of Business Activity Likely, Says Mahoney

"The best thing that will happen in 1930 will be the ringing out of the midnight hour of Dec. 31," Paul R. Mahoney, executive vice president of the International B. F. Goodrich Co., New York, told the Foreign Trade Conference in Cleveland, recently.

"Next year we shall enter into a new era when we shall no longer be comparing the business of a year of depression and readjustment with that of a year of optim-

"Experience of many past years, recorded by statistics, predicts a still higher peak of commercial activity and prosperity following the recovery."

Saltzman and Sykes Join in a Fight on 'Unworthy Stations'

Elimination of unworthy stations and a widespread investigation of the nation's broadcasting facilities have heen proposed to the Radio Commission as a means of equalizing radio facilities among the states. The proposals were submitted by Chairman Saltzman and Commissioner Sykes.

Saltzman said commission records showed many violations of the regulations he urged that these be strictly enforced with a view to gradual elimination of unworthy stations.

Sykes said equalization of facilities was needed because of the change in population, as shown by the 1930 census. He suggested that the engineering division of the commission study the entire broadcasting situation with a view to allocating to each state and zone its share of broadcasting facilities.

Upon receipt of the report, Sykes said the next step should be a decision by the commission as to what stations were entitled to the facilities, after which hearings could be held before final action.

The college career of Dick Trevor, supposed to be a freshman at a typical small co-educational school, is to be told in a series of broadcasts at 7:30 Thursday nights on the NBC's WJZ network that began Thursday night.

What's New in Radio Industry

Warner Brothers Show Country Affiliation With Brunswick Radio This Week—New Radiola Automatically Tuned Sets—Majestic Talkie Shows Development of Communications —Stewart-Warner Adds Small Console Set.

Warner-Brunswick Week.

Warner Bros., the picture organization, is telling the world of its association with the Brunswick Radio Corporation this week. It has taken hundreds of pages of newspaper advertising, turned over important theaters for dealer shows, and on the screens of every motion picture house it owns, as well as those of hundreds of motion picture houses which are Warner Bros. booked, are presenting Bob Ripley, so that he may tell the audiences that, "Believe or Not," this alliance between motion picture and radio world will set new standards for the amusement industry.

The standards of the motion picture industry changed, so basically four years ago by Warner Bros. with Vitaphone, will change fundamentally again within the next decade, it is said. The Warner-Brunswick alliance places the Warners in a position to initiate the new idea just as Warner Bros. initiated advances of the past.

Brunswick, with two decades of service in home entertainment, now presents a complete line of radio and panatrope instruments, from the low-boy with its "uni-selector," to the massive, automatic combination which plays 20 records without change.

New Radiola Automatically Tuned.

A new remote control device, by which a radio receiver located at a distance from the listener, is automatically tuned to the desired stations by merely pressing appropriate push buttons, has been incorporated in two new radiola superheterodyne receivers.

The new RCA automatic tuning and remote control equipment provides six "pre-selected" programs and, by a simple adjustment any other stations desired. With 25 feet of a new type of cable-tape, it is a simple matter to extend complete and effortless operating control of a set to any location. This connecting tape, which is only an eighth of an inch thick and an inch wide, is superior to ordinary cable because it is not so subject ot raveling or kinking, but may be laid under the carpet or run along the molding. As many remote control units as desired may be connected to the one receiver. Thus a small tablet containing the push buttons may be conveniently placed near a favorite easy chair, a bridge table, in the dining room, or even in the kitchen.

The remote control unit consists of a small bronze-finished tablet having a set of six push buttons for as many stations with small spaces underneath for marking the call letters. Two more buttons turn the receiver on and off, and a slight pressure on two other push buttons increases and diminishes the volume. A tiny lamp lights when the set is in operation and indicates by its varying brilliance whether a station is tuned to its most sensitive spot on the dial. To tune-in distant stations or other stations not preselecter, pressure is released on the buttons at the moment the desired station is heard clearly.

Majestic Sales Meeting Held.

A seven-reel talking picture, showing development of communication from the stone age to today, was shown at a dinner meeting held by the Benwood-Linze Co. Thursday night at Hotel Jefferson. The last part of the picture takes one through the Grigsby-Grunow Co. plant in Chicago and shows the process in making Majestic receivers.

Much of the meeting was devoted to discussing merchandising of Majestic regrigeration and radio sets. Talks were made by several representatives of the Grigsby-Grunow Co., including James Davin of the sales promotion department, F. A. Derano, in charge of the Majestic sales school; H. Pauly, in charge of Majestic refrigeration engineering, and M. Gafton, factory representative. Harold J. Wrape, president of the Benwood-Linze Co., presided.

Stewart-Warner Adds Model.

An addition to the Stewart-Warner line of receivers is announced by Dan F. Hyland, head of the Stewart-Warner Sales & Service Co., local distributers. The new model, now on display by all dealers, is a small console, equipped with the regular Stewart-Warner eight-tube chassis.

The cabinet dimensions are 34 inches high, 23 wide and 15 deep. This new table high model is designed for the small apartment house living room and is suitable for library, nursery, chambers, or breakfast nook. In fact, it fits in where a larger console would be out of place.

Allister Wylie as joined the KWK studio staff. He started in music with Gene Rodemich's first band, then Rodemich and Wylie went to the New Grand Central, where Rodemich was conductor and Wylie was assistant conductor. Wylie played the piano, alternating with Rodemich, and doubled on the saxophone. He did all the recordings with Gene Rodemich for Brunswick, including a number of piano duets.

After leaving the New Grand Central, he went to the Pageant Theater, where he remained for four years. From the Pageant he went to the West End Lyric. His next move was to the Coronado Hotel, where he remained for two years with his own band. While there he recorded with his band.

Ed East and Ralph Dumke, who have won radio fame with their humorous skits on WGN, Chicago, took their "Sisters of the Skillet" and East and Dumke humor to the WJZ chain of the NBC Monday. They are billed over that chain from 10:15 to 10:30 every week-day morning.

The team comes honestly by the title of "heavy comedians," since each of them weighs nearly 250 pounds and they add their wit to solving of weighty domestic and economic questions. At one time they advised solving the farm problem by saving worn-out buttonholes to be used as post holes. Their desks were swamped with buttonholes, gathered by members of the "Sisters of the Skillet" in various parts of the country. They also devised the self-turning pancake by putting popcorn in the batter—when the popcorn pops the pancake turns itself. They have clowned together for eight years in vaudeville and on the radio.

Ed East and Ralph Dumke, who have won radio fame with their humorous skits on WGN, Chicago, took their "Sisters of the Skillet" and East and Dumke humor to the WJZ chain of the NBC Monday. They are billed over that chain from 10:15 to 10:30 every week-day morning.

The team comes honestly by the title of "heavy comedians," since each of them weighs nearly 250 pounds and they add their wit to solving of weighty domestic and economic questions. At one time they advised solving the farm problem by saving worn-out buttonholes to be used as post holes. Their desks were swamped with buttonholes, gathered by members of the "Sisters of the Skillet" in various parts of the country. They also devised the self-turning pancake by putting popcorn in the batter—when the popcorn pops the pancake turns itself. They have clowned together for eight years in vaudeville and on the radio.

John Charles Thomas, operatic and concert baritone, is to sing in the Maxwell Melodies concert over KWK at 8:30 Thanksgiving night. Thomas is the American singer most popular on European operatic and concert stages.

The Kedroff Quartet, an organization of Russians who have been highly praised by American music critics, are to sing in the General Motors Party on KSD at 8:30 tomorrow night. Among other numbers they will sing Rimsky-Korsakoff's beautiful "Song of India" and "The Volga Boat Song."

Clay Bellew and the Choral Singers are to give a special program for the Community Fund during the Community Forum broadcast over KMOX between 4 and 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Featuring Jesse Crawford, organist; 10 solo instrumentalists, guest stars and "duotones," a musical combination blending the harmonies of the instrumentalists with the organ, the premiere of a new series of Royal programs will begin over the Columbia network from 9 to 9:30 p. m., next Sunday. Among the guests to be heard during the series are Mrs. Jesse Crawford, organist; Paul Small, tenor; Aldo Ricci, violinist; William C. McGill, saxophonist; Robert Effros, pianist-composer; Domenic Maffei, banjoist, and others. Louis A. Witten will produce and announce the programs.

Sponsored by the Royal Typewriter Co., the programs will be heard at the same hour every Sunday night for a long period.

For the third time this year, a speech by the Prince of Wales will be rebroadcast in this country at 3:40 p. m. on Dec. 16, probably over the NBC and CBS chains. He will be speaking at the annual banquet of the Sales Managers' Association of the United Kingdom.

A spinster doomed to lead a dull and unromantic life rebels against the accepted conventionalities of the old maid type and has her belated fling, during "Aunt Lulu's Adventures," a new series of dramatic programs on the NBC-WJZ network Thursday evenings at 7 o'clock.

Aunt Lulu, a school teacher leading a lonely life, inherits a fortune and decides to catch up on all the fun she has missed. She begins by buying a bright red sport car, flashy clothes and a pet monkey.

An apartment in Greenwich Village, her next acquisition, becomes the scene of her escapades, to the distress of her brother, Godfrey, and his ultra-respectable wife.

An impecunious poet, who sees a solution to his troubles in Lulu's wealth, soon becomes a close friend.

Edna Wallace Hopper, for 40 years a noted actress, who at the age of more than 60 looks like a young woman, is telling women her secrets of youthfulness in a radio series at 1:30 Tuesday and Friday afternoons. She speaks over KSD and allied stations. Miss Hopper has just returned from Paris, where she mastered the acrobatic technique of the Russian Ballet.

Sidney Franklin, the only man from this country in recent years who has won fame as a bull fighter in Spain, is to be interviewed by Grantland Rice in a Coca Cola broadcast over KSD at 9:30 Wednesday night, Dec. 3. Franklin was born in Brooklyn, N. Y. He went to Mexico to study painting, but instead turned to studying bull fighting. He was so successful in the bull ring that he became famous in Mexico. As a result, he went to Spain and became one of the best known of the matadors. Twice he was seriously injured, the latter time so badly that for a time his recovery was doubtful.

Anna Case, soprano, and Louise Homer, contralto, are to sing the "Barcarolle," from "The Tales of Hoffman" as the concluding feature of the annual Christmas Club broadcast over KSD at 7 o'clock Wednesday night. The System Gets Real Help from this Doctor's Prescription TRAIN your bowels to be regular; to move at the same time every day; to be so thorough that they get rid of all the waste. Syrup Pepsin—a doctor's prescription—will help you do this. When you take this compound of laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other valuable ingredients, you are helping the bowels to help themselves.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the sensible thing to take whenever you are headachy, bilious, half-sick from constipation. When you have no appetite, and a bad taste or unpleasant breath shows you're full of poison.

Dr. Caldwell studied bowel troubles for 47 years. His prescription always works, quickly, thoroughly; can never do you any harm. It cleanses the system and sweetens the whole digestive tract. It gives those over-worked bowels the help they need.

Take some Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin today, and see how fine you feel tomorrow—and for days to come. Give it to the kiddies when they're sickly or feverish; they'll like the taste! Your druggist has big bottles of it, all ready for use.

MRS. IRVING ROSE SUES FOR DIVORCE

Widow of J. Arthur Anderson Wed Musician Secretly in 1928.

Mrs. Kathryn M. Rose, 7108 Delmar boulevard, University City, filed suit at Clayton yesterday to divorce Irving Rose, formerly director of the Missouri Theater orchestra. She alleged general indignities, charging that he was indifferent and morose.

Mrs. Rose's first husband, founder of the J. Arthur Anderson laundry, died in 1921, leaving an estate of $358,844. She renounced his will, which would have given her the income from the estate, and took a widow's share of half the estate outright, the remainder going to her son, Donald Anderson.

She and the orchestra leader were married secretly in Chicago March 26, 1928, and the fact did not become known publicly until more than a year later. They separated a week ago, according to her petition.

Rose, who has been inactive lately because of the strike of theater musicians, before going to the Missouri Theater had been violinist with the Ambassador Theater orchestra and had directed a dance orchestra at Hotel Statler.

FOR CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRY INTO STOCK MARKET CRASH

Representative Kelly of Pennsylvania Wants to Know Who Caused Inflation.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Congressional investigation into last year's stock market difficulties is favored by Representative Kelly (Rep.), Pennsylvania.

While expressing doubt whether the press of business at the approaching short session would allow an inquiry, he said today, "millions of dollars have been lost by investors in stocks of inflated value and we should learn who brought about their inflation."

Kelly is author of a bill to prevent speculation in securities in interstate commerce, pending before the Judiciary Committee. He will urge action on it at the short session to make unlawful use of mails and telegraph for speculative purposes.

THOMAS DUNN BUYS BUILDING AT 3446 LINDELL

HOLDS MUCH REAL ESTATE DOWNTOWN

Corners at Vandeventer and Windsor, and Kingshighway and Maffitt Also Are Sold.

By Berry Moore

Renewed interest was aroused in property in the vicinity of the Lindell-Theresa cut-off with the purchase yesterday by Thomas Dunn, capitalist, of the five-story business building, 3446-48 Lindell boulevard, east of Grand boulevard, occupying a lot 50 by 140 feet.

In addition to the price paid, which was not disclosed, the purchaser assumed the benefit costs to be assessed for the widening of Lindell between Grand boulevard and Channing avenue. Thomas K. Francis was the grantor in the transaction. The Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co. handled the negotiations.

The investment was made on the theory that the value of the property will be enhanced materially as a result of the widening of the street, which will make Lindell and Olive a continuous boulevard 100 feet wide from Twelfth boulevard to Skinker road. The property is to be held by the purchaser as a permanent investment.

The Del-Home Light Co., distributer of Frigidaire, and the Becker-Marsden Co., distributer of the Nokol-Oil burner, have acquired leases on new buildings in this block, erected to conform with their requirements. The lease of the Del-Home Co. is for 99 years at an annual rental of $7500, and up on a building occupying a lot 160 by 138 feet. On a 5 per cent basis a ground valuation of $935 a front foot is given. Negotiations for the Del-Home company were handled by the Mercantile Commerce Bank and Trust Co. in conection with the Fletcher R. Harris Realty Co., and for the Becker-Marsden Co. by the F. J. Cornwell Real Estate Co.

Dunn is a large owner of real estate, having property on Franklin avenue, Locust and Eighth streets. He is one of the largest owners of property on Franklin avenue east of Twelfth boulevard. He originally held jointly with the late Thomas Wright a 99-year lease on the northeast corner of Eighth and Pine streets, comprising a quarter of a block, which forms a part of the site of the Arcade Building, and was one of the largest owners of vacant ground on Washington avenue, both east and west of Taylor avenue.

Dunn recently purchased and converted the former Washington University Dental School building at Locust street and Leffingwell avenue into a home for deserving boys.

A deal handled by the Glick Real Estate Co. involved the southeast corner of Vandeventer avenue and Windsor place, and the northwest corner of Kingshighway and Maffitt avenue. The Vandeventer avenue corner, occupied by eight stores and 10 apartments, was bought by Henry Baer. It has 115 feet on Vandeventer avenue and 130 feet on Windsor. The Kingshighway corner, comprising stores and apartments, was acquired by Friedenberg & Goldstein. The site has 75 feet on Kingshighway and 100 feet on Maffitt. Both purchases were made on speculation.

BUILDING TRADES BACK HOME FINANCING PLAN

Sears, Roebuck Scheme Expected to Give Jobs to 60 Pct. of Idle Workmen.

The Building Trades Council is pushing the home financing plan announced by Sears, Roebuck & Co. last January, in an effort to revive the building industry in St. Louis and supply jobs for about 60 per cent of the 18,000 workmen in the council who are now idle.

If the campaign is only moderately successful it will result in the employment of hundreds of building mechanics, and, in addition, will give work to others needed in the manufacture of building materials, heating appliances and house furnishings, Maurice J. Cassidy, secretary of the Building Trades Council, points out.

Cassidy calls attention to recent statistics of the Department of Commerce showing the money spent in building a house is distributed into 18 channels. More than half the amount is spent for wages of workmen and contractors' and architects' fees, and is money that is soon put in circulation for the necessities of life.

The Sears, Roebuck plan is an offer to persons owning a lot to finance the construction of a house, which may be paid off on monthly installments over a period of 15 years. Payments are made like rent and are as low as $25 a month in some cases. Interest is at the rate of 6 per cent and there are no commissions or mortgage renewal charges. The home owner has 108 home plans to choose from, or may employ his own architect. Nationally advertised building materials are used. The Sears-Roebuck Co. announced it had $100,000,000 available to develop the plan throughout the United States.

Financing of alterations and repairs may also be obtained through Sears-Roebuck. Persons interested in the plan may obtain additional information through the local Sears-Roebuck office, 786 Arcade Building, or at the Building Trades Council, Grand boulevard and Cozens avenue.

DETAILED PLANS ANNOUNCED FOR NEW MART BUILDING

1000 Workers to Find Employment—Construction Expected to Increase Activity in Plaza District.

A period of great construction activity in the Memorial Plaza district will follow the letting of bids for the superstructure of the $5,000,000, 21-story St. Louis Mart and Terminal Warehouse building, which is to take place this week. At its peak the Mart construction is expected to employ 1000 workers. The foundation, embracing most of the block bounded by Twelfth boulevard, Spruce, Poplar and Thirteenth streets, has been completed.

At the same time, a committee has been named to make an effort to speed construction of the new $3,500,000 Federal building, facing Memorial Plaza, and the new Postoffice Annex, in the district east of Union Station. The members of the committee, named by Mayor Miller Friday, are Charles Nagel, Lewis W. Baldwin and August A. Busch.

Also, the city administration's decision, to hasten work on the clearing of Memorial and Aloe plazas, is a further promise of activity and employment for labor in this particular region.

Detailed Building Plans.

Detailed announcement of plans for the Mart was made yesterday by W. J. Knight & Co., engineers and supervisors, and Preston J. Bradshaw, architect.

"The building," says this announcement, "will be of monumental type and of outstanding architectural design, blending admirably with the skyline of magnificent structures which, in the near future, will surround Memorial Plaza.

"The elevations along Twelfth boulevard and Spruce street embody a modern adaptation of bronze and plate glass fronts, flanked by ample piers of dark granite for full height of the first story and surmounted by an harmonious unit of projecting pilasters with recessed spandrels of artistic design and terra cotta and hand-carved ornamentations of Indiana limestone.

"The Twelfth boulevard entrance and vestibule will be 22 feet high, of marble and bronze with ornamental terrazzo floor. Entrance to the main foyer is through revolving and hinged doors of ornamental bronze. The foyer, lobby, public space and grand stairway to the second floor will have a base of Pyrenees black and white marble with wainscot extending to ceilings and trim around openings of Premier Loredo marble; specially ornamented terrazzo floor; swinging doors and elevator sliding doors of figured bronze and ceilings of ornamental plaster.

Brown Gates on West Side.

"Bronze gates are at the west terminus of the foyer, and overhead is a grand stairway with solid bronze railing, circles to an intermediate landing and thence to the second floor level. The stair treads and platforms are of pink Tennessee marble, while the stair risers are of Pyrenees black.

"All floors in the Mart and office section of the building are to be of cement and trap rock with machine ground surfaces. Rubber tile floors will be used in all corridors. Five high-speed passenger elevators equipped with all modern devices for floor leveling and safety, capable of traveling 600

Plans were announced yesterday for buildings in the Clayton road district to be erected by interests represented by M. H. Rodemyer & Co., and Pretz & Schnell and by Sam Hamberg Jr., involving large outlays.

A building to be known as "Community Stores" is projected for a 409x140 foot tract on the north side of Clayton road, 100 feet east of Big Bend road. It is to be an ornate structure of 19 stores with parking space in front for 150 automobiles.

Chain stores in almost every line of merchandise are said to be figuring with M. H. Rodemyer & Co. and Pretz & Schnell, the agents. for long leases of space in the structure. The identity of the promoters is withheld pending execution of the leases.

The enterprise is designed primarily to serve Clayton road additions, including several high-class apartment developments, notably Blue Ridge terrace in the Moorlands.

A filling station of the Phillips Petroleum Co. occupies the northeast corner of Clayton road and Big Bend boulevard. The Lubrite Refinnig Co. has erected a large filling and service station on the Island within the forks of the Clayton road west of Big Bend boulevard replacing a smaller station. The ground was purchased several years ago.

Negotiations have been concluded for sites in Blue Ridge terrace in the Moorlands for 10 new apartment buildings with built-in garages to be erected by a syndicate headed by Sam Hamberg Jr., at an estimated cost of $600,000. Construction is scheduled to begin within 30 days. Each building will contain four apartments of seven rooms and two baths. The buildings are to be of various designs.

MANUFACTURING FIRM BUYS 2-ACRE TRACT

Riverside Co. to Move Offices and Plant to Buildings on Connecticut St.

The Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. announces the sale to the Riverside Manufacturing Co. of the two-acre tract just west of Kingshighway boulevard on Connecticut street. The site is improved with three connected fireproof one-story buildings approximating about 25,000 square feet.

The Riverside Manufacturing Co. was organized in August, 1915, by J. R. Gadd, president, and Julius Kunz, secretary and treasurer. It manufactures dry cleaning soap and cleaning compounds. Its first plant was located at 4528 South Broadway, with offices maintained in the Pennant Building, Seventeenth and Locust streets. The property was sold for the Air Reduction Sales Corporation. Both parties to the transaction were represented by the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co.

This property was originally owned and occupied by the Valley Electric Co., who sold it to the Superior Oxy-Aseteylene Co. through the Mercantile Trust Co. about two years ago. Superior Oxy-Acetylene Co. was absorbed by the Air Reduction Sales Co.

Ghertner Realty Co. Moves.

8.6 per cent from September is particularly unfavorable as the seasonal factor ordinarily calls for an increase of 5 per cent. After corrections are made for seasonal variations, the index for October is 15.3 per cent below the general trend which has persisted downward for building permits since about the middle of 1926.

Some local reductions in building wage rates are being reported, although on the whole rates are fairly steady. Highway construction has already begun to taper off, thus throwing certain men out of work. A slight improvement in construction employment was reported in St. Louis.

There were few changes in the more important building materials in October. No price changes were reported in Portland cement and structural steel shapes. Common brick prices declined in Dallas, New Orleans, St. Louis and Los Angeles, declines ranging from 50 cents to $4 a thousand. In Kansas City the price was raised 50 cents.

WHERE SHALL I BUILD MY NEW HOME?
A QUESTION ALMOST EVERY FAMILY IS CONSIDERING.

Look the County over—compare other homesites with "PASADENA HILLS"—then consider all advantages. Where will you find a location in St. Louis County comparable to "PASADENA HILLS?"

Should you find a site in what might be a suitable neighborhood—how about the price? Vacant lots in desirable neighborhoods are scarce, and prices of $100.00 a front or more are not unknown.

Again, most City lots are approximately 40 ft. frontage — not many over 50 ft.

In "PASADENA HILLS" the smallest lots now being offered for sale have 55 ft. frontage, the majority ranging from 60 to 100 ft. frontage.

The layout of "PASADENA HILLS" with its winding drives, provides a wide assortment of lots, various frontages and shapes, lending themselves to any type of architecture. The extra wide lot for a wide Colonial, the unusual shaped lot for the unusual type of residence. No temptation to build rows of similar houses.

The elevation high above the City—away from turmoil, dirt and confusion, combined with the last word in modern planning, places "PASADENA HILLS" in a class apart from any other section.

Improvements are all of the best. Curb sidewalks. Steel reinforced concrete drives, distinctive ornamental street lights and all other improvements of like quality.

In buying a site for what may prove to be a lifetime home, it is a mistake to buy just a piece of ground because it is cheap. A good house costs just as much to build on a cheaper site as on the best.

FIVE new homes to be started within the next 10 days. Now is the time to select that HOMESITE while there are still locations to be had.

We invite you to inspect PASADENA HILLS. No obligations.

the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The ck market came once more to e cross roads this week.

The market could not make up mind. The price index of 90 ocks ended the week with a negible change, about one-third of point, and that on the down side. With the bear phase which enred from Sept. 10 to Nov. 10 aprently ended in the previous eek, and a substantial technical bound accomplished, the mart was only acting according to oyle when it went into a sharp chnical reaction on Monday.

Wall street was encouraged, owever, when selling pressure ickly lifted on Tuesday, and ofessionals made a few experiental bullish efforts during the ext few days. It was easy to rein Monday's losses, but the maret quickly shied away from new ghs for the recovery.

Effective support accorded the omestic grain markets in a period acute unsettlement in foreign heat trading was reassuring, and slowing up of the decline in steel ill operations, together with oderate pickup in motor manucturing were pleasing.

The financial markets, however, ad to contend with unsettling delopments. The advance in coper prices which provided much the impetus for the advance of e previous week was being mainained only by large producers. all bank closings in the interior, hile isolated and attributable to cal conditions, apparently had an dverse influence on public sentient. The bond market failed to rogress notably, and declined in e foreign section.

nvestors Apparently in No Hurry.

Despite the apparent abundance investment money, and attracve yields at which many favored uities are available, investors ere obviously in no hurry to buy ther stocks or bonds.

Investment demand, furthermore, should make its appearance the bond market first. Such uying as was evident there seemed o be primarily of an institutional haracter.

Professional traders bid up varius groups of stocks in their eforts to test the situation. Producion of new automobile models prompted a move in the motor and ccessory shares. The motion picure stocks were given a little boost, as this is usually their best period. Rails were pushed up.

The merchandising issues were taken in hand, in view of the approach of the holiday buying season. Mercantile reviews reported little change in retail sales, but Silas Strawn, chairman of Montgomery Ward, said some improvement had been noted. In any case, merchandising organizations are expected to come through the holiday season with an excellent inventory position.

A further decline of $50,000,000 in brokers' loans, in a period of rising stocks, was hopefully regarded as an indication of further progress in establishing a sound bottom. Call money held at 2 per cent, but was again offered at 1 outside.

Small Reaction Saturday.

A small reaction today pulled stock prices back to the level of last Saturday's closing.

Losses in the three major groups averaged slightly more than a point and a half and the only subdivision to show any strength was the mail order group. There was temporary improvement in the merchandising issues.

Trading was quiet—sales of 988,490 shares were the smallest for a Saturday since early in October—and the sluggish decline had the appearance of being little more than week-end adjustments. The world's wheat markets were strong and Chicago corn was bullish.

To many observers the stock market seems to have reached an important testing point.

SMALL REACTION AT THE WEEK-END

Mail Order Group Is Only Subdivision to Show Any Strength—Trade Is Quiet, Sales Amounting to but 988,490 Shares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The stock market came once more to the cross roads this week.

The market could not make up its mind. The price index of 90 stocks ended the week with a negligible change, about one-third of a point, and that on the down side. With the bear phase which endured from Sept. 10 to Nov. 10 apparently ended in the previous week, and a substantial technical rebound accomplished, the market was only acting according to Hoyle when it went into a sharp technical reaction on Monday.

Wall street was encouraged, however, when selling pressure quickly lifted on Tuesday, and professionals made a few experimental bullish efforts during the next few days. It was easy to regain Monday's losses, but the market quickly shied away from new highs for the recovery.

Effective support accorded the domestic grain markets in a period of acute unsettlement in foreign wheat trading was reassuring, and a slowing up of the decline in steel mill operations, together with moderate pickup in motor manufacturing were pleasing.

The financial markets, however, had to contend with unsettling developments. The advance in copper prices which provided much of the impetus for the advance of the previous week was being maintained only by large producers. Small bank closings in the interior, while isolated and attributable to local conditions, apparently had an adverse influence on public sentiment. The bond market failed to progress notably, and declined in the foreign section.

Investors Apparently in No Hurry.

Despite the apparent abundance of investment money, and attractive yields at which many favored equities are available, investors were obviously in no hurry to buy either stocks or bonds.

Investment demand, furthermore, should make its appearance in the bond market first. Such buying as was evident there seemed to be primarily of an institutional character.

Professional traders bid up various groups of stocks in their efforts to test the situation. Production of new automobile models prompted a move in the motor and accessory shares. The motion picture stocks were given a little boost, as this is usually their best period. Rails were pushed up.

The merchandising issues were taken in hand, in view of the approach of the holiday buying season. Mercantile reviews reported little change in retail sales, but Silas Strawn, chairman of Montgomery Ward, said some improvement had been noted. TRADING VOLUME ON LOCAL BOARD SHOWS DECREASE

Low-Priced Securities Figure Prominently in Week's Business—Dozen New 1929-30 Lows—Gains in List.

Trading on the St. Louis Stock Exchange during the week just ended fell below that of the preceding week, although the latter was one trading day short. At least a dozen securities recorded new lows for the 1929-30 period. The more active issues were mainly unchanged to higher. In the cases of new lows, most changes were small. Low priced shares figured largely in volume of business.

Wagner Electric sold between 17½ and 18¼. International Shoe between 50¼ and 51 and Coca Cola between 36¾ and 41½, the latter price representing gain of 3 points. National Candy also had narrow range.

Brown Shoe as well as International closed higher. Maloney Electric closed lower. Hamilton-Brown was higher.

Mercantile-Commerce and First National Bank finished unchanged after having been lower.

There were over 1700 shares of Fulton Iron sold, about 1500 coming from one house at one session. Bentley, which omitted current dividend, sold down to 2. Hussmann-Ligonier sales included one lot of 500 shares in which one house was both buyer and seller. Nicholas-Beazley sales of 900 shares were at 2 and included sale of a 500-share lot.

In the final session of the week there was a 1000-share lot transaction in Scullin Steel preference at 8⅞, unchanged in price, the same house being both buyer and seller.

considerable encouragement over the evaporation of liquidation and the market's inclination to go higher. Professional traders have followed the swing for what it was worth, just as they followed the long two-month decline.

Railroad shares lost yesterday's vigor in today's two-hour session. Losses were general for the group ranging from one to three points. The Coppers were also heavy and yielded a point or two under steady selling.

The chain store and merchandising equities appeared to be helped by a belief that the approach of Christmas would give sales the benefit of seasonal improvement, and also by the statement of Montgomery Ward's chairman who saw a change in the public's "apathy toward buying." Both Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward rallied 2 points. Hahn Department Stores, Kinney and Spiegel May also gained.

Advance in Wheat.

Wheat's advances of between one and two cents a bushel in the Chicago pit reflected in part a decrease in a world's visible supply estimate. Corn rallied more than two cents. Cotton was irregular in routine trading, closing 2 points lower to 5 higher.

Stocks losing about a point on the day included U. S. Steel, Chrysler, du Pont, National Biscuit, American Can, Union Carbide, Radio, General Electric, General Motors and Johns-Manville, among the industrials, and Consolidated Gas, International Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey and Stone & Webster in the utilities. Copper shares were off 1 to 2, while in the rails there were losses of 1 to 3 in Atchison, Pennsylvania, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway and Baltimore & Ohio. Case and Allied Chemical dropped 3 and Westinghouse Electric 2.

Sterling cables touched a new 1930 low at $4.85 19-32, although the decline was only 1-32. The French franc also eased, but the Spanish peseta and the Dutch guilder rallied.

BEARS ARE ACTIVE ON THE BERLIN BOERSE

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—The bears were active on the Boerse again today on renewed American selling and the approach of settlement day. Losses averaged 1 to 3 points, but Potash dropped 4 to 10 and Ilse Bergbau, a lignite plant, lost 17 points.

At the close the tendency was somewhat stronger, but local banks were unable to communicate with Russian correspondents, because of snowstorms which carried away telegraph lines. Private discounts were raised ⅛ per cent to 4⅞.

Export Gasoline Lower at Points.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Price recessions are reported at both Gulf and Atlantic coast ports for export gasoline.

At the time of the Export Petroleum Association's withdrawal of its schedule, U. S. Motor gasoline was quoted at 6¾ to 7½ cents a gallon in cargo lots in New York harbor, whereas recently sales are said to have been made at 6½ cents in barge lots, with some interests quoting 6¼ cents. On the Gulf Coast the current quotation on U. S. Motor grade is 5¾ cents a gallon, against 7 cents early in November.

WEEKLY COPPER REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Demand for copper tapered off sharply following last week's advance to the 12-cent level. Resale offerings have appeared at concessions of as much as 1½ cents under producers' asking prices without attracting buying interest from domestic consumers who are said to be well supplied with metal. With the c. i. f. price maintained at 12.30 cents foreign buyers have remained out of the market, as offerings in London are said to be under a parity with this quotation. Producers are maintaining nominal prices at 12 cents for electrolytic in the Connecticut valley.

The tin market was irregular, with prices moving over a rather narrow range, and the tone was steadier at the end of the week. Business was reported as rather quiet.

Lead prices were maintained at the basis that has prevailed for weeks. Buying operations for consumers account remained moderate.

Zinc prices showed a tendency to sag. There was very little interest shown by consumers, according to trade reports.

Antimony was steadier early in the week with an improved trade demand, but toward the close operations turned dull. Sellers, however, were unwilling to shade quotations.

NARROW RANGES TO PRICES ON THE CURB

Trading Is Largely of a Routine Affair and Close Little Changed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The end of the week found traders content to let the curb market idle. Trading was largely a routine affair and the closing prices of Friday were little changed by the narrow fluctuations in today's session. Total sales were only 268,400 shares, about half the turnover last Saturday.

The dullness was reflected in the sharply contracted turnover in utilities and oils, and compared with the movement in the previous sessions the leaders in these groups were virtually stationary. Electric Bond & Share dipped to 49⅛ during the first hour but recovered all but ⅝ of its loss. American & Foreign Power warrants, American Gas & Electric, United Light & Power A were fractionally lower. American Superpower, Niagara Hudson and United Gas closed steady.

Two stocks in the Standard group, Standards of Kentucky and Indiana, and Cities Service were virtually the only active issues in the petroleum list. Cities Service was ⅛ off and Standard of Indiana ¼ higher. Standard of Kentucky was unchanged. In a thin market, Cosden preferred rallied 10¼ points, while Vacuum eased 1⅛.

Among industrials, Aluminum Co. made one of its wide swings for a net advance of six points and Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea was more than four points higher. Newmont Mining dipped 2⅜. Among machines was E. L. Bruce, which sold at 25. Bentley change was 2½.

Investment trust and holding company stocks were a shade lower. Pennroad rallied about half a point and then eased for a net loss of ¼ at the close. Goldman-Sachs and United Founders were ¼ lower. Shenandoah closed at 7, up ½.

COTTON TRADE MOSTLY OF AN EVENING UP CHARACTER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Trading in cotton here today was again attributed largely to the evening-up of near months in preparation for possible december notices on Monday. Early advances on covering and trade buying were followed by reactions under a renewal of liquidation and a slight increase in Southern selling late in the morning. March contracts after selling up to 11:30 or 11 points net higher closed at 11.22 with the general market closing steady at a net decline of 2 points for December but generally 1 to 5 points higher. Spot quiet, Middling 10.85 cents.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to advance of 3 points, which was sonly a partial response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. There was considerable December liquidation but it appeared to be readily absorbed and the market steadied up during the middle of the morning on covering and trade buying. New December advanced to 10.85c and May to 11.57c, making net gains of about 7 to 12 points but offerings increased somewhat at these figures while there was a little more Southern helding in the late trading, accordin gto local brokers. New December sold off to 76c and May to 11.50 closing at these figures.

Further switching was reported from December to later month and there was some widening of the differences with new December closing 74 points under the closing quotation for May, compared with 67 points at the close of Friday. There seemed to be more or less uncertainly as to just what might be expected in the way of December notices, but the opinion was expressed in some quarters that after the circulation of Monday's notices, there would be comparatively little interest left in the December position. There may have been a little buying early on reports of a slightly more active business in the cloth market but most of the trading was connected with the evening up of the near month situation.

Liverpool cables said that hedging in that market had been taken by continental buying and trade calling and reported a fair demand for light cotton goods from India; also larger sales at the Shanghai auction. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance was estimated at 144,947 bales against 149,247 last year.

SELLING OF FOREIGN BONDS IS RESUMED

Domestic Corporate Issues Move Very Quietly—U. S. Bonds Advance.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Selling in foreign obligations was resumed today as domestic corporate issues moved very quietly. About the only marked improvement during the dull half day session was in the United States Government list where the steady advance throughout the week was maintained.

Gains in United States Governments were the best of the week. Demand was particularly strong for Liberty 3½s, up ⅛, and Liberty fourth 4¼s which gained one-sixteenth. Both issues were at new highs for the year. At the closing price of 103.25, Liberty fourth 4¼s were little more than ½ point under the record figure of 104.12 established March 9, 1927.

The fact that many authorities have pointed out that a moratorium could not possibly jeopardize German Government bonds has failed to halt the decline in German obligations. On top of a 2 point drop yesterday, German International 5½s, issued under the Young plan, slipped to a new low at 68 at the close after earlier firmness, for a net loss of ⅝. German 7s declined ½, and other German issues moved lower. German bank issues yielded about 1½ points each, Berlin City Electric 6½s declined to a new 1930 low and Rhine Westphalian 6s of 1955 declined 1¼. Other Europeans were fairly steady.

Various Brazilian issues reacted 1 to 3 points. Bolivian 7s of 1958 lost 3⅝ and the 7s of 1969 sagged 2¼. Chilean bonds were inactive. In a very thin market Peruvian Governments and Uruguayan 8s and 6s moved lower.

Trading in domestic corporate bonds was similar to previous sessions this week. Fractional changes of small proportions have made little change in the general price level. The average of 30 bonds today was 98.1 compared with 98.2 on Monday.

High-grade railroad issues on the whole were a trifle better. Rock Island general 4s advanced 2¼ points but most of the gains were very narrow. On the downside Missouri Pacific general 4s, New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5s B, yielded more than a point. St. Louis, Southwestern 5s and Seaboard Airline gold 4s reached new lows for the year, the latter on a 9-point drop.

Principal changes in utilities were toward lower levels. International Telephone 5s, General Public Service 5½s, Ohio Public Service 7s B, Postal Telegraph 5s, and Denver Gas & Electric 6s were heavy.

Turnover in industrials was small. Highest grade issue in the group were firm while others softened. Stock privilege issues received attention and were about steady.

DOMESTIC GRAIN MARKETS FOLLOW ADVANCES ABROAD

Bullish Reports Dealing With Foreign Centers Also Factor in Rising Wheat Prices.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Nov. 22.—Rising markets featured the closing session of the week on the local board as well as at other domestic centers. Bullish factors included foreign reports that told of frost in Argentina, revolt plans in Russia, unexpected market strength in Buenos Aires and a decided decrease in the estimates of the world's visible supply of wheat. The Argentina market was 4c higher. Corn was helped by wheat and reference to talk of proposed import duty lift.

Wheat futures started up at the opening, Liverpool closing 1½d to 1⅞d higher, and Winnipeg advancing about 2 cents near start.

December wheat opened at 73⅛c, May wheat 78c, December corn 75c and May corn 79c.

Local wheat receipts which were 82,600 bushels compared with 67,200 last week and 50,400 last year included 34 cars local and 25 through. Corn receipts which were 56,000 bushels compared with 46,200 last week and 65,800 last year included 39 cars local and 1 through. In the cash grain market, soft wheat was up 1c to 2c. Offerings were in pretty good volume and the demand was fair generally. Sales of No. 1 were on a basis 5½c to 6½c above the Chicago old May figure. Local elevators were in the market and took most of the distressed grain and there was also pretty good shipping demand, particularly for garlicky grades, which moved at narrower discounts. Hard wheat was 1c to 1½c higher. The available supply of country-run grain was light and cleared readily to local trade and shippers. Sales of No. 1 were on a basis 1½c to 2½c below the Chicago May figure. Corn was up 1c to 2½c. Bulk of the offerings were taken by industries and elevators. Oats were 1c higher. Offerings were light and the only sales reported were two cars No. 3 white locally.

FOREIGN NEWS BULLISH INFLUENCE IN GRAINS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Argentine report of frost and recent report of crop damage from rust, together with talk of Russian revolts, gave a big lift to wheat values today. Sudden soaring of Buenos Aires wheat prices had a specially stimulating effect, and particular attention was given also a big falling-off in world's available supply figures regarding wheat. Argentine wheat growers were said to be showing a disposition to withhold offerings, and overseas demand for wheat from North America was enlarged.

Closing quotations on wheat in Chicago were firm at about the day's topmost level, 1⅜@2½c higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed buoyant, 1⅞@3c up; oats 1⅛@1¾c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

Brisk advances in price were the rule from start to finish not only for wheat but even more so for corn. In addition to responding to the influence of wheat strength, the corn pit devoted attention to likelihood of increased import duties on corn and also to possible modification of the Bier law. Besides, the quick upward swing of corn values forced into execution numerous stoploss orders for corn future deliveries. At the top point attained by corn, prices showed about 5c a bushel advance since Tuesday, but country offerings of corn to arrive remained light.

Meanwhile, Argentine wheat exporters were reported buying wheat future deliveries on a large scale, having encountered considerable difficulty in obtaining wheat for immediate shipment, and as a result of uncertainty prevailing relative to the Argentine crop outlook. The Buenos Aires wheat market closed at as much as 4c gain over yesterday and more than 6c during the last 48 hours. World's available supplies of wheat were announced as having decreased 15,608,000 bushels in October, compared with an increase of 74,818,000 bushels in September and with a gain of 35,090,000 bushels in October last year. Russian denials of revolt reports failed to act as a counterbalance, and so likewise did London assertions that further heavy shipments of Russian wheat to Great Britain were under way.

It was estimated in one report heard that Canada has disposed of 4,000,000 bushels of wheat this week for export, including 500,000 bushels today. Oats advanced with wheat and corn.

Provisions averaged higher, owing especially to the strength shown by prices for coarse grain.

WINNIPEG HOPES BOTTOM WHEAT PRICES HAVE BEEN SEEN

By the Associated Press.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22.—Traders on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange hoped today that the turbulent week had seen the bottom reached in wheat prices.

Three days of advances have followed a sensational break which brought prices down as much as 8 cents a bushel Tuesday and produced quotations lower than any in the history of the exchange.

Tuesday's crash, which carried values down to 55 cents a bushel, was partially wiped out the same day, and subsequent gains had brought prices today up to nearly the same level as a week ago.

Wheat Up at Winnipeg.

By the Associated Press.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22.—Wheat prices moved steadily upward today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and had gained two and an eighth to three and an eighth cents at the close.

At the market's high point today quotations were more than 10 cents above the record low of 55 to which values fell last Tuesday. Influenced by advancing foreign markets, increased export demand and buying by many leading traders, November closed at 65¼, December at 64½ to 64⅝c, May at 69⅞ to 70c and July at 71⅜ to 71⅝c.

Farmers looked forward to the meeting next Wednesday at Saskatoon, Sask., of representatives of several Canadian agricultural groups to discuss further the proposal of a Government-set minimum wheat price and to talk over forms of crop insurance to which the Dominion Government would lend financial aid.

HOG PRICES DECLINE IN TRADE OF WEEK

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, Nov. 22.—(U. S. Department of Agriculture): Lower prices again accompanied light receipts of cattle here, declines proving general at other markets as well. The advent of poultry and game into the menus of the meat consuming public, normal at this time of year, is the most plausible reason for this break, being reflected in the slower turnover at lower prices of dressed beef at Eastern centers. For the six-day period just closed the run of cattle totaled approximately 13,500 head as compared with actual receipts of 17,684 the previous week and 15,366 for the corresponding period a year ago. Choice yearling steers, of which few were available, sold steady to strong; other steers declining 25c to 50c. Strictly well finished mixed yearlings and heifers held steady while others eased down 25c. Cows, cutters and low cutters declined 25c to 50c and medium bulls dropped 25c. Vealers were off 75c as compared with the previous week's close. Tops for the week: 942-lb. yearling steers, $13.25; 768-lb. mixed yearlings, $13.10; 1140-lb. matured steers and 777-lb. heifers, $11.50; cows, $6.50; medium bulls, $5.25; vealers, $12. A half dozen loads of heavy steers scaling 1306 to 1393 lbs. cleared at $8.40 to $9.65 with a similar number of beeves averaging from 1204 to 1270 lbs. going at $7.85 to $10.50. Other medium weight steers scaling 1122 to 1180 lbs. cashed in the price range of $7.25 to $11.50, with bulk $7.50 to $10.35. Lightweight steers showed a wide range of $5.25 to $13.25, bulking at $7.50 to $10.75, with bulk of all steers sold from $7.50 to $10.50. Bulk of fat steers sold from $9 to $11. Most fat mixed yearlings and heifers cashed from $9.25 to $11.50; medium fleshed descriptions finding outlet at $6 to $9. Beef cows cleared largely at $4 to $5; low cutters, $2.25 to $2.75. Closing week's top on vealers was $10.75. Top and bulk prices for the corresponding week last year were as follows: Steers $9.50 to $12.50, top $14.00; fat mixed yearlings and heifers, $12.50 to $13.50, top $14.00; medium fleshed heifers, $9 to $12; cows, $6.75 to $7.75, top $8.75; low cutters, $4.25 to $5; top sausage bulls, $8; top vealers, $16.

Hog Market Lower.

Receipts of hogs at National Stock Yards this week approximated 67,000 compared with actual arrivals of 71,422 last week and 82,101 similar week last year. Continued dull and lower dressed pork trade was the main bearish factor in forcing swine prices downward during the first half of the week when values went to the lowest point since February, 1928, and practically to a par with the low time that year. Declining receipts later in the week resulted in some recovery and closing prices were mostly 50@60c lower than the close of last week. Pigs and sows during the period declined 25@50c while roasting pigs scored a net loss of $1.50@2. Light hogs sold up to $8.60 on Friday, but on Saturday only an occasional small lot was able to pass $8.25, this figure taking most of the 150 to 250-lb weights. A few roasting pigs also earned $8.25, but majority of 90 to 140-lb pigs and light lights turned at $8. Packing sows finished at $7@7.25, latter price paid for smooth sows scaling up close to 400 lbs.

Fat Lambs Improve.

Sheep and lamb marketing this week approximated 5400 head, compared with actual offerings of 9689 last week and 9549 corresponding week last year. Diminishing receipts imparted a strengthening factor in fat lamb trade this week and although dressed trade in the East was weak, live prices moved forward 50c to 75c and closed at the high time of the week. Common lambs and heavies shared the advance, while sheep were unchanged. Not enough yearlings or other classes were offered to test values. Top lambs reached $8 and was paid late by packers and city butchers. On Friday bulk of lambs went to packers at $7.75 with a few less desirable descriptions at $7.50. Occasional head of heavy lambs were removed around $7 and buck lambs were in all cases marked $1 less than similar grade ewe and wether lambs. Common throwouts bulked at $5, a few $5.50. Mutton ewes were salable at $2.50 to $3.50, culls down to $1.50.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Nov. 22.—The trade in horses and mules today was considered nominally steady, with practically nothing changing hands. The market this week featured fairly heavy supplies, but a fully steady price trend in an active deal.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Raw sugar was quiet today and with buyers and sellers apart no sales were reported. It was believed that refiners would pay 3.39c or even 3.40c for sugars in specified positions, but holders were generally asking 3.43c.

December liquidation and exchanging from that delivery to other positions in advance of first notice day on Monday featured raw futures. It caused a little easier ruling of values in near positions, but later positions held relatively steady, although price changes were comparatively narrow, with the market closing 2 points lower to unchanged net. There was nothing new in the spot market to cause any activity either way and there appeared to be a disposition to limit aggressive operations and await new developments. Approximate sales, 25,100 tons, including about one-third in the form of exchanges. Closing prices, December, 1.31c; January, 1.37c; March, 1.45c; May, 1.53c; July, 1.59c; September, 1.66c.

Refined was quiet and unchanged, with refiners listing at 4.75c, but second hands around at 4.60c to 4.65c.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—F. Pisart and Camille Gutt, Belgian Congo copper mine executives, have sailed for Europe after conferences of several weeks with American copper producers on the question of curtailing world copper production. Neither would comment on the conferences.

A week ago the Copper Institute recommended a curtailment of 20,000 tons a month in world production. Increases of 2½ cents a pound to 12 cents, delivered, in the domestic price of the metal followed and although the large producers have held at that figure, concessions by dealers have been reported, some as low as 10½ cents.

HINDU ACTORS ON BROADWAY AFTER LEAVING the ORIENT for the FIRST TIME

A Special House With Separate Quarters for the Nautch Girls Required by Sisir Kumar Bhaduri's Famous Troupe.

By ARTHUR STRAWN

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

ENCOURAGED by the Broadway triumph last season of Mei Lan-Fang, the great Chinese actor, New York is now welcoming another invasion of Oriental drama, this time headed by Sisir Kumar Bhaduri, India's greatest thespian who has traveled almost 10,000 miles with a large company of Hindu players to present his native classic drama to America. This not only marks the first time the Hindu drama has appeared in this country but the first time it has ever been presented by a native company in the native tongue outside the Orient.

The first warning of the impending invasion was sounded some weeks ago, when the following advertisement appeared in the New York World:

"House Wanted—Unpretentious, but fully furnished, not less than 24 rooms, for Sisir Kumar Bhaduri, Hindu actor-manager, and his company. Must have well-equipped kitchen for Hindu cooks. Religion of proposed tenant requires that top floor may be segregated as zenana or purdah quarters for Nautch girls."

Probably not one of the persons who read that knew the difference between a zenana and a Nautch girl; nevertheless, 29 house owners promptly informed Mr. Carl Reed, the theatrical producer who inserted the ad, that each had exactly the desired dwelling. Finally a four-story brownstone house in the West Eighties was leased, and later, when Bhaduri and his company disembarked from the S. S. New Orleans, 44 days out of Calcutta, they stepped into taxis, were whisked to their new dwelling and in no time had set up a miniature Hindu community in the heart of New York.

The top floor was turned over to the Nautch girls as their exclusive quarters, and the other 24 members of the company shared the rest of the dwelling. The reason the Nautch girls are segregated is because they are working at a phase of their religion, even though taking part in dramatic productions, for just as the English drama rose out of the old mystery plays, so has the Hindu drama evolved from religious origins, many vestiges of which remain, particularly in the accompanying dances. The Hindu drama has music and dancing as an essential part, and that is where the Nautch girls come in. Each is a sort of temple girl long trained in the ritualistic dances. In late years the Nautch dancers have become increasingly secularized, so that many of them correspond in a sense to the Japanese geisha. But the Nautch girls brought by Bhaduri are girls who have dedicated their lives to the performance of the symbolic temple dances, the Western equivalent of taking the veil, and in the performances of the classic Hindu drama their dancing and chanting serves much the same function as the chorus in Greek tragedy. They live very simply. In place of a bed they use a sort of mat which they unroll on the floor before retiring. Their food, however, like that of the rest of Bhaduri's company, must be prepared by orthodox cooks, and consists of vegetables and the Hindu staple, curry and rice, for meat is taboo to the orthodox Hindu.

ALTHOUGH the Broadway producers were encouraged to make the great expenditure of money necessary to import so large a company from India by their recollection of Mei Lan-Fang's tremendous success, their inspiration came from an entirely different source. Indeed, one might almost say that it was quite by accident that the Hindus were ever lured from their distant Calcutta for the edification of the Western World. Their coming here at all is actually due to the enthusiasm of a young British actor, Eric Elliot.

Four years ago, while returning from a tour in Australia, he left his ship at Ceylon and went to Calcutta, on his way to visit his brother, who happens to be a tea planter in Assam, which is between Calcutta and Burma. While in Calcutta he met an editor of an English paper published there. The editor raved to the young actor about Bhaduri and his highly successful revival of the classic drama at the Natyamandir Theater. The pair journeyed to see the great star together. The play was entirely in Bengali, of which Elliot understood not a word, but the acting was so forceful and the play, with its interpretive dancing and chanting so impressive, that he contrived to get an introduction to Bhaduri.

He met the Hindu in his dressing room and there found him to be a charming and cultured man, with a perfect command of the English language, and to his further surprise he learned that Bhaduri had actually given up a professorship in English literature at the University of Calcutta because of his love for his native drama and his desire to establish a theater where it might be presented at its best. Elliot and Bhaduri became very friendly. The young Englishman remained in the Orient two years, returning to England in the summer of 1929, full of enthusiasm for Bhaduri as an artist.

In England Elliot signed up with Grace George to come with her to New York in "The First Mrs. Fraser." The play settled in New York for a long run and Elliot immediately set out to interest some American producer in bringing over Bhaduri and his company. In time he found two producers, Carl Reed and Elizabeth Marbury, who were enthusiastic enough to combine their resources for the purpose of importing Bhaduri, and Elliot was given the task of going to India to make the arrangements to bring them over. There were many difficulties in the way and much red tape to be cut because of the turbulent conditions in India, but the Government finally gave Bhaduri and his company passports, on condition that none of them would discuss Indian politics while in America.

Sisir Kumar Bhaduri is a high-caste Brahmin of pale complexion for a Hindu, scarcely as dark as a European of the Latin races. He is 40 years old, six feet in height and has never worn Western garb but, like Tagore, wears the picturesque linen and silken garments, the turban and the draperies of his race. His first name is pronounced Sisher and means, in Sanskrit, dewdrops. His middle name is pronounced as written and means prince, or youth. His last name, Bhaduri, is accented on the first syllable and sounds something like the way an announcer at Sportsman's Park says: "Baddery for today's game." It is one of the Indian names that signify that the owner is a member of the Brahmin or priest caste.

Always interested in literature and the drama, it was the influence of Tagore, the famous Hindu poet and artist, that inspired Bhaduri to give up his post at the university to spread Hindu culture through the medium of the drama. Soon Bhaduri was starred by the Madan Theatrical Syndicate, which controls a chain of about 1000 theaters and motion picture houses throughout India. Having learned the business essentials of his new profession, Bhaduri acquired his own theater and company of actors in Calcutta and immediately proceeded to win recognition as the foremost exponent of the Hindu drama.

Bhaduri, an actor-manager, and therefore interested in both the business and artistic side of the theater, notices many striking differences between the American method of producing plays and his own. In Calcutta the legitimate theaters give only four performances a week, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoon. This schedule prevails for all of the four legitimate houses in that city of perhaps a million and a half with the exception that at Christmas time, and again at Puja, the period of autumn festival, the theaters offer performances daily for two weeks. Four performances a week would seem to be a great boon for the actors, but whereas our plays run two or two and a half hours, a dramatic performance in India lasts something over four hours, with five intermissions to permit both players and audience to rest. The curtain goes up evenings at 7:30 and on Sunday matinees at 4:30.

The repertory system is in vogue in Calcutta as a matter of course. Bhaduri produces three or four new plays a year and as many old ones. In the last seven years he has produced approximately 30 plays, all of which are in the repertory and any one of which can be dusted off and presented on the shortest notice.

IN ADDITION to directing the artistic policy of the theater, Bhaduri must also worry about the business end. He has 100 people on his payroll throughout the year. His rent is approximately $1200 a month, which to a Broadway manager seems like a mere nothing, but the top price in Calcutta is five rupees, and a rupee being worth 36 cents, that means about $1.80 for the best seat, compared to Broadway's $3 and up—'way up! Bhaduri reports that whereas on Broadway acting is one of the most overcrowded of professions, there is actually a scarcity of actors in Calcutta, so that good performers can sometimes compel the payment of fairly handsome stipends.

There is no formal censorship of the theater in India, and the question of what sex matters may or may not be touched on in the drama has never come up as an issue. As a matter of fact, the Hindu drama deals very freely with sex matters, and the courtesan often appears on the stage as an admirable character, much as she did in the ancient Greek and Roman plays. On the other hand, it is regarded as a serious breech of good taste to show women scantily attired, except for the Nautch dancers, and they don't begin to approach the nudity of the chorines in the big Broadway revues. Indeed, Bhaduri and his company went one night to see Earl Carroll's Revue, and were frankly shocked at the areas of epidermis displayed. In India, plays of an inflammatory nature politically or sociologically must not be performed, thus reversing the Broadway custom, where political and social problems may be dealt with freely, but where frank discussions of sex are not welcome.

Adventures of the Wild Animal Merchant Who Furnishes America's Zoos

By M. W. CHILDS
Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

FRANK H. BUCK is engaged in one of the strangest trades in the world. He is the man who goes to all the far places of the earth and brings back the beasts and the birds and the reptiles that live in the deep jungle and the remote swamp. He is a merchant in apes and peacocks and such odd and curious living forms. When you've stood before something in the zoo or circus that looked like nothing so much as an animal that somebody had made up for a joke, you've probably asked the question, "Now how in the world did that thing get here?" And it is nine chances to one that Frank Buck is the answer.

For he has supplied the New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis and other metropolitan zoos for years with their rarest and finest specimens. Buck helped to plan the Dallas, Texas, zoo and then went out and got most of the animals. He has been principal purveyor to the two or three largest circuses in the country, notably the Al G. Barnes all-animal show.

"Buck is a remarkable man," says George Vierheller, director of the St. Louis Zoological Gardens. "If we decided tomorrow that we wanted some rare specimen, Buck would probably be the man we would cable."

Travelers on the Pacific have heard Buck's fabulous tales—he's crossed 40 times. Other adventurers, such as Roy Chapman Andrews, the anthropologist who goes to the Gobi desert and elsewhere in search of such trifles as dinosaur eggs, have listened in amazement to his narratives. They persuaded him to write them down. In "Bring 'Em Back Alive" (Simon and Schuster), with the aid of Edward Anthony, Buck has done just this.

The mere list of animals he has brought back from across the Pacific is overwhelming—39 elephants; 60 tigers, Royal Bengal, Malayan and Manchurian; 62 leopards, 52 orang-utans, 31 gibbon apes, more than 3000 monkeys of different varieties; 120 Asiatic antelopes and deer, 11 camels, 40 kangaroos and wallabies; two Indian rhinoceroses, the rarest and most valuable animals in America at present; two giraffes, 40 bears, Himalayan black bears and Indian sloth bears; 90 large pythons, one king cobra, the largest ever captured alive; five giant monitor lizards, 15 crocodiles; more than 100,000 birds, ranging from the big ostrich-like cassowaries of the Panpan Islands down to Austrian finches as small as humming-birds, and including cockatoos, parrots, birds of Paradise, swans, cranes, peafowl, Himalayan song-thrushes and many rare pheasant species. Nor is this list complete.

Buck began as an amateur collector of birds. His amateur interest soon became a business that has occupied him for more than 20 years. It is obvious that he gets a great kick out of the work which must be some compensation when delicate assets perish en route from Singapore to San Francisco, and each assignment is liable to turn into an adventure of the first magnitude. Take the time he was assigned by Dr. Hornaday of the New York zoo and Dr. Penrose of the Philadelphia zoo to bring back two Indian rhinos. He had other commissions, too, for his business at this time had become very large. The St. Louis zoo had ordered a collection of Indian waders, cranes, storks, flamingoes, and some gibbons and antelopes. There was the contract with the city of Dallas for a whole zoo and an order from Al G. Barnes for three elephants, two tigers, two tapirs and two orang-utans.

THESE last were in the regular line of business, comparatively simple orders to execute. But not the Indian rhinos. Buck knew that the only survivors of this rare species were in the little independent Indian state of Nepal in the foothills of the Himalayas. He also knew that there they were royal game, only the Maharajah of Nepal being allowed to shoot them. He succeeded in getting the confidence of General Shum Shere of Nepal who chanced to be in Calcutta. The General agreed to carry on telegraphic negotiations with the despotic Maharajah. Buck, who has always had phenomenal luck, got a break—the rhinos were trampling the rice fields at a certain plantation, arousing the indignation of native owners. After repeated telegrams had been exchanged the ruler of Nepal finally agreed to let Buck have two specimens for $12,600. The figure was high, for, as Buck points out, it wasn't the initial cost alone that would cut into potential profits but the upkeep for the two rhinos on a 16,000-mile journey. He agreed finally and went off on a collecting trip, arranging to return to Calcutta for word from General Shum Shere, a noted hunter, who was to lead the search in person.

After a journey through Burma, down the Malay Peninsula to Singapore, and a jaunt into the United Provinces, he returned to Calcutta to find word from General Shum Shere that two fine rhino calves, one weighing a ton and the other a ton and a quarter, awaited him some 300 miles beyond the rail head in the interior of Nepal. The General was coming to Calcutta to instruct Buck in the ways and means of getting two and a quarter tons of rhinoceros back to civilization. The General came and, incidentally, explained how the animals were captured. Two-mother rhinos were killed, as it was known that the calf would stand over the body, regardless of what came, until decomposition set in. He surrounded the young rhino, with a barrier of ropes, stretched taut by several hundred natives. Against this the frenzied animal could fling itself without danger of injury. Around the rope inclosure was built a log stockade and when the rhino had quieted down a bit, he was turned into this. Later the animals were transferred to cages and taken to the hunter's camp. General Shum Shere on arrival in Calcutta, announced to Buck that he would have to take the purchase price of 35,000 rupees ($12,600) with him in cash to Nepal and pay it when the rhinos were delivered. This in itself represented a danger, for Buck remarks that in certain outlying provinces in India there are bandits willing to murder the traveler just for practice. But Shum Shere was firm, no other arrangement was possible. With his native assistant, Lal, Buck started for Rauxal, the rail head. Twenty hours out of Calcutta on the train they came to a crossing of the River Ganges. It happened to be in one of its periodical floods. Rail officials told them it would be at least a month before they could cross with freight. Then came a difficult decision. Buck had a great horde of animals of every kind and description in his compound at Singapore, and others waited at one or two stops on the way. They were in the hands of native attendants. Should he wait for the Ganges to subside and be certain of getting his rhinos or should he go to Singapore and sail for Frisco with his animals, taking a chance that he could still get his rhinoceroses on his return to India? After he had succeeded in getting a messenger to the Maharajah of Nepal and a reply that the rhinos were in excellent condition and would be held for him, he left for Calcutta, got his animals aboard a ship at Singapore and came back across the Pacific. It was the biggest collection ever got together aside from those contained in the very largest zoos. He disposed of all his trophies, called on Dr. Hornaday and a few weeks later was back in India.

Hoisting a young elephant over the sides.

Again he started out for the long rail journey to Rauxal, at the boundaries of Nepal, with some 50,000 rupees strapped in a belt around his waist. With Lal he reached the remote camp where a native major was in charge. This gentleman proved very surly and officious. Before the beasts were moved at all he demanded the 35,000 rupees, whereas the agreement with Shum Shere had called for payment upon delivery at the rail head. The situation began to look a little ugly. The native officer had some undisciplined Ghurka troops. He swaggered and strutted, looked menacing. Buck pulled out his revolver and examined it significantly to show that he meant business. It was really an idle gesture, for Nepal is entirely cut off from the outside world, foreigners may not enter without special permission of the Maharajah. And Buck could have been murdered very easily and no one the wiser—simply another adventurer swallowed up in the vastness of India.

AT LAST by a bit of diplomacy that included the generous use of Shum Shere's name—Buck talked as though he had been his oldest friend—the Nepalese officer gave way and the long procession started for Rauxal, the rhinos in teakwood cages. These cages, or rather crates, were loaded on bullock carts drawn by four water buffalo each. Alongside marched 40 to 50 Ghurka soldiers to steady the conveyances, push them out of mudholes, ruts, etc., while directly back of the carts came three elephants each carrying a huge load of fodder for the animals, green leaves of the jack fruit tree piled about eight feet high on top of each elephant's back. Following the elephants were two bullock carts carrying supplies and behind this a native carriage in which Lal rode. Buck and the Nepalese major acted as grand marshals for this parade, riding up and down the line, keeping everything in order.

At Rauxal two flat cars awaited the caged animals. They were put aboard and the long journey back to Calcutta began. All along the way it was necessary for Lal and another native to keep the most careful guard over the rhino cages. The reason for this is the fact that the Indians regard rhinoceros horn as an aphrodisiac. Every time the train stopped, a crowd would gather and even swarm up over the cages if someone was not present to rap a few heads. Despite the closest watch, a piece was gouged out of the soft horn of one of the young rhinos. When the rhinos, along with numerous other specimens, were put aboard the President Wilson, placed on the forward deck between the hatches, Buck felt that at last he could relax. He had lost 20 pounds, he discovered, on the strenuous job.

EVENTS of the voyage soon dispelled the hope of any relaxation or rest. The boat encountered a typhoon. Under ordinary seas the forward deck of the President Wilson would have been sufficiently high out of the water but the storm lashed great waves that beat over the caged animals. The rhinos' crates had been securely fastened to the deck, but under the impact of the waters they loosened and Buck, standing on the bridge with Captain Henry Nelson, saw the immediate prospect of losing not only his precious rhinos but most of his other specimens.

The great crates had started to slip ominously. Despite the warning of the captain and the other officers on the bridge, Buck fought wind and water on the exposed deck for three and a half hours before he was able to get the crates firmly lashed again. The captain said afterward that he had expected with each deluging wave to see the animal collector swept overboard.

From San Francisco the rhinos went across country on a train. The day they reached New York Buck heaved an enormous sigh of relief. The delight of Dr. Hornaday and Dr. Penrose and a bonus of $1000 from each was partial compensation for the terrible strain and anxiety he had been under.

Buck must be a man of iron temperament, for every phase of his business is one nerve strain after another. Take the case of the proboscis monkey. It was one of Buck's "firsts," meaning no other collector had ever been able to get one before He found a pair in the possession of a Malay trader in Dutch Borneo through the services of his No. 1 boy and chief assistant, Ali. Back in Singapore, the two rare monkeys were not placed in the compound with the other animals but were put in charge of Ali who took them to his home and fed and tended them as though they had been babies, his own babies. They both seemed to thrive. The female gave birth to a healthy young one. Then, with no apparent cause, just before they were to be taken aboard ship, the male died. The mother, occupied with her baby, did not grieve overmuch.

In fact, she seemed to flourish on the sea air. But despite all Buck's precautions a careless deck hand soused the cage with cold salt water. In two or three days the little one was dead. Buck took every means of consoling the mother. He offered her the choicest things to eat. The passengers visited her daily. She refused

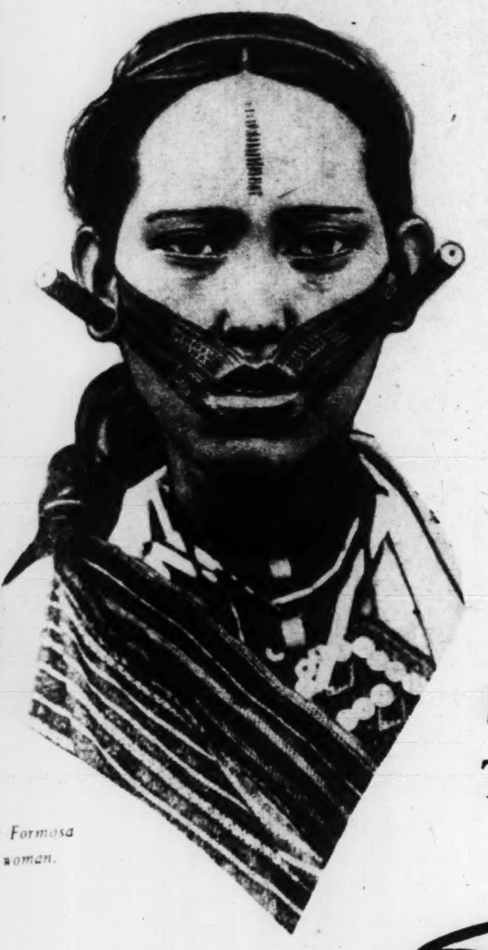
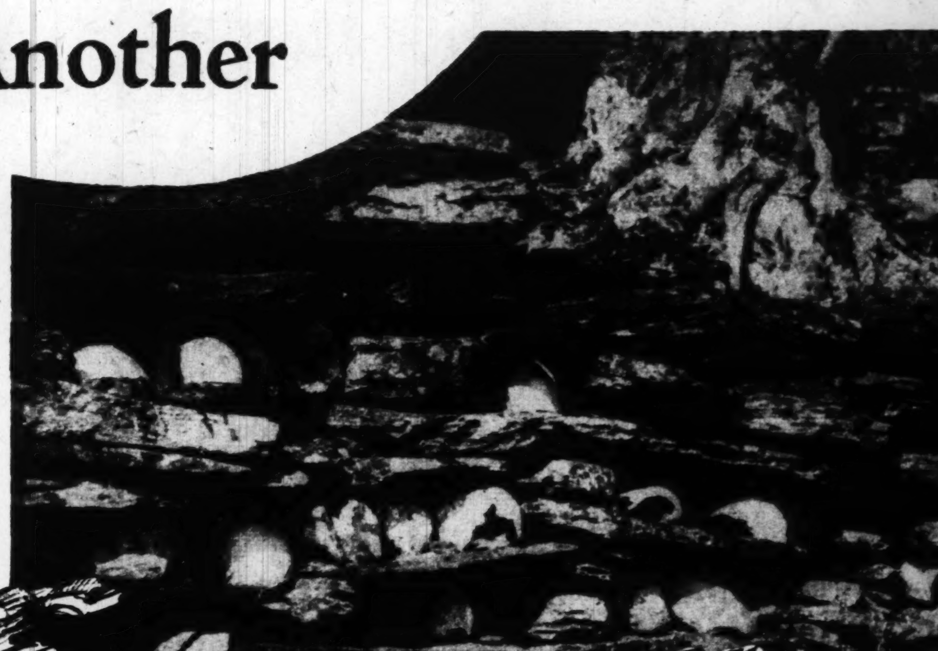
Formosa Head-Hunters in Another Murderous Outbreak

Japanese Government Must Now Renew Its Fight Against the Wild Island Tribesmen.



A Formosa woman.



How a Formosa head-hunter stores his trophies.

By HUDSON GRUNEWALD

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

JAPAN'S 25-year struggle to free Formosa, rich and beautiful island possession in the Pacific, from the menace of its head-hunting aborigines has had a serious setback. Close on the heels of an announcement by the local island government of the successful termination of the long fight to subjugate the wild tribesmen of the mountainous interior, came news of a new uprising and the most frightful massacre since 1912. And now again the villagers in fear and dread must seek protection of the military, while efforts to conquer the savages are renewed.

Moving down through primeval forests from their mountain fastnesses to the edge of civilized territory, some 1500 bloodthirsty aborigines of the Taiyal tribe, many of them armed with guns seized when police outposts were wiped out, recently descended upon the village of Musha, murdered 86 of the inhabitants, 38 of whom were school children, and wounded 308 other persons.

It has been viewed as a desperate stand on the part of primitive man against the steady invasion of his natural haunts by civilized exploitation.

The problem in Formosa recalls the early frontier days in America when pioneers faced the menace of tommyhawk, scalping knife and poisoned arrow. Over the island where cities and towns have risen, farmers till the soil protected against savage attack by stockades and garrisoned blockhouses. Expeditions are sent out against hostile tribes, and intrepid woodsmen, vanguards of civilization, clearing the path and blazing the trail for the settlers, hew the forset under armed bodyguard.

THE actual cause of the present uprising is believed to lie in an electric power project being developed at Lake Kitsugetsutan, the savages having been told they must vacate tribal lands to be flooded after the construction of a dam at the lake. Other reasons suggested were oppressive supervision by Japanese police and interference by officials with ancient savage customs. But whatever the cause of the revolt, and whatever its outcome, Formosa has awakened to the fact that the menace which it thought had been subdued is still grimly present.

So determined were the savages to fight to the bitter end when they began the recent campaign that they burned their villages behind them after sending their women and children into the mountains. And after being driven from Musha, where they wrought such havoc, by a force of soldiers and police, the head-hunters withdrew to await reinforcements from other fierce tribes.

Subjugation of the savages in Formosa is no easy task. The total number of victims of violence recorded was 6918 at the close of 1927, and the Japanese Government had spent millions of yen and sent many expeditions into the tribal regions to otherwise suppress the aborigines. Under one plan of pacification the tribesmen were made to surrender their firearms as a mark of allegiance, and the number thus seized amounted to 21,523 pieces in 1927. The greatest number of lives lost by savage attack in a single year was 761 in 1912, as against 41 in 1918, 2 each in 1925 and 1926 and 9 in 1927. It is reported that until the recent outbreak there were few instances of violence in the last two or three years.

Educative measures have helped somewhat, and there existed on the island 176 teaching places, with 5105 attendants at the end of 1927. But there are still isolated tribes that have not been reached, and the only practical policy of complete subjugation seems to be the clearing up of the wild land. The magnitude of this task will be appreciated when it is considered that 80 per cent of the island's total area is wilderness and that more than one-half of this is the aborigines' district noted for vast forests and lofty mountains, several exceeding 10,000 feet in height.

There are nine different savage tribes and clans in Formosa, and they number more than 140,000 people. All are of probably Malayan and Polynesian origin, closely resembling the Dyaks of Borneo. They are of two distinct types, the "wild," or "green," savages, called Sheng-Fan by the Japanese, living in a primitive state, refusing to recognize authority and carrying on raids whenever the opportunity presents; and the semi-civilized aborigines, who, partly subjugated, have adopted the manners and customs of the Chinese and Japanese settlers.

The savage head-hunters belong almost exclusively to the Taiyal tribes, or northern aborigines, and occupy a little less than half of the unexplored regions. They are distinguished from the southern aborigines group, which includes Tsaisetto, Vonum, Tsio, Tsarien, Taiwan, Puyuma, Amis, Peipo and Yami tribes.

The people are described as of "middle height, broad-chested and muscular, with remarkably large hands and feet, the eyes large, the forehead round and not narrow or receding, the nose broad, the mouth large and disfigured with betel."

The custom of tattooing is universal among the "green savages," and head-hunting, a custom once prevalent among all Malay races, is still widely practiced. Head-hunting is closely associated with the religious and social life of the savages, but its purpose varies in different clans. In some it is a marriage custom, no brave being permitted to take a wife until he has presented her relatives with a head; in others, a superstition, the heads being kept to ward away evil spirits, and in still others a mark of prowess, the tribesmen having the greatest number of heads being considered the greatest heroes.

"In every savage village the open-air skull museum is a matter of civic pride," says an authority, "and most chiefs have their private collections of skulls as well."

A chief's private collection.

The Sheng-Fan have always been noted for their tendency to cling to their homesteads, harboring a natural resentment against the raiders who come to disposses them. As the Chinese and Japanese settlers ventured into the upland forests where camphor, the most valuable product of the island, is found, they were ambushed by the hillmen. The hillmen in this manner amassed a large collection of human heads.

But while the head-hunting tribes were a dangerous impediment to the development of the camphor industry, they actually served as an agency of conservation before reforestation laws were put into effect, for were it not for this menace the valuable camphor forests would have soon been laid waste. Today there are still large areas of virgin camphor forests intact in the savage territory. Camphor production, of which Formosa holds a virtual monopoly because of the extent of its supply and the quality of its trees, none finer being found in any other region of the globe, is the island's principal industry.

Various means have been employed to safeguard the camphor workers, whose lives, when they penetrate the interior, are ever in danger from savage raids and ambush. Ax-men are accompanied by armed guards, and the forest camphor stills, where the crude drug is collected, are constantly policed.

THE operation of these stills is simple. Woodmen gouge chips from the trunks of the camphor trees, and the chips are placed in a retort over boiling water. The vapor which issues passes through submerged pipes cooled by water from mountain springs, and there crystalizes. The product is then removed, and the free oil, yielding 90 per cent crude camphor when refined, is drained off and collected. Crystals and oil are then packed in tins and transported on the backs of coolies to storage bases near the railway lines.

A means which proved most efficacious in protecting the camphor operations from savage attack was the stringing of a 100-mile barrier of highly charged electric wires from Karenko, about midway on the east coast, to Pinan, in the south.

An article by Alice Kirjarsoff in the National Geographic Magazine some years ago gave the following description: "The trees for 20 feet on both sides of the barrier have been cleared away to prevent the savages from crossing the wire by felling trees on it. At a distance of every half-mile along the route blockhouses are situated, and a sentry paces the beat between two posts all day long to see that the wire has not been tampered with or any holes burrowed underneath.

"At first the electric current was turned on only at night, the usual time for a savage raid, but the wily head-hunters soon discovered this, as they noticed that no smoke issued from the powerhouse by day. Then as they turned their night raids into daylight expeditions the Japanese were obliged to turn on the current by day as well.

"This device, although not exactly a cheap one, has done much to develop the fertile plain to the west of the barricade, as many Japanese agriculturists have been attracted to this region now that they can live there in comparative safety."

Head-hunters of the Taiyal tribe

Like the camphor industry, the development of the tea industry in Formosa has also depended upon the subjugation of the savage tribes and protection against hostile attack, for many of the present plantations are in the aboriginal districts. Formosa tea is famous the world over, Oolong being the best known variety. At present the yearly production amounts nearly to 18,000 "kin," about 24,000 pounds, and forms one of the principal items of export, the annual shipment approximating 17,000,000 kin, valued at about 10,000,000 yen, or $5,000,000.

AT ONE time guns and ammunition were smuggled into the savage territory, and despite the seizure of firearms during raids and the surrender of many pieces by the savages in compliance with the pacification proposals of the Japanese authorities, it is believed that numerous tribes are still armed. It is the possession of firearms that makes the problem of the head-hunter difficult to cope with. Whenever uprisings occur, such as the recent one in the Musha district, the tribesmen first attack the forest police outposts and in this way add to their supply of guns and ammunition.

In each tribe there are blacksmiths who keep the guns in good condition, and the savages have shown rare skill in the making of wooden bullets from the heart of a very hard wood; the pellets spread like dum-dum bullets when they find their mark and are extremely deadly. In hunting it is known that the savages use bows and arrows, saving their guns and ammunition for human prey.

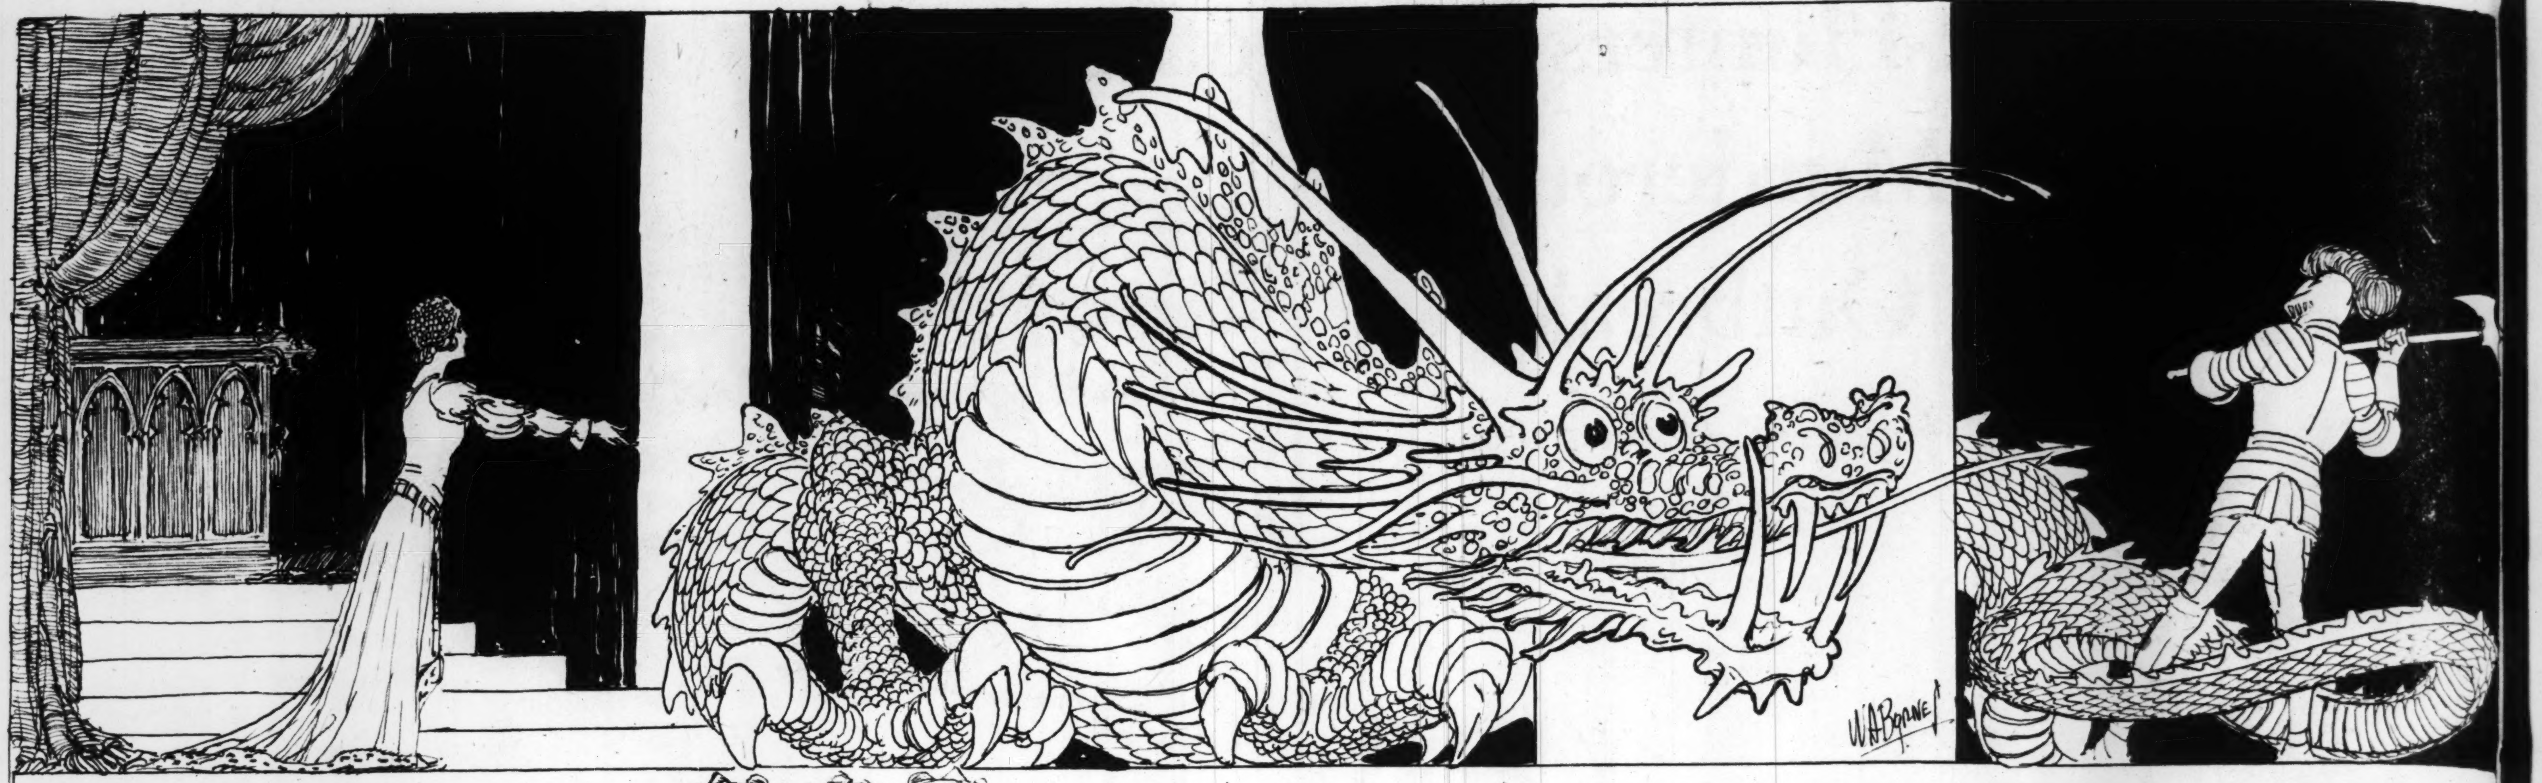
Ilha Formosa (Beautiful Isle), thus named by early Portuguese voyagers impressed with the striking beauty of its scenery, was formerly a Chinese possession, known to them as Taiwan, and the name was unchanged when it was ceded to the Japanese in 1895.

IN POINT of beauty it probably is unrivaled by any other island in the Pacific. To the west a narrow alleuvial plain, richly cultivated by industrious Chinese living in towns and villages, slopes gently to the sea. Eastwards the country rises into mountainous ranges covered with virgin forests of camphor and other large trees beneath whose shade wild beasts and wild men fight for subsistence. Mount Morrison, which stands exactly under the Tropic of Cancer, forms the culminating point of the island and is the largest peak of the whole Japanese Empire, as it has an altitude of 14,350 feet, or 2000 feet more than Fuji. For this reason the Japanese have rechristened it Nu-takayama, that is, the New Lofty Mountain. The cliffs of the east coast of Formosa are the highest and most precipitous in the world, towering in places sheer 6000 feet from the water's edge.

Tea, camphor, sugar, fruits and vegetables of almost every kind are produced in great quantities on the island, while coal and gold are known to abound, although these valuable minerals have scarcely been touched.

Under Japanese administration Formosa has prospered and developed despite every handicap. Harbor improvements have been made, railways and bridges built and a road system begun. Education has been advanced, communities have grown, old industries are thriving and new ones are being established, while foreign trade is on a steady increase.

It seems certain that with renewed efforts on the part of the Government to push farther into the interior, opening up additional wilderness and subduing the uncivilized, dangerous tribes of the mountain land, Formosa will prove the richest island treasure of the Japanese Empire.



Spain's Invalid Prince Wins the Right to Kingship

PARIS.

A YOUNG man, sturdy, vigorous and deeply bronzed by the sun, jumped lightly from a train at the Gare d'Orleans one morning not long ago.

"Welcome to France, your Royal Highness!" exclaimed a delegation of prominent functionaries from the Foreign Ministry, and though they appeared calm enough, they were in reality astounded.

What was this mystery? A short time ago the Prince of the Asturias, eldest son of King Alfonso XIII and heir to the Spanish throne, had been reported so feeble that all hope had been given up of his ever reigning, and here he was in the flesh, looking as fit as a gladiator!

"And your highness had a pleasant journey from Madrid?" The dignitaries chattered, scarcely believing their senses when their hands were shaken with a strong grip. "It was not too tiresôme, too fatiguing? Your highness does not wish to take a little rest for several hours before going about?"

The young Prince of the Asturias—he is now 23—laughed heartily at their ill-concealed anxieties, squaring his shoulders with the pride of healthy youth.

"Why, gentlemen, a little trip from Madrid is nothing for a person who chops down a dozen big trees a day," he declared. "You should see me swing an ax! I could chop one down this very minute! Tired? Not a bit, thank you. I wish to go to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier to pay my homage at once."

And then it suddenly dawned on them, as it has since dawned on all the chancelleries of Europe, that the journey of the Prince of the Asturias—the first official visit he has ever made abroad—was a remarkable and significant gesture on the part of King Alfonso and Queen Victoria to let the world know of a most unusual healing that has solved the agonizing question of the dynastic succession in Spain, and also lifted a heavy weight of sorrow from the hearts of the Spanish royal family.

IT IS one of those stirring human dramas like the tales of a young knight of the Middle Ages who fought a dragon until utterly exhausted, was almost swallowed up and then by a superhuman effort slew his enemy.

As late as two or three years ago, the leading French and English specialists despaired of Prince Alfonso ever succeeding his father. Like the ill-fated Czarevitch of Russia, the handsome young Crown Prince suffered from haemophilia, a strange blood disease that, commencing with the Duchess of Kent, mother of the late Queen Victoria of England, has run through half of the reigning families of the Old World. Queen Victoria's own son, the Duke of Albany, suffered from it, and some of her daughters transmitted it. The Czarevitch and the Prince of the Asturias, both descendants of Queen Victoria, are only two among many victims. The young Viscount Trematon, son of the Earl of Athlone and Princess Alice, died of this malady following a motor car accident in France last year.

"It is an hereditary abnormality in the composition of blood. The exact nature of this abnormality can be surmised, but the reason of its hereditary nature has so far baffled all investigators. The character of the hereditary element is of itself a conundrum, for there is a sex factor in operation. Thus, males suffer from the disease, but cannot transmit it; whereas females transmit, but never suffer from it. It descends in the female line. A bleeder, as the sufferer is called, is a person who bleeds profusely from any slight injury, and the resulting hemorrhage is extremely difficult to arrest. Bleeders usually have very bad teeth, but the extraction of a tooth is a most perilous adventure, from which few really bad bleeders ever recover. There are, of course, degrees of severity in haemophilia. The worst cases are those which appear in early infancy. Apart from the risk to life occasioned by profuse external bleeding, a bleeder is a chronic invalid, who is a source of very serious anxiety to all concerned, for he may at any moment suffer from a profuse internal hemorrhage. For some unexplained reason the hemorrhages favor the night. A slight scratch occurring during the day, which gave no trouble at the time, will start bleeding busily during the night."

In the case of Prince Alfonso, the malady was particularly severe. As a boy he was unable to indulge in any sport, for the least knock or blow meant many days in bed. His health was so delicate that he was a semi-invalid. The doctors and specialists who were called in declared that he might live to a normal age, if he took particularly good care of himself, but that it was out of the question for him to take over the heavy responsibilities of a throne. They also advised against his marrying, which was a serious blow to the chances of a future King.

FOR King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, their son's invalidism was a trial that seemed to stretch out to infinity. It was not only because he was their son, but the Prince of the Asturias is such a charming, likeable boy. To see him day after day in such a state, and to live in constant fear was a gnawing tragedy.

The situation was further complicated because the elder son's illness compromised the dynasty. It is always dangerous for a ruling family to eliminate from the succession a son who may later receive a miraculous recovery, and suddenly claim his rights. In this case it meant eliminating another son for Prince Jaime, the second child, has difficulty with his voice and his hearing and is not eligible for the throne. To ask Parliament, and there has been no Parliament in Spain since 1923, to throw the dynastic succession over to the third son, Prince Juan, was an extremely delicate business that might run into all sorts of dangerous snags. This would also hurt the feelings of the two elder sons. The enemies of the monarchy would question the legality of such an act for years to come, and thereby throw the country into confusion.

The Common Sense of a Doctor Has Apparently Halted the Dread Disease That Menaced the Heir to the Throne.

A photograph of Alfonso in 1927.

In the midst of this unhappy quandary, an elderly Spanish doctor, Dr. Pittaluca, who knew very little about haemophilia but a lot about humanity in general, managed two years ago to get King Alfonso's ear.

"Majesty, I believe that I can heal the Crown Prince," he declared boldly. "We all see that the present treatment is not a success. It is useless to combat the disease; what we must do is to build up the Prince's strength and fight the malady that way. I have a plan in which I have great hope. Will you entrust him to me for a year or two?"

The King was greatly interested, but insisted on knowing the details of the scheme.

"I propose to take the Prince to one of your estates in the mountains, Majesty, and let him live, play, work and sleep outdoors," the old doctor explained. "He will abandon all medicine and medical treatment, and the subject of his health will be barred in conversation and in letters from the family. This fresh air treatment will commence gradually, of course. The Prince must also give up his special diet, and simply eat any good, healthy food he cares for, particularly milk and eggs. If he must carry on his studies, they should be reduced to a minimum. I want him to spend the whole day in the woods, and sleep nine or ten hours at night. There will be little time for studies. Will you take the chance—the last chance?"

KING ALFONSO and Queen Victoria thought it was an excellent idea, packed the Prince's baggage and shipped him off to a mountain estate about 100 miles from Madrid.

That was two years ago, and from then on the Prince of Asturias commenced to grow better. Instead of a confined existence at the royal palace in Madrid, he walked all day long through the pine woods, tumbling into bed at night, often by a camp fire, dead tired. Within a few weeks he was chopping down trees, exercise that would have terrified him and brought on a severe crisis a short time before. Other days he swam in the mountain lakes.

As the weeks and months passed, the Prince grew more and more sturdy. His body and muscles filled out, and the little hemorrhages stopped entirely. The heavy burden of his own fear gave way to high-hearted courage. He even became hardened to severe winter weather, resisting colds and bronchial troubles like an old woodsman.

The specialists and court doctors who had formerly treated the Prince were astounded by his new health. In fact, it is probably the first time that this strange malady has been at least temporarily halted.

For King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, overjoyed beyond expression, the Prince's improved health was the destruction of a nightmare that was particularly terrifying in the light of the baneful influence it had thrown on the Russian court. The royal families of Europe know only too well how the young Czarevitch's predisposition to hemorrhages threw the Empress into the power of the notorious monk Rasputin, who claimed to exert a mystic religious influence that would arrest the attacks, and how his interference in affairs of state finally brought discredit on the Imperial family. Ever since the massacre of Ekaterinburg, this dread disease has been like a spectre in the closets of the dynasties it has touched. It is the first question asked when Kings and Queens think of marrying their children. The families that have escaped this royal malady avoid it like the scourge. They say it brings bad luck.

THE improvement in the Prince's condition also brought the solace that he can probably marry now. As long as he was an invalid, marriage was out of the question, and that weakened his prospects of ever ascending the throne. It is a sacred duty for rulers to carry on their dynasty, of course. A rumor, said to be authoritative, has the Prince engaged to Infanta Maria Esperanza, 16-year-old Andalusian beauty, daughter of Infante Carlos de Bourbon and the Princess Luisa Francisca of Orleans.

A few weeks ago, the old doctor who had supervised his outdoors treatment decided that the cure was complete, and that the Prince of the Asturias could return to the royal family at Madrid. No one pretends that he has the constitution of an ordinary boy of his age, nor that the attacks will never recur, but the improvement in the Prince's condition almost amounts to a miracle.

It is court superstition that Prince Alfonso suffered from prenatal shock, as well as haemophilia. His father and mother were driving through the streets of Madrid on their wedding day, May 31, 1906, when an anarchist threw a bomb which wrecked their carriage, and killed twelve sightseers, as well as the carriage horses. This was a terrible blow, and Queen Victoria was still affected by it when her eldest son was born on May 10 of the following year.

To celebrate this happy recovery, and to put an end to the rumors that Prince Alfonso had been eliminated from the succession—rumors that were substantially true at the time—the King and Queen decided to send their son on his first official visit abroad. Such a visit means only one thing—that the boy is being trained for the throne.

QUEEN VICTORIA, who belongs to the English royal family, suggested that he be sent to London, but King Alfonso voted for Paris. One day in Paris in 1905 an anarchist threw a bomb at King Alfonso and President Loubet of France as they were leaving the Comedie Francaise. The bomb blew their carriage horses to pieces, but the King remained as cool as a cucumber.

Every time he has come to Paris since then he has refused to have any special precautions taken. He wanted to show the French that he had courage, and that his son was made of the same stuff.

That would seem to leave little doubt about his state of health.

THE picture postcard business of three-fourths of Europe is heading for a nervous breakdown, if not a complete disorganization. For years the makers and venders of these tourist necessities have gone along printing from the same old photographs, turning out View of Unter den Linden, and Stockholm, the Venice of the North, by the thousands. Latterly the more observing travelers have noticed a little something wrong with these printed views; but, being in a hurry to catch the next train or boat, they bought and paid for the cards, scribbled on them, gave them to the porter to mail, and rushed away.

This happy state of affairs for the postcard makers cannot continue beyond another tourist season. Things are happening to the familiar views; the old skylines show strange eruptions in the midst of sleepy cathedrals and dozing town halls. It will not be long before an entirely new set of cards will have to be made, for modernistic architecture has asserted itself at last in practically every country of Europe, from the cool arms of the Baltic to the sunny streets of Madrid.

There has been a great deal of talk about this modernism in the past few months, especially in Northern Europe. An exposition at Stockholm which opened last May was largely devoted to architecture, especially of that type termed functionalistic by the Swedes, and which is the especial brand sponsored by one of their foremost architects, E. G. Asplund. Simplicity, fine craftsmanship, feeling for line, are the essentials, according to the Swedish master builders, and they have erected not only exposition examples of such structures, but throughout the city of Stockholm, especially in its newer residential sections, modernist architecture is the accepted form of most new building.

Communal housing schemes have given many opportunities in Sweden to construct examples in this style. Besides simplicity and an evidence of structural strength, these new buildings provide abundance of sunshine. A large proportion of every room's wall area is window space. The interior arrangements provide luxuries and comforts hitherto undreamed of in Sweden, even for the well-to-do, and for the most part the communal schemes are for laboring people or for those slightly better off in salaries than day laborers.

THERE are many comforts discernible to the visitor who ventures inside the buildings. But even if the tourist does nothing more than skim through the streets in a motor car, his eyes are refreshed, after too much looking at the gray stone and brick buildings of the old city, by these new, tinted stucco structures. They are rearing their heads in the old streets, pointing to a new era of living with space, airiness and sunshine.

Similar communities are found in the suburbs of Berlin, with still more striking evidences of modernism in the city itself. There are new restaurants of modernist structure, and other public buildings, apartment houses, theaters. Dusseldorf, Hamburg, Stuttgart and other German cities have greatly changed the vistas of once "quaint" streets. A visit to the suburbs of Berlin beyond Gruenwald reveals co-operative groups and other units of modernist apartments so different from the old Germany that to see them is like stepping onto another planet. Here, as with the Swedish modernist structures, tinted stucco gives not only a varied aspect to the buildings, but this use of contrasting colors serves to take away from any factory-like monotony. Variety in height and shape has also prevailed. Gardens and trees, lakes and playgrounds are plentiful, so that these communities in no sense give the impression that they are merely experimental. The new style is accepted, evidently with eagerness, if one may judge by the long lists of Berlin citizens who have applied for space in the new buildings under construction.

Some of the new apartments in the various communities adjacent to Berlin appear to be detached houses, for there is not only an individual flower garden in front of most of them but space at the rear for vegetables and fruits. The rents are amazingly low; two-and-a-half and three room apartments average about $20 a month. There are larger apartments, with correspondingly increased rents, the renter in most cases applying his rent to the purchase price. He is already the owner and is given this easy way of completing payment. Department store employes, young doctors, architects, laborers, many types of German families, live in these.

Similar structures abound in and around Vienna. Paris as yet shows no outstanding evidences of radical modernism in the business streets, although new apartment groups are in this style, and the proposed new theater and restaurant building, housing six or eight theaters and an equal number of restaurants under one roof, will be exotically modern in design. Interiors among the new French decorators are radically modern, reaching heights which the cooler countries to the north have not cared to attempt.

In Prague, where one finds the old baroque architecture everywhere in evidence, Gothic spires, Teutonic bridges, Spanish and Italian motifs, and such a blending of periods and styles as to defy classifications, the younger architects have been for 20 years struggling to project modernism into the skyline. In the new parts of the city residential groups are erected in this style. There are modernist business buildings, restaurants, schools, churches, chamber of commerce auditoriums.

Outside Prague, on the shores of the Vltava, a unique modernist restaurant has been erected, spread on river terraces one above the other, unlike any other structure in Europe, except that it is of the gleaming white stucco, metal and glass generally employed in modernist buildings. Great areas of windows make it in summer and winter a sunlight pavilion for dining, dancing and swimming.

And Holland. Can it be that the canals and dikes, the beautiful old houses are to be overshadowed in time by such arrogant evidences of the new day? In Amsterdam blocks of medieval houses have been replaced with new brick apartments which follow the modern tradition in simplicity of exterior facades, in abundance of window space, in unusual structural detail. The use of red brick, however, in place of stucco has somewhat modified the modernist appearance of these buildings, relating them to the older buildings which were also of brick.

But the skyline, the faces presented to the street by these new buildings, the radical display of window space, curves where once only straight lines were seen, balconies where balconies never before dared venture, all are bold departures from the Dutch tradition.

In England there are fewer evidences of innovation in architecture, although the new Underground Building and a few others in London are in some aspects modernist.

BUT English decorators of the younger school have gone in enthusiastically for the modern in interior embellishment. Some country houses have thrown out their Queen Anne and Chippendale, replacing it with functionalistic furniture, modernist fabrics and colorful rugs in the new spirit.

Italy and Spain have ventured a few such structures, but these seem obvious novelties in the southern countries. There is lacking the widespread, eager effort on the part of the city governments and architects to keep pace with modern ideas in building. Further north designers, architects, builders and fanciers are reaching for the sky with stucco and steel, and for the sun with shining window glass.

TRAILING A GERM THAT HAS EVADED SCIENCE FOR 2000 YEARS

Dr. Ida A. Bengtson and Her Single-Handed Microbe Hunt at Rolla, Missouri.

ROLLA, Missouri.

ARMED with test tubes, microscope and a small menagerie, a woman is engaged here in a single-handed microbe hunt. She has been at it for five years, for this microbe is as elusive as a shadow, having escaped pursuers for 2000 years or so. She probably will be at it five years hence if the bacteriological will-o-the-wisp is still uncaptured.

Dr. Ida A. Bengtson of the National Institute of Health, United States Public Health Service, is trying to identify the organism responsible for trachoma, the eye disease which was mentioned in writings of the ancient Greeks and Egyptians, which scourged Europe in the Middle Ages, and which is causing an important part of the blindness in the United States. She is one of the little band of Federal employes who, through operation of a trachoma hospital here, of clinics and field work from this headquarters and maintenance of a research laboratory, have made Rolla the chief American battle front in the war on this disease.

While co-operating with the hospital and working under the direction of the National Institute of Health at Washington, Dr. Bengtson is carrying on an independent research in that she is not collaborating with any other bacteriologist. Her laboratory is a small room in Parker Hall of the Missouri School of Mines. She works with student assistants and volunteer helpers from the hospital staff and has a keeper for her menagerie. The animals which she uses in experiments are guinea pigs, rabbits, one horse and a colony of small monkeys which usually number between 25 and 40. The business of the rabbits and the horse is to furnish blood for culture media, the substance in which bacteria are cultivated. The monkeys and guinea pigs serve to test the effects of various bacteria.

For the last two years the bacteriologist's work has been concerned to some extent with attempting to verify the findings of Dr. Hideyo Noguchi, the late Japanese scientist, who studied trachoma among the Indians of New Mexico. In 1927 he reported isolation of an organism which he called bacterium granulosis, and which he had found in four out of five patients.

INOCULATING monkeys with this bacillus, he produced in them an eye disease resembling the trachoma of human beings. When Noguchi died soon after his announcement, he left for subsequent investigators two difficult problems: Is bacterium granulosis the inciting micro-organism of trachoma? Was the disease which he produced in monkeys the true equivalent of trachoma in man?

In the hundreds of cultures which Dr. Bengtson has made of organisms taken from the eyes of trchoma sufferers she has not found the germ reported by Noguchi. This might convince the unscientific that bacterium granulosis is not a universal factor in trachoma. It does not convince Dr. Bengtson. The evidence is insufficient. Perhaps the microbe can be recognized only under the exact conditions prevailing when Dr. Noguchi found it and she has not happened to duplicate those conditions in her expriments. She continues the search, examining bacilli taken at various stages of the disease, varying her procedure, in an effort to cover all possible conditions.

Dr. Bengtson inoculated monkeys with the bacterium granulosis, and found that some of them developed sore eyes with granulations on the inside of the lid similar to those in trachoma; also that the ailment was transmitted from the inoculated eye to the other. But the malady which appeared in the monkeys could not be identified certainly as the equivalent of human trachoma. Similarly, inoculation of monkeys with germs taken from trachoma patients at Rolla failed to produce unmistakably the disease in the animals. That again, in Dr. Bengtson's view, proves chiefly that more inoculations are needed. Her position is that her experiments have not given her scientific basis for either confirming or disputing Noguchi's theory.

A good deal of Dr. Bengtson's work here has been the study of inclusion bodies, minute organisms which are found in substance taken from the eyes of some trachoma victims. They are under suspicion of playing a significant part in the disease. Dr. Bengtson has described the inclusion bodies in various stages, traced their development, and advanced the theory that they are bacterial in character. Her findings are given in a pamphlet issued by the United States Public Health Service. She made a report on her work with Noguchi's bacillus at the conference of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness last year.

While Dr. Bengtson and other bacteriologists are working to isolate the vital germ of trachoma with the hope, once that is done, of devising a curative serum, a fairly successful fight is being waged against the disease with the means available. The means are educational, medical and surgical. The education consists principally of teaching people of trachoma-infested regions to observe ordinary rules of hygiene, such as discontinuing the use of a common family towel through which the infection is spread, and eating proper food to assist the body in resisting disease. The medical treatment used by Dr. J. E. Smith, medical officer in charge of the Rolla hospital, is to treat the eyes once a day with silver nitrate solution or copper sulphate or argyrol, and several times a day with boric acid solution after removing some of the infected tissue from the inside of the eyelid. When the lids are sufficiently scarred over to prevent new follicles—the red eruptions which irritate the eyeball—from forming, the patient begins using a zinc solution. Sometimes surgical operations are necessary. One is the entropion, which draws the lid out so the lashes won't scratch the eyeball. Another is the removal of pannus, an overgrowth of tissue on the cornea.

THESE measures are being taken in the Federal campaign centering in Rolla, of which Dr. Carl E. Rice, surgeon, United Stataes Public Health Service, is in charge, and by the State of Missouri, which, in addition to co-operating with the Government in trachoma eradication and prevention, carries on trachoma work on its own account through the State Department of Health and the Missouri Commission for the Blind. Treatment is given at clinics as well as in the hospital. Nearly 35,000 persons have been treated at the Federal clinics in Missouri and 1609 in the hospital since that institution was established in 1923.

One naturally wonders about the effectiveness of the approved treatment. Public Health Service doctors

CLACKETY-clack clack, clackety-clack-clack! The endless reiteration of the clicking of the wheels on the joints, set opposite one another, instead of being staggered our way, filled the drafty freight car. The dim light of the swinging lantern illuminated the vehicle, vaguely limning the bulky figure swathed in blankets and lying on top of a row of nail kegs in one end. Above the thumping clatter another noise arose, interrupting the shrill monotone of wheels and rails—up front the engine was shrieking violently.

Aroused by the new noise the figure under the huddle of blankets stirred, grunted, twisted and finally, with a grumbled curse, sat up. And as it did a whole arsenal of weapons was shed from the extemporized bunk.

A sawed-off shotgun and two automatics rolled to the car floor, followed by a shower of bandoliers and pistol clips. Jimmy Moorehead, Second Lieutenant of Infantry, and champion hard luck collector of the American Expeditionary Force in Siberia, was awakening.

Fully dressed, he slid to the floor, clumsily climbed into his moleskin, fleece-lined overcoat, hung his bandoliers, pistols and clips about him, picked up the shotgun and moved—a walking arsenal—to the side door as the train began to slow down bumpily to the grip of the airbrakes.

Carefully unlatching a multiplicity of bolts and catches, Jimmy slipped the door open and poked his head out into the cold dawn. The gray reflection of the snow showed him a web of tracks, with here and there green and red signal lights, and beyond them the white lights of a town of considerable importance. Chita, it must be. And Chita was where he might expect trouble! He shivered. The engine kept up its aimless whistling. The Russian engineer must be calling for the right of way through the yard. The squealing brakes brought the cars to a grinding stop. From the caboose just behind a man swung himself off and tramped past. Jimmy hailed him.

"What place is this? Why are we stopping?"

The voice of the Russian conductor answered him.

"Yaas, yaas, Chita. Must stop. Station master have orders. I come back."

JIMMY cursed again, closed the door against the icy blast, carefully fastened his bolts and catches and, squatting on his bunk, lit a cigarette. This was the way it had been for ages, it seemed—ever since they had left Irkutsk; always waiting for orders; vexatious delays on sidings while other trains ran on.

There was a rumbling of voices and squeaking footsteps on the snow outside. Someone thumped on the door and called out in Russian.

"What do you want?" roared Jimmy in English.

More guttural Russian. Jimmy lit another cigarette from his butt. Let 'em holler.

"Meester officer! He's come orders from Ataman Seminoff. Says train fineesh here!"

"You tell Ataman Seminoff to go to hell! This train is running under United States Government orders!"

Gabble of voices by the door, then silence. Retreating footsteps, fading into nothingness.

Jimmy sighed in content; it had been easier than he had really expected. His peace of mind was shattered as a sudden application of the brakes drove the cars piling against one another with a savage bump that knocked him spinning to the floor, his armory clattering about him.

He picked himself up dizzily. The train was moving again, but backward now. What was going on? He fumbled once more with the door and slid it partly open. The dim light still showed him the railway yards, into which he was being backed, the train now running on a siding clear of the main line. Jimmy ground his teeth in impotent rage.

Once halted on the siding the engine emitted a series of tooting yowls, then, to the officer's horror, as he craned his neck, he saw it slip away and disappear. Where was the conductor? He looked back towards the caboose, but saw nothing. He shouted. No answer. At last he gave up. He was marooned, helpless in the Chita yards. And Seminoff, ruling the trans-Baikal area with robber hand, wanted the train of ordnance stores—and other things—of which he was in charge!

The whole business was so stupid, he reflected. Why had he not been given a detachment to guard his train? Did they expect him, single-handed, to fight his way through all Siberia with a train of 30 freight cars? Well, at any rate, no one would get this particular car without some slight argument. He turned back and patted his shotgun lovingly.

"Hist!"

Jimmy whirled as if a snake had bitten him. Framed in the open doorway was a face. And such a face! Under a nondescript fur cap, a moon-like countenance, red and dirty, with little pig-like eyes, framed in a great unshaven stubble of red beard, was looking at him. In the half-light from the lantern and the gray of the early morning the aspect of his visitor was terrifying. Jimmy jammed the shotgun to his shoulder and loosed a load of buckshot in the general direction of the door, pulling the trigger even as the unknown ducked below the sights.

"Hey, yuh gol-dinged fool! Ef you-all don't stop pottin' at a Christian man, I'll come up there an' spank yuh so hard yuh'll be shedding eyeteeth all over this dod-blasted, God-forsaken excuse for a railroad. Yuh hear me?"

"Who are you and what do you want?" Jimmy called.

"Me, I'm a railroader, and ef yuh'll put up that artillery an' promise to keep cool, I'll come up an' talk. Looks like we might need each other."

"All right. Come to the door."

"No, I'll not shoot," the officer reassured him.

The massive man swung himself up through the door and stood in the car. His little eyes looked Jimmy up and down.

"Glad ter meet yuh, son," he said, extending a mammoth paw and shaking Jimmy's hand in an enthusiastic grip that he felt for hours. "Glad ter meet yuh. I'm Hatfield, Homer Hatfield, hogger on the Central Vermont for 20 years, till I come to take this Stevens railway job. Member of the brotherhood—got my union card here.

"An' now let's get together," he went on. "Seems to me like yore in a sorter jam here, be'ent yuh?"

Jimmy sat down on his bunk and motioned the big man to do likewise.

"What was the big idea in sendin' yuh out like this, alone, with a load of gold"——

Jimmy shrugged.

"I DON'T know. All I know is that headquarters at Verkhudinsk suddenly handed the detail to me, let me take my orderly along and gave me orders to run the train from Irkutsk to Vladivostok. There's a load of ordnance stores on board, too, besides the—the other stuff."

"Where've yuh got the gold?"

"It's—it's here. You're sitting on it."

The big man jumped. He stooped and examined the kegs.

"All fixed up as nails, hey? That's an idee! Well, after Seminoff looks over the rest of the train he'll find it. Nice present fer the big robber!"

"But I'll never give this up to Seminoff."

"Give it up? Lord love yuh! He won't ask yuh to give it up. He'll just confiscate it an' then let yuh go on your good way."

"This is the end for me, I suppose," Jimmy said, sorrowfully. "You see, I'm not in so good as it is. It seems as if everything I do is wrong. Everybody's sore at me now, and I thought when headquarters gave me this job it would make things right again — be a feather in my cap."

Jimmy stared.

"Desert this train? Of course not!"

Desert the train, yes— but take the gold with you. How about it?"

"Say! I'm sore enough now without having you try any bum jokes on me!"

"No joke, loot. Take an engine, put the kegs in the tender and — go! Wadja say?"

"Do you mean that?"

"I sure do, son. But yuh'll hev ter decide quick. It's gettin' light now, an' Seminoff an' his drunken pals'll be rollin' outer their beds soon. I'll find an engine an' I'll run her, but yuh'll hev ter fire her, an' that's no light job. Ef yore on, gimme one of them cannon of yourn an' I'll go hunt me up an engine."

"Here," and Jimmy pressed an automatic into the big paw.

"Keep yore eyes peeled fer me, son. I hain't goin' ter do much whistlin' when I come down the line. Stand ready to cover me ef they's anyone chasin' me."

And he disappeared.

Jimmy stood in the door and waited. The track alongside was empty. The next track contained a long line of freight cars, preventing any further view directly out. It seemed that he waited there for ages.

It was broad daylight now. Nervously he looked up and down the clear track beside him. He had no idea from which direction Hatfield would appear, if he showed up at all.

At last the pilot of an engine popped into view far up the track and came swiftly down the line. Her steam shut off some distance away, the engine rolled up, worn connecting rods clanking, leaky steam chests whispering, to stop opposite the treasure car. At the throttle was a worried Russian, while in her gangway stood Hatfield twirling a man-sized billet of firewood. He shouted something to the driver, who hurriedly piled out of the cab and approached the car door where Jimmy stood, all eyes.

"Come on, son," roared Hatfield, "shoot that baby into the car and set him to work on the kegs. I've gotta tinker with this steam kettle fer a minute. She hain't much to look at, but she's the best I could grab, offhand like. An' make it snappy—they's a puzzled train crew goin' ter ask how come when this snorter don't turn up!"

He turned into the cab and fussed about, while Jimmy put the Russian to work. They had the kegs trundled to the door when a roar from outside brought Jimmy out, shotgun in hand, with a rush. A Russian officer and three men were standing by the engine, arguing with Hatfield.

The officer had apparently lost patience, for as Jimmy looked out he pulled his revolver and leveled it at the big engineer, repeating something in Russian. Hatfield, wiping his hands on a bit of waste, began to climb out of the gangway.

"Hands up!" called Jimmy his shotgun covering the Russians.

The startled officer turned his head and Hatfield promptly pulled the pistol out of his grasp.

"Jump down an' cover 'em, bub," he ordered. "Put thet Russky engineer with 'em. I'll hev ter end this job myself."

HE GLANCED into the tender. With a growl of disapproval he swung back on board and began to toss firewood out. Then he tumbled out and began piling kegs from the car into the tender, handling the heavy kegs as if they had been thistledown. It took him only a short time to make the transfer, while Jimmy menaced the Russians with the gun.

"Darn shem ter waste all this firewood," the engineer grumbled as he worked. "Every stick out now means the sooner we gotta stop fer more. But's gotta be done. There we be, son. Give 'em a scare an' let's go!"

Jimmy waved the visitors on. They caught his meaning and started away. Hatfield, leaning from his cab, bellowed encouragement.

"Smashin' the Siberian cross - country records," chortled Hatfield. "Come on, loot." He leaned down and reached a hand to Jimmy, swinging him to the gang-way. "Stow yer guns an' start shootin' firewood inter that furnace, ef yuh want Mehitabel here to turn over. She's dropped 10 pounds already."

Deftly he dropped his reverse lever to the end of the worn quadrant, as deftly coaxed the throttle towards him. Mehitabel snorted, gave a protesting clank of connecting rods and waddled down the track. Jimmy grabbed at billets clumsily, opened the firebox door and stuffed them in, eliciting a growl from Hatfield.

"Hell's bells!" he roared. "Gotter make it more snappy than that. Think yore runnin' a kitchen stove? Keep at it, son, gimme steam an' I'll give the old girl a run."

Mehitabel hit the open switch to the main line with a lurch that knocked Jimmy first against the hot firebox, burning his fingers, then back into the gangway, and started galloping down the rails.

"Just thinkin' what they'd do to me for this in the States," Hatfield called. "'S the fust time I ever run by a board in me life. Set agin me, it was, red, with a jumpin'-jack of a switchman hollerin' and yellin'. They's a telegraft—Holy jumpin' Jehosephat!"

He jammed the throttle shut and Mehitabel skidded, shrieking, to a stop. Seizing the axe that hung in the tender Hatfield rushed out on the right of way and attacked the nearest telegraph pole.

His potent strokes shored through it in a moment, and it toppled down, its weight finally parting the wires with a reluctant twang.

"Hope we ain't too late," he explained, as he climbed back. "I'm shore gettin' awful dumb not to think of that before. But let's hope they ain't got wise as to what we're up to, or ain't thought quick enough to wire ahead to stop us."

It was noon when they finally drew up at a hamlet station and replenished their wood while a Japanese train guard gazed incuriously on. At the water tank Hatfield poured a welcome stream into Mehitabel's tender. While they were thus engaged the station master came running up, waving a piece of paper.

"Yuh talk to him, son," ordered the engineer. "Talk loud an' strong, too. They's somethin' wrong!"

THE station master poured out a stream of Russian, gesticulating wildly. Jimmy shrugged his shoulders. Hatfield, his task completed, pushed the swinging spout of the water tank back and climbed into his seat. The train guard, aroused by the station master's actions, approached.

Hatfield opened the throttle and Mehitabel moved on. The Russian shrieked and pointed in the direction from whence they had come. A plume of white smoke was rising from the trees a quarter of a mile behind.

"They're chasin' us with an engine, son, as I feared," calmly remarked the engineer. "We'll hev to see what the old girl kin do," and he opened the throttle wide. Jimmy, hurling more wood into the insatiable maw of the firebox, felt the engine jump from beneath his feet.

"Doin' a bit better than holdin' our own," Hatfield shouted. "They'll be on the lookout fer us all along the line, now, though. Our only hope is that they hain't got sense enough to derail us on a sidin'. Ef they throw a switch agin us now, we'll be turnin' in our checks fer halos an' harps, pronto!"

Past station after station they rattled, greeted several times by scattering shots from the guards, but still the main line glittered clear before them. Once they roared past a train bound the other way, safely waiting on a siding.

Hatfield nodded approval.

"They've got the right idee, son. They've give us a clear line, thinkin' that the guy behind us is gonna catch up. Mebbe they're right, at that. Yore wood ain't gonna last much longer an' the water's goin' down right fast!"

Jimmy looked at the water gauge. It was well down. And then another vague suspicion stirred him. He pointed out at the sun, now peering at them from in front of the engine.

"Don't look as if we were going in the right direction," he shouted in Hatfield's ear.

"I was wonderin' how soon youh'd find that out," Hatfield answered. "What way did yuh think we was goin'? Vladivostok?"

"Yes, of course."

"Useter hev a Heinie roundhouse foreman allers tellin' me—'Yuh hain't quite so much dam fool as yuh look.' Guess he was right. How did yuh think we cud make fourteen hundred miles in this kittle? We're bound fer Verkhudinsk, son! Back the way we come!"

Verkhudinsk—and an American garrison! Jimmy's heart bounded, only to sink again. Back like a dog with his tail between his legs, his train lost, his mission unfilled! But at least he still had the gold.

He remembered how they were always dinning into his ears that in case of emergency the man who did something—anything—according to his best judgment, was a better man than the one who sat down and waited for

JOHN HUBERT CORNYN is professor of Aztec language and literature—the only one in the world. There are three or four other teachers of the Aztec language, one in the University of Berlin, and colleagues of Professor Cornyn at Mexico's national university in Mexico City. But he alone has explored the strange literature of the mysterious race that fell before the conquering Spaniards.

In 10 years of continuous research Cornyn has discovered a number of things. He has found extensive literary works supposed to have perished with the destruction of the Indian libraries, during and after the fall of the Aztec empire. He has found that all this pre-conquest Aztec literature is composed in meter, trochaic meter, which is that employed by Longfellow in the poem, "Hiawatha." Even the great body of literature that Aztec students were required to memorize in the schools—it took from 10 to 12 years to complete the course—was in this meter.

Until the coming of the Spaniards, of course, not a word of this literature was written down. It was passed down through the centuries by memory from one generation to the next, as Homer's poem was passed along for 300 years and as the great Finnish epic, the Kalevala, survived until comparatively recent times. The Spanish priests and missionaries, anxious to convert the Aztec nobles to Christianity, supplied an alphabet to fit the spoken Aztec. They used the Roman characters of the Spanish language and in this arbitrarily improvised alphabet much of the Aztec lore was set down by young Aztec converts and in certain instances by the priests of the Aztecs.

don't call it a cure, but they say it can remove the infection, and, in most cases, if the sight has not been destroyed, improve defective vision due to the disease. When a patient stays as long as he should at the hospital—the average stay last year was 31 days—he leaves with the disease arrested, and he is told that if he takes proper care of himself he may have no further trouble with his eyes for years—perhaps the disease will never recur. Of course if ulcers have caused such scars on the eyeball that the vision is totally obscured, removal of infection will not restore sight.

THE trachoma hospital here, which supplies material for most Dr. Bengtson's laboratory work, is one of two operated by the Public Health Service, the other being at Richmond, Kentucky. Its patients are maintained and treated free, and it is usually filled to its capacity of 34 with men, women and children who have come down from their mountain cabins with reddened, smarting eyes, some of them virtually sightless, some having eyeballs so lacerated by rough granules on the inside of the lid, or by lashes that have turned in, that they cannot bear the light.

Silent, stoical people they are for the most part. Those able to do so help with work about the hospital, but there is a good deal of leisure on their hands. The men spend much of their time outdoors in good weather, for they can't smoke or chew indoors. There are croquet and other games for them and the children. The women mostly sew and talk. There is music of a sort. Most of these people of hill stock have a bent for balladry, and the sounds of fiddle and banjo are often heard in the men's quarters, accompanying some doleful story in song. A radio has recently been donated by St. Louisans.

There are three nurses, including Miss Grace Harwood, chief nurse, to handle the infinite detail of hospital operation. Not the least difficult of their tasks is that of keeping the expenditure for food within the allowance. Last month it was costing a little less than 40 cents a day to feed each patient. That provided a balanced diet.

Miss Harwood, on whom falls much of the responsibility of the hospital's management, is a veteran of the trachoma campaign, having entered the service when the Government established its first trachoma hospitals in Kentucky in 1913. She rode along mountain trails on horseback to round up trachoma sufferers for hospital and clinic, and later, when field nurses were equipped with automobiles, had the pleasure of giving some of the hill people their first motor ride.

"Is there much danger of you nurses contracting trachoma?" she was asked. The chief nurse laughed.

The LOST LEGENDS of the AZTECS BROUGHT to LIGHT at LAST

John Hubert Cornyn Has Found the Key to Documents Recently Discovered in the Archives of Spain.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

JOHN HUBERT CORNYN is professor of Aztec language and literature—the only one in the world. There are three or four other teachers of the Aztec language, one in the University of Berlin, and colleagues of Professor Cornyn at Mexico's national university in Mexico City. But he alone has explored the strange literature of the mysterious race that fell before the conquering Spaniards.

In 10 years of continuous research Cornyn has discovered a number of things. He has found extensive literary works supposed to have perished with the destruction of the Indian libraries, during and after the fall of the Aztec empire. He has found that all this pre-conquest Aztec literature is composed in meter, trochaic meter, which is that employed by Longfellow in the poem, "Hiawatha." Even the great body of literature that Aztec students were required to memorize in the schools—it took from 10 to 12 years to complete the course—was in this meter.

Until the coming of the Spaniards, of course, not a word of this literature was written down. It was passed down through the centuries by memory from one generation to the next, as Homer's poem was passed along for 300 years and as the great Finnish epic, the Kalevala, survived until comparatively recent times. The Spanish priests and missionaries, anxious to convert the Aztec nobles to Christianity, supplied an alphabet to fit the spoken Aztec. They used the Roman characters of the Spanish language and in this arbitrarily improvised alphabet much of the Aztec lore was set down by young Aztec converts and in certain instances by the priests of the Aztecs.

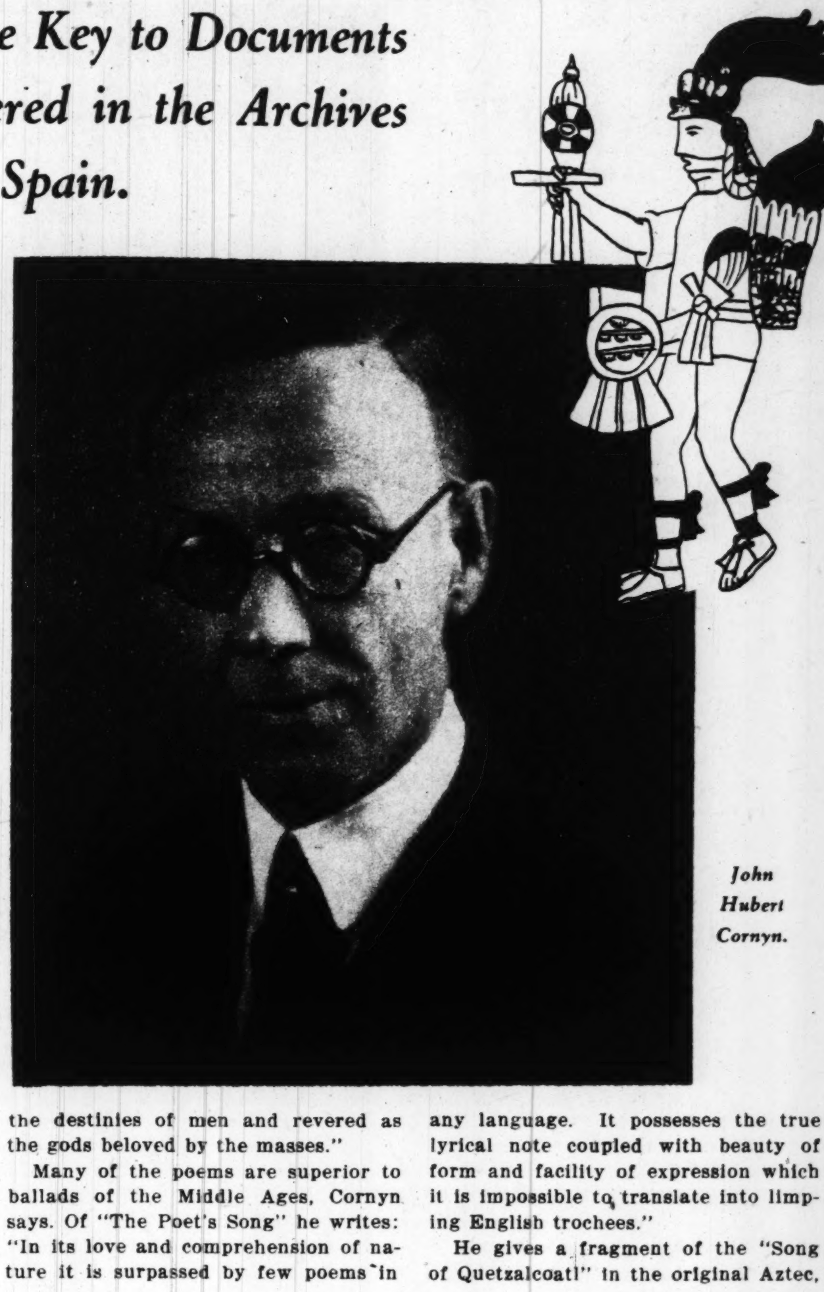
Cornyn touched on this recently in a series of lectures in St. Louis and later amplified for the writer the accounts of his researches into this "lost" language. He had with him a volume of the translation he has made from the Aztec, just issued. The book is really a text book, intended for the use of his summer school classes in the Mexican National University. But it is far more than this, for it is really poetry itself, the strangely beautiful "Song of Quetzalcoatl" and others translated into English trochaics.

In 1920, more or less by chance, Cornyn came upon facsimile copies of sixteenth century documents found in the archives of Spain. They were manuscripts made by the Aztec converts and the early missionaries. For centuries it had been thought they were lost. But some scholar, more industrious than others, ferreted them out of the enormous mass of documents in Madrid that relate to the new world. Like other scholars, Cornyn assumed at first that these writings had nothing to do with Mexico before the conquest. But he soon developed definite evidence to prove that this was the lost literature of a lost people.

The Aztecs, to be sure, had an alphabet of sorts before the coming of the Spaniards. But it was composed of very crude hieroglyphics, really pictographs, in which only the simplest single facts could be stated. It was even charged after the first documents in the improvised Aztec alphabet supplied by the conquerors were found in Spain that they had been prompted by the priests after the conquest. Cornyn has been able to disprove this to the satisfaction of scholars.

"These ancient epic poems and songs come down to us like distant echoes out of the long vanished past," Cornyn writes in the introduction to his book. "In them we hear the beating heart of a great nation destined to pass tragically out of existence. Its ways were not our ways. Its manner of living and its mode of recording its feelings, legends, traditions and ambitions were not ours; yet all literature is alike in that it pictures the manner of being of a people. These ancient poems paint, in all its varying phases and colors, the life of the Aztecs; and they are, therefore, worthy of careful and critical study."

"AZTEC literature," he says again, "is like no other existing. The court poems, of which one manuscript volume has survived the vicissitudes of four centuries, are markedly poetical, florid, imaginative and varied in form and content. Epics like the Song of Quetzalcoatl (pronounced Kayt-sal-co-atl, with the accents falling on 'kayt' and 'co,' pronounced as in 'oh'), while more concerned with the development of the narrative than the observance of the rules of fine composition, are yet well constructed and contain many spirited passages in which the imagination often plays at will. More primitive poems like the ritual of the hunters have about them an unfamiliar atmosphere that catches and holds the imagination. Through them ever march the ancient deities of once powerful races, still rulers of the destinies of men and revered as the gods beloved by the masses."



John Hubert Cornyn.

Many of the poems are superior to ballads of the Middle Ages, Cornyn says. Of "The Poet's Song" he writes: "In its love and comprehension of nature it is surpassed by few poems in any language. It possesses the true lyrical note coupled with beauty of form and facility of expression which it is impossible to translate into limping English trochees."

He gives a fragment of the "Song of Quetzalcoatl" in the original Aztec, indicating the rhetorical pause by a break in each line as follows:

In yehuatl in—Quetzalcoatl,
iuhquima—teotlipan
qui matia—nelteotiloya
teomachoia—iniquinye
uecauh in—onpan Tolan.

One of the most interesting poems, "Touenyo's Returning," contains a description of the ceremony accorded a victorious warrior:

"ALL the vestments they put on him;
Dressed him in his robes of honor;
Straightway danced the dance of him who
From the war comes bringing prisoners.
On their heels they rested dancing;
Resting on their heels went dancing,
Shouting forth their joys exceeding.
Came they dancing, came they pausing,
Singing songs with strange adornments;
Songs from out the olden ages;
Playing instruments of music.
Came they with the blare of trumpets;
With the bursting sound of trumpets;
With the wondrous noise of sea-shells.
Onward came they proudly marching
To the palace of King Huemac;
And with wondrous brilliant feathers
They, Touenyo's head adorning,
Stained his face with yellow ochre."

Cornyn has been for many years the correspondent of an American newspaper in Mexico City. He says he was literally born into the newspaper business, his father and mother having resided in Montreal in quarters over the publishing plant of the French newspaper the elder Cornyn owned. He has done newspaper work all his life. But likewise the study of languages has always been a hobby and of late years he has given most of his time to the task of reclaiming an ancient literature.

Miss Harwood is one of the volunteer assistants of Dr. Bengtson, and the two often work until late at night in the research laboratory. Office hours mean nothing to Dr. Bengtson. She is at work early and late, laboring at her unspectacular but highly important job with quiet persistence. Her attitude toward her work is extremely matter-of-fact; she has no inclination to dramatize it. She didn't care much for Sinclair Lewis' "Arrowsmith"—although liking some of his other novels—because she thought he made bacteriology a bit too theatrical.

Despite her absorption in bacteriology, Dr. Bengtson does not let the laboratory monopolize her life. She finds time for some social contact and a reading club. And occasionally she gets in her automobile and drives to St. Louis to see a show or attend a lecture or concert—and, being a woman as well as a scientist, to take a look through the shops.

this correspondent reports that the performance differs in only a few particulars from our own. Unlike the Chinese drama, women's roles are played by women. The acting is like our own, and does not consist of a series of formalized gestures, such as characterizes the art of Mei Lan-Fang. The dialogue is Bengali, a recent development, for in the ancient Hindu drama the leading characters spoke Sanskrit, only the minor characters speaking Bengali. The leading characters are usually great rulers or gods or demi-gods, for many of the Hindu dramas are based on episodes taken from the great Hindu epics, such as the Ramayana. "Sita," the first play for the New York visit, is the story of the loyalty and self-sacrifice of Sita, who was the wife of Rama, a great ruler famous in Hindu mythology. The next play, "Nadar Shah" is based on the adventures of a seventeenth century Mogul conqueror. Another one in his repertory is "The Toy Cart," a play of domestic life. In these plays Bhaduri himself collaborated with Hindu writers in adapting them to modern usage. In all these plays there are symbolic musical interludes, rendered on Hindu instruments, and the Nautch girls frequently appear with their symbolic dancing and chanting. Bhaduri brought his own scenery with him and a company of native musicians.

Adventures of the Wild Animal Merchant

all consolation, eating only enough to keep alive. Buck was forced to watch her grow thinner and thinner. Three or four days out she seemed to show a little interest in life again and Buck was encouraged. He cabled Dr. Hornaday, asking him if he wanted Lady Cyrano, the name the passengers had given the rare long-nosed monkey. The answer came back at once—yes, by all means, and the price named was a fancy one. But an hour after the boat docked, Lady Cyrano died. It is the only instance in Buck's long experience of an animal dying of grief.

Or take the king cobra, measuring nearly thirteen and a half feet, that Buck brought back to Dr. Dittmars, curator of reptiles for the New York zoo. He found it while he was looking over some tigers on the northeastern border of Johore. He bought it of an old Sakai, these strange people who are descendants of the aboriginal possessors of the Malay Peninsula.

Buck took it back to Singapore in the rickety box the native had built for it. When a fine new box with a plate-glass slide had been constructed, he sent one of his helpers for the snake. The boy stumbled, sprawled full length, letting the box fall and jarring the bottom out. As the cobra freed itself, the two Malay helpers scrambled for the highest points of safety. Buck had the presence of mind to strip off his coat and fling it down on the snake. Then what was literally a wrestling match with the king cobra follow, Buck fighting to keep the great head safely smothered. The frightened boys got up nerve enough to come to his aid after a time and the deadly snake was got into the box in which it was to journey across the ocean. In repeated instances he has endangered his own life in order to save a valuable specimen. It took a long, patient struggle to recapture the leopard that escaped on shipboard. And the way in which he got a man-eating tiger out of a deep pit and into a cage sounds a little bit like one of the labors of Hercules.

While Buck presents no figures on profit and loss, the reader concludes that the margin of gain in the animal-collecting business is slight. But the bright face of danger has apparently an irresistible appeal for Buck and so there are compensations, numerous compensations, that outweigh the absence of great material profit.

Gold Nails

orders. And, in his opinion, to save the gold was paramount.

Perhaps he was wrong. Well, that was for someone else to decide. He, at least, was doing what he thought was best, in an emergency. Perhaps that would be placed to his credit when the accounting came. He fumbled in the tender, gathering the last remaining billets of fire wood.

His last bit of wood jammed into the firebox, he slammed it shut and perched himself again on the seat, cramping his muscles to hold on. The water was out of sight in the gauge now. Hatfield tried the lowest gauge cock. Hissing steam spat out—no water. He threw up his hands.

"Ef we don't do somethin' soon we'll be ridin' a golden chariot on top of a cloud er steam," was his comforting remark. "This ol' kitte'll scatter herself all over Siberia in a leetle while!"

He peered at Jimmy.

"How about stoppin' an' surrenderin'?"

"You can," snapped the Lieutenant. "Pull up and get out. I'll run her till she blows up. Be about the best thing that could happen to me now, anyway. If I can't do anything else I can run her backward into that other train and see how much of a grand smash I can make!"

"Don't worry, son. I hain't givin' up the ship, yet. Jest wonderin' ef yuh'd play the hand out." The round face twitched. "Say, yuh've give me an idee! Kin yoh see Mister Seminoff?"

They were topping a long, cork-pulling grade. Far down the line, fully two miles behind, was the pursuing train. Mehitabel, straining and panting, had slowed to about 20 miles. Hatfield jammed his throttle closed and applied the brakes. The engine came to a stop.

"Don't stop, you fool!" raved Jimmy.

"BOY, we hain't more than 20 miles from Verkhudinsk and the post road's right over there. Pile those kags out an' we'll start Mehitabel down grade into that bay. It's the fust time I ever had a chance to stage a head-on collision, an' by gravy we'll make it a good one! Let's go!"

Working like madmen, they heaved the kegs into the ditch.

Hatfield motioned Jimmy off the engine, then jumped into the cab. Dropping the reverse lever full back, he released the brakes and pulled the throttle wide, leaving the gangway with the neat, flying jump of the experienced railroader as the engine started backwards. The pursuing train was less than a mile away now, and they could plainly see it, an armored train, the engine in the center.

They waited, fascinated. Mehitabel had covered more than half the distance to the approaching train before those on board awakened to the fact that the prey had turned on them. They saw frantic puffs of steam rise from the whistle of the other engine, saw a sudden irruption of little black objects from the cars as the crew started jumping, and then Mehitabel crashed into it, disappearing in a great cloud of steam that welled out.

To their ears came two great bursts of noise—the first a crash—that was the actual collision; the second a sullen roar—that was Mehitabel blowing up. Then to cap the climax another blob of steam squirted out of the black mass and once again the wreckage heaved and danced drunkenly. The engine of the armored train had blown up!

"Let's put these safe in the woods, son; they h'an't nobody down there interested in what we're doin' now."

IT WAS dusk in the headquarters of the Verkhudinsk garrison. The commanding officer and his adjutant were discussing the events of the day. The C. O. was mad.

"The most annoying day I've had since I came into this benighted country! Can't understand it at all. First the telegraph lines all go out, then comes this train wreck, and Seminoff accusing us of deliberately attacking his train! His people swear that an American officer was on the engine that rammed them, but I could find no traces of any American in the mess. Whoever it was went apparently stark, staring mad, stole an engine and went ramping up and down the line!"

He broke off for a moment then shot a question.

"Heard anything from Williamson and the troop train?"

"No, sir! not a word. Probably the line going out accounts for that. Nothing either from young Moorehead."

"Oh, that young fool!" The C. O.'s tones were frankly contemptuous. "We'll probably get word from Chita tomorrow that Seminoff has him and his trainload of fake ordnance stores." He chuckled. "Seminoff sure will be mad when he puts that train through a fine-tooth comb and find no gold! He'll end by sending Moorehead back with an apology and that will be that."

The adjutant laughed.

"That certainly was a great idea of yours to send Moorehead out with a fake train and spread the news that he was taking the gold."

"Yes," the C. O. admitted, modestly, "I don't think it was a bad idea, if I do say it myself. We would have had a lot of trouble sending it through openly, even with troops. You remember how near we were to a clash when Ryan ran his ordnance train through and bluffed Seminoff so cleverly. I am afraid that the gold would have been too great a temptation for the scoundrel. I'm worried that we don't hear from Williamson, though."

The door opened and a strange figure entered. On its shoulder it bore a nail keg which it dumped at the C. O.'s feet, then straightened up and saluted.

"Sir, Lieutenant Moorehead reports."

Another figure entered, a huge, red-faced man, a mammoth, bearing two kegs on his shoulders. The C. O. stunned for a moment, jumped to his feet with a roar.

"Moorehead! What in hell are you doing here?"

"Sir, my train was captured at Chita. With the help of this man here we stole an engine and saved the gold—"

"Then you are the idiot who has torn up the Trans-Siberian Railway by the roots and wrecked a train, are you?"

The C. O. was so mad that he could hardly spit the words out.

"Captured! Why in hell couldn't you stay captured, then! Do you think any sane man would trust you with real gold?"

The adjutant deftly relieved the situation.

"You see, Moorehead," he interrupted; while Hatfield stood goggle-eyed, his little pig's eyes running from one to the other of the occupants of the room, "the Commanding Officer means that you were used to cover the real gold shipment. That went down on the troop train right behind you. It was vitally necessary that a decoy should be sent, and we picked a capable officer to carry out that difficult job. Of course, we couldn't let you in on it at the time."

"Do yuh-all mean ter say," Hatfield bellowed, "that we been nursin' a load of real nails around all day?"

"Who the devil are you?" snapped the C. O.

AN ORDERLY entered before Hatfield could answer and handed a telegram to the adjutant. He seized it.

"It's from Williamson, sir, and he—he—my God!"

"What is it? What is it?" jerked the C. O.

"It's filed at Albasin, and it reads—'slight accident no one injured but kegs smashed and found to contain nails!'"

"Nails!" repeated the C. O.

"Yes, nails, dum ye!" Hatfield was mad and he didn't care who knew it. "Nothin' but nails! An' here's some more of 'em fer ye!"

With that he hurled to the ground the two kegs that he had been balancing on the shoulders. They hit the floor with a wicked crash that drove in the staves and sent the contents spilling and spinning about the C. O.'s feet in a clinking, shimmering heap of gold roubles!

For a moment that seemed an hour the only sound was the ticking of the office clock. At last the C. O. found his voice.

"Who—who did you say you were?" he asked, faintly.

"Waal, I did think for a minit I was the champeen lunkhead of the universe. Now I find I'm the guy who brought back yor gold after some slick spy in yore loading gang hed re-doubled yore leetle scheme ter double-cross Seminoff.'

He seized Moorehead by the arm.

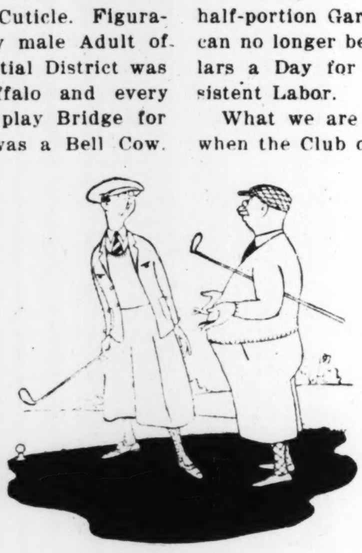
FABLES IN SLANG

Life in the Open or the Outburst of Club Spirit in Bohunkus.

ONCE there was a Town with one whole street full of Folks who wore real Silk next to the Cuticle. Figuratively speaking, every male Adult of this exclusive Residential District was a Sacred White Buffalo and every Lady old enough to play Bridge for Two Cents a Point was a Bell Cow. The whole Burg was 800 Feet above Sea Level, but those who had their Cars parked along the Boulevard were about 2000 feet above the Central and Baltic Europeans who lived beyond the Railway tracks and toiled at the Foundry.



These local Aristocrats had been to New York and professed a fondness for Caviar, so when there was any Movement on foot to transform Bohunkus from a Dump into a Metropolis they sure had to be reckoned with, because no matter how Dumb some of them were reputed to be and indubitably were, the cold Fact remained that they controlled most of the Corner Lots and practically all of the Kale.

It became evident, about the Time that the League of Nations did a Head Spin and a Flop, that Bohunkus was all set and primed to fall for the Country Club Racket.

It had to come sooner or later, so Our Best People foregathered and began to discuss Ways and Means of putting Bohunkus right in Line with Long Island and only about two Jumps behind Newport, R. I. The Large Idea was to make the Organization a Community Enterprise and welcome all Citizens who wore Collars and whose Wives had been checked up and found to be at least Careful, and who had not voted the Democratic Ticket too often.

All the Nice People who planned with so much gurgling Enthusiasm did not know, at the time, that every Town of the Bohunkus Type wishing a Country Club that will not be a Joke must dig up at least one Santa Claus who will devote the Remainder of his Life to battling with tedious Details and peeling from the Roll.

They called it Supergaleybaha, an old Indian Word meaning "Count all of your Strokes."

The first Shock was the Discovery that a capable Golf Architect costs even more than a Trained Nurse: viz., One Hundred Bucks per Diem and the number of Diems he works in is Nobody's Business. And his Predilection for spending the hard-earned Coin belonging to the would-be Bobby Joneses is something scandalous and amounts to a Disease. When he started to dig a Trap, the Intention seemed to be to go right through to China. And the Directors suspected that he bought his Grass Seed from Tiffany.

Regarding the Clubhouse, to follow a chaste and simple Design, with nothing ornate or expensive about it, the Members overlooked the Fact that Grandfather could build a Mansion for the Money now needed to put up a half-portion Garage. Skilled Workmen can no longer be obtained at Two Dollars a Day for twelve hours of persistent Labor.

What we are leading up to is that when the Club opened up with an Exhibition Match by two imported Pros, who wanted for one Afternoon what they received at St. Andrews for one Fiscal Year, followed by a Dinner Dance with Music by an Orchestra which had done Broadcasting for WXY, the Treasurer found himself so far into the Red that he began to hint darkly about an Assessment or raising the Dues. The same thing has happened to every Golf Club between Kennebunkport and Pebble Beach, and always the loudest and most shrieking Protests come from those who have acquired sinful Wealth but never have cultivated the careless Habits of a Spendthrift.

Most of them had taken out Life Memberships at Bargain Prices early in the Game and all they expected was about $1000 worth of Golf every season for an Outlay of $60, a Chicken Dinner at less than the Cost of the Poultry, and a Free Dance with a large Bowl of fortified Punch on the Side every Two Weeks. Anyone who thinks Germany is up against a Problem should sit in a Side Room for a while with the Finance Committee of a Country Club which is trying to please all the Members and their Wives and their pernicious Offspring and, at the same time, keep a Soft Pedal on the Expenditures.

The Dues were whooped. Everyone took it on the Chin except the frugal Millionaires who had subscribed for Life Memberships and who went around acting as if each of them had endowed Yale with a Library.

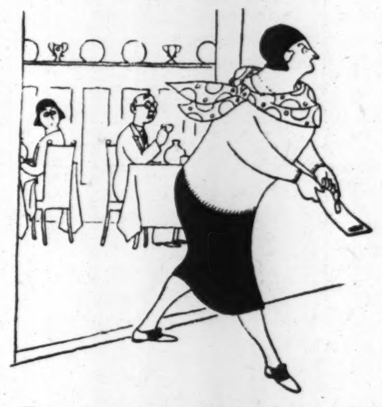
On the very first Day the visiting Pros told the Grounds Committee that the Course was too easy and did not call for enough hard Second Shots. All of the muscle-bound Cripples and flabby Weaklings who had been trying to bust 110 did not know that the Course was Soft Picking and no Test of Golf until they got word from the Experts, and then the Inferiority Complex was more overwhelming than ever before.

About the same time, the Limpets, who had all the Collateral that had not been annexed by other Bankers, Buccaneers and Business Brigands of benighted Bohunkus, were entertaining Cousin Ralph from New York. He was a Slicker with what sounded like an English Accent to One who had not visited Great Britain.

BUT when he stood up at the First Tee and got ready to drive off, all gussied up like an Order of Baked Alaska, and learned that he was on a Nine-hole Course, he almost swooned with Horror.

Cousin Ralph indicated that playing a dinky Nine-hole Course was Social Degradation. He said he belonged to a Club that had three Eighteen-hole Courses. He made many other Cracks that were all of a Kill-joy Character and very humiliating to the primitive Rubes who had been kidding themselves that they belonged to what was a sure-enough Country Club.

It was Mr. Horace Limpet who demanded an Open Meeting and repeated what Cousin Ralph had said and suggested that he, for one, could never hold up his Head again unless Supergaleybaha became an Eighteen-hole Course so tricky and difficult that Gene Sarazen and Leo Diegel would both be afraid to play it and Stout Ladies who undertook to go the Full Round would not get back until toward the Close of the Season.



Mr. Limpet did not tell the assembled paupers that he was willing to organize a Jack Pot and heave in a large mess of Dough. No. What he suggestsed was a Bond Issue. He wanted a dandy, modern Course, but he wanted somebody Else to pay for it along about 1945. A bright Idea which has been used by other Financiers who are willing to go the Limit so long as they are not compelled to dig down and cough up.

Now we find the Organization, which promised Ozone, rational Exercise and jolly Recreation at Bargain Prices, spending Oodles and Oodles of Money, whether they had it or not. To complicate Matters, the more frugal Seekers after Health and Happiness, led on by a stalwart Joan of Arc named Mrs. Ernest Difflinger, put up an awful Holler because the Restaurant was charging 35 cents for a Club Sandwich.

It was a darned backward Member who couldn't think, any Day in the Week, of something that the Club ought to buy. For instance, Mrs. Homer Ketchum interviewed her Sons and Daughters, who looked like a Mass Meeting when you got them bunched, and learned they were in favor of a couple of Tennis Courts and an Outdoor Swimming Pool.

They were what is commonly known as Junior Members, although they had been called by many other Names. They were all getting past the Gate on one Ticket and the Dues they paid were Nothing a year.

The only Difference between a Junior Member and a Sustaining Member is that the latter uses the Club twice a Week and the Former is all over the Place, making Life somewhat less Enjoyable, about Sixteen Hours out of Twenty-four. About three-fourths of the Suckers whose names were on the Roll didn't need Tennis Courts and a Swimming Pool any more than they needed a Flock of Airplanes, but an active Minority, which was burdened with a Superfluity of pestiferous Progeny, kept dinging and dinging until the Officers ran up the White Flag and ordered the Printer to print some more Bonds.

AFTER a while a Membership cost about Two Dollars less than a Seat on the Stock Exchange. The Common People took the Gaff as long as they could stand it and then began to fall by the Wayside.

At last the Club faced a terrible Crisis. Those who had a Surplus of Currency had to go down into the Grouch Bag and produce about Twenty Grand to keep Supergaleybaha from going on the Rocks. How it did hurt!

They joined so as to ramble in the Green Fields and beside the Still Waters and renew their Souls, and all they got out of the Club was a Headache. Nothing affects Golf so badly as an Assessment..

The Nerves and Muscles cannot coordinate when the Pocketbook is out of Sympathy. Some of the nicest and richest People in the Club are going to suffer.

"Ah, That Man Lafayette!" Sighs Aunt Sarah

AUNT SARAH GALLUP, the Grand Old Lady of the Adirondacks (she will be 257 years old come next Septuagesima Sunday), and I were having lunch at a cloistered nook in the Sixties.

"You'll have a demi-tasse, Aunt Sarah?" I queried, as the garcon removed the remains of two squabs which had nobly given their lives that we might eat.

The venerable lass fixed me with a cold, blue eye.

"I'll have a large cup of coffee," she said, pointedly, with emphasis on the "large," "and I'll have brandy with it."

"Mais oui, Mademoiselle," said Jean.

Miss Gallup looked at him wistfully and sighed.

"The French language," she mused. "It always reminds me of the Marquis."

"The Marquis who?"

"Why, the Marquis de Lafayette, of course. Who else?"

"You knew the great Lafayette personally?"

I knew, of course, that Aunt Sarah had been the confidante of most of the leading figures of our Revolution in her younger days, but I had never heard her mention Lafayette before. She is full of surprises. Naturally, in a life as long as hers one has a great many experiences.

"Did I know him?" she replied. "Like a book. He used to call me Sarah."

"He did!"

"Yes. I used to call him Mjprygm."

"Mjprygm?"

"Yes. You see his name was Marie Joseph Paul Roche Yves Gilbert Motier, Marquis de la Fayette, but I couldn't bother to call him all that. We were right up to our necks in the Revolution, and there wasn't time to call him by his full name. So I just took the first letter of each of his names and called him Mjprygm."

"But didn't it take you a long time to call him Mjprygm?"

"Well, it was a good deal of trouble, but I didn't mind it so much until later, when I got going around with the Baron."

"The Baron?"

"Yes. Baron Kosciusko. I met him during the Revolution, of course. He was in our set. Well, I couldn't manage both 'Kosciusko' and 'Mjprygm.' I could have managed either one, but not both. So I just decided to call Mjprygm 'Fred' and Kosciusko I called 'Mjprygm.' Later I called him Fred, too. It made everything simpler."

"How did you happen to meet Lafayette, Aunt Sarah?"

"I met him at the battle of Saratoga. I had gone there to help Benedict Arnold with the cannons. This was in early October of 1777. I was loading a cannon one day when a Frenchman came along. He stopped and asked me, in very broken English, if we hadn't met somewhere before.

"'No,' says I, 'we haven't met before and you know it. And the best thing you can do, Mr. Frenchie, is to roll your hoop along and let me paddle my own canoe.'

"'Roll my hoop! Paddle your own canoe! Oh, you Americans! You are the so funny,' said he.

"I PERCEIVED that he was charming, but I was on my guard. I was fairly young and innocent at that time, but I had heard enough about Frenchmen and the ways of Frenchmen. I didn't trust them. I do now. I've learned that a lady can be a lady in any language. That is, any language except the semaphor. A girl should never trust a sailor, my boy. John Paul Jones courted me in the semaphore language and—oh, well, I'll tell you about that some other time."

"What did you do with Lafayette? Did he roll his hoop? Did you paddle your own canoe?"

"Certainly not. Gentlemen were gentlemen in those days and a lady was never allowed to paddle her own canoe. A gentleman always paddled it for her. That day at the cannon, Lafayette went on making flowery speeches.

"'Go on, freshie,' I told him, but I felt myself weakening. 'You needn't think you can blarney me. I know you Frenchmen and I want you to distinctly understand that I prefer the honest love of an American General, rude and uncouth though he may be, to the polished phrases and insincere dallying of a heartless Frenchman."

"What did he say to that, Aunt Sarah?"

"Why, he just laughed and loaded the cannon and we were good friends from then on."

"My, it must have"——

"I mean," interrupted Miss Gallup, "from then on for a while. I later broke with him."

"You broke with Lafayette? Why?"

"He insulted me and I found it out."

"How did he insult you?"

"Well, for a long time he kept calling me his 'petit chou.' I thought that very pretty. Then one day Ben Arnold, who was very jealous of Lafayette, came to me and asked me if I know what 'petit chou' meant."

"'Why, it's a term of endearment used by the French,' I said.

"'Yeah?' said Arnold. 'It means "little cabbage."' Well, of course, I told Lafayette that very night what I thought of him and showed him the door. No Frenchman is going to call Sarah Gallup a cabbage and get away with it. I wouldn't stand that from even an American."

A series of paintings, representing the activities and the pleasures of twentieth century existence, by Thomas Hart Benton, are shortly to be exhibited at the new School for Social Research in New York. A Hogarthian touch is seen in some of the ideas.

How To Go To Sleep at Night

A Simple Way to Get 8 Hours of Sound Sleep Without Drugs—Teeming Energy All Next Day

YOU spend seven or eight hours in bed each night. But do you get 7 or 8 hours of really sound, restful sleep? Do you wake up filled with energy to carry you through the day?

Now there's a way that thousands use—on doctor's advice—to get to sleep almost as soon as they go to bed. It is as free of drugs as the bread you eat or the milk you drink. And does far more than simply induce sleep. It actually rebuilds wasted tissues while you sleep—so all next day you teem with energy and pep.

What It Is

It is called Ovaltine; a scientific food-concentrate developed in Switzerland by a scientist of world-fame. You take it in a cup of warm milk at bedtime; a super-delicious drink.

First, it induces sleep. You get sound, natural sleep a few minutes after taking it.

Then, while you sleep, its peculiar dietetic properties resupply your system with the energy lost the previous, active day. For it contains practically EVERY element necessary to vitality and energy. And thus provides not only sleep, but the kind of sleep that rebuilds and rejuvenates!

You can take it night after night and not only not form a habit, as with drugs—but actually build up your health! And so teem with energy every day.

Do you wonder then, that people are flocking to its use? New to America, Ovaltine is being recommended by over 20,000 doctors. Used over 30 years in Europe, its use has spread to over 54 different nations. It marks one of the most important scientific findings of its time.

Try It Tonight

Doctors urge it not only for sleeplessness, but for all nervous and run-down conditions. They recommend it, too, for nervous, underweight children. Thousands of busy people take it during the day to relieve fatigue and restore vitality. Widely different from powdered, sugary, chocolate, malt or cocoa "mixtures," its scientific standing is unquestioned.

A few weeks' use will make an amazing difference in the way you feel. Your whole appearance will show the result of restful sleep and vitality restored this natural way.

Believe or not what people claim for Ovaltine—but try it. Try it without delay. Start tonight. Just 'phone your druggist or grocer now—ask for a can of Ovaltine.

"For months I had suffered from nervousness and couldn't sleep at night. I tried everything with no results until I tried Ovaltine. I slept soundly the very first night, and next morning went about my duties with renewed energy. I cannot praise Ovaltine too highly."
Mrs. J. T. Brown, Wichita, Kan.

"For more than a year, my husband had trouble sleeping. But he sleeps soundly all night now, is full of 'pep' and feels fine. I'm very glad we discovered Ovaltine."
Mrs. G. R. Bigelow, Pittsburgh, Pa.

CHILDREN really do love Castoria. The tiniest infant and the growing child—both like its pleasant taste. Mothers like the way it acts. It comforts a child so quickly, and it can't do any harm.

The best child in the world will have fretful spells. But as often as he is restless, can't sleep, won't eat, has a cold or shows any fever you can always give good old Castoria. If you've tried it, you know how soon it makes a child comfortable. If you've read what's in it, you know how safe it is. (The formula is printed in plain English on the wrapper.)

Yes, Castoria is mild. Yet it is effective in real emergencies. When there's an attack of colic; or other little upset. And remember this: a more liberal dose of this pure vegetable preparation for older children is better than some stronger medicine meant only for adults.

Fletcher's Castoria is in every drugstore. No home where there are young ones should ever be without a bottle, day or night. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the wrapper. Read the valuable book on babies and children which you will find inside.

NOLTE OPPOSES MAYOR'S PLAN TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Comptroller Against Immediate Clearing of Plaza Sites and $300,000 Fund for Relief of Jobless.

WANTS CITIZENS TO MATCH CITY FUND

Opinion by Counselor Transfers Control of Buildings to Be Razed to Board of Control.

Opposition to Mayor Miller's plan to proceed at once with removal of buildings from the sites of Memorial Plaza, in the City Hall district, and Aloe Plaza, opposite Union Station, and to the Mayor's proposal to set up a $300,000 municipal fund for unemployment relief, was expressed today by Comptroller Nolte.

The Mayor and the Comptroller made public an opinion from the City Counselor that would take from the Comptroller and give to the Mayor's Board of Public Service control of the buildings on the plaza sites.

The Mayor said he would ask the Board of Public Service to have the Union Station Plaza structures razed immediately, subject to receipt of a favorable opinion on another legal point, but that nothing would be done yet about Memorial Plaza.

On Saturday the Mayor had asserted that he wanted to have both sites cleared as soon as it was legally possible. The city owns all but 15 of the 156 pieces of property in Memorial Plaza and could clear the 141 pieces it has. Unemployment relief was the primary motive in the recent general discussion as to desirability of clearing the plazas, although no funds are available for their appropriate permanent improvement.

Comptroller Nolte, discussing the $300,000 relief fund for which the Mayor introduced an ordinance in the Board of Aldermen last Friday, said: "I'm opposing it on the theory, not that it's too much money, but because the citizens, I think, should match the city's fund dollar for dollar. I will favor a $150,000 appropriation, if the people will contribute as much. To show my good faith, and I hope my colleagues will join me, I'll gladly contribute 5 per cent of my annual salary." This would be $400

Considering that he has contr of the real estate obtained for th plazas, Nolte has rented out tem porarily all of it that can be ren ed. He has opposed clearing t Memorial Plaza site because the is no money for improving it a he considers the net income fr the rentals desirable. Both p are covered by condemnation p ceedings, but the property alr obtained within them was acqu by direct purchase.

Nolte declared the City Cou or's opinion obtained by the M related only to property through condemnation, and th did not consider the plaza r tate had been gotten in tha As a result of this attitude Comptroller and the Mayor odds as to who controls th erty and may go to issue o question if Miller seeks to The Mayor had no answer to Nolte's statement concern opinion or the relief fund, to say: "He's a part of ministration; he has a righ opinion."

The Mayor and the Co also are in dispute as to tude of the Board of Est Apportionment, of which prise the majority, on th of clearing Memorial Pla had announced recently Board had decided not t plaza.
